Rural Industry And Rural Industrialisation:

The Industrialization of Rural China Chris Bramall, 2007 The Industrialization of Rural China highlights the economic social achievements of the Maoist regime Using a constructed dataset covering China's 2000 plus counties complemented by a detailed econometric study of county level industrialization in the provinces of Sichuan Guangdong Jiangsu the author shows that history mattered Rural Industrialization in China Jon Sigurdson, 2020-03-17 Small scale industries in rural areas in China are today an essential element of regional development programs This monograph analyzes two main development strategies One involves technology choices in a number of industrial sectors most of which were initiated during the Great Leap Forward in the late fifties The scaling down of modern large scale technology through a product or quality choice combined with changes in the manufacturing processes is discussed at some length for nitrogen chemical fertilizer and cement The other approach is the integrated rural development strategy where a number of activities are integrated within or closely related to the commune system This strategy includes industry as only one component of many instruments where improved public health education and improved agricultural technology contribute to achieving such policy objectives as increased employment and productivity

Rural Industry and Rural Industrialisation Ajit Kumar Sinha, 1988 The Study Based On Fieldwork Reveals That In Spite Of Planned Development Efforts Rural Industries Continue To Be An Insignificant And Inefficient Activity In The Rural Area China's Rural Industry World Bank, 1990 This book provides a comprehensive multi faceted analysis of China's booming rural nonstate collective and private industrial sector Based on a collaboration between Chinese and World Bank researchers the 19 papers compiled here offer detailed national and provincial information from four representative counties 63 townships 122 rural industrial firms and 1 174 workers and address such topics as performance and efficiency ownership and institutional structure employment and wage systems regional structure and related aspects of China's rural industrial sector This study breaks new ground in the scholarly analysis of an increasingly important highly dynamic part of China's economy

Industrialization and China's Rural Modernization Dong Fureng, 2016-07-27 This book analyses China's historical experience of industrialization It adopts a critical stance towards China's development strategy and proposes an alternative approach outlining its main features Due to the great importance and special problems of China's rural modernization special attention is devoted to analysis of the rural sector Many of China's rural socio economic problems are similar to those encountered in other developing countries It is intended that the book will increase understanding of China's socio economic development as well as contributing to wider debates in the theory of economic development

Rural Industrialization in Israel Raphael Bar-El, Ariela Neshet, Moshe Schwartz, Rachel Finkel, 2021-06-02 Rural development in Israel consists of a unique variety of industrialization experiences that may be instructive for many countries at various stages of development The social ideological political economic and organizational precepts that Israel's rural settlements are based on lend themselves to many different approaches This book deals with industrialization patterns in the kibbutz the moshav the non agricultural village and the Arab village Prevailing conditions size and labor force availability of skills infrastructure and objectives creation of employment improvement of living standards vary depending on the specific type of settlement As a result optimal policy for rural industrialization is different from village to village The authors give the general background of and define the specific development objectives for each type of village They review relevant conditions at the local and regional levels analyze the individual experiences of industrial development evaluate economic achievement and attainment of development goals and determine influential factors The final aim is to reassess Israeli policies and strategies and offer lessons to other countries undertaking rural industrialization

A Chinese Economic Revolution Linda Grove, 2006-10-12 This powerful and meticulously researched study explores the role of rural industry and entrepreneurship in the Chinese economic miracle Linda Grove considers especially the development of the Gaoyang industrial district China's best known rural industrial district of the pre World War II period By focusing on one weaving district in North China she is able to explore in detail the ways in which small industrial firms have accumulated capital organized their firms developed nationwide marketing networks and promoted brands over the last century Cutting across the conventional divide between studies of history and contemporary economy and between pre and post 1949 China the author persuasively shows the links between traditional Chinese business practices and contemporary entrepreneurial success The first book in English to explore the world of small scale business firms in China it introduces the activities of individual entrepreneurs and firms and examines the structure of industrial organization that has supported the rapid growth of individual firms Based on several decades of archival research surveys and fieldwork A Chinese Economic Revolution provides an in depth exploration of Chinese rural industry Framed by the author's extensive familiarity with rural industrial development in Japan India and Europe the book also offers important comparative perspectives for those interested in global economic history postsocialist economic performance and economic development strategies

Rural Industrialisation T. M. Dak, 1989 Viewed mainly as the growth of manufacturing sector as opposed to agriculture and the increased use of inanimate sources of power in the production of goods and services rural industrialization offers the greatest scope for absorbing the existing and growing labour force outside the field of agriculture However rural industrial scene continues to be characterised by the concentration of labour force in agriculture predominance of traditional crafts low levels of technology hereditary mode of production poor productivity and returns and low labour efficiency and utilisation Besides glorification of traditional crafts and self employment caste industry nexus and above all policy bias in favour of agriculture as against industry and large and medium capital intensive industries as against small village and cottage industries also worked as strong impediments to the development of rural crafts Drawing from the nationwide experiences this book examines the problems of the growth and modernisation of rural industries from socio economic perspectives and probes into the organisational and technology system underlying their production structure with all its implications and ramifications. The reversal of the policy favouring large modern industry sector and the spread of tiny small industries throughout the country with full package of organisational, technical, financial and marketing support in adequate measure have been strongly advocated. In addition, the integration of the development of rural industries with the overall programme of industrialisation was emphasized.

Rural Industrialization in China Jon Sigurdson, 1977. Small scale industries in rural areas in China are today an essential element of regional development programs. This monograph analyzes two main development strategies, technology choices in a number of industrial sectors and the integrated rural development strategy.

International Labour Migration to Europe's Rural Regions Johan Fredrik Rye, Karen O'Reilly, 2020-10-18. Emerging in the throes of a global pandemic that threatens Europe's economies and food security, International Labour Migration to Europe's Rural Regions combines a diverse range of empirically rich in-depth case studies, analysis of their rural context, specificities and insights from labour market and migration theories to critically examine the conditions and implications of rural labour migration. Despite its growing political, economic and social importance, our understanding of international labour migration to Europe's rural regions remains limited. This edited volume provides intricate descriptions of lived experience, critical theoretical analyses, analytical synthesis and policy recommendations for this novel and developing phenomenon that has the potential to transform the lives of international migrants and local communities. The book's 25 authors represent a wide range of social science disciplines with coverage of a vast range of Europe's rural regions and diverse types of rural labour in areas such as horticulture, shepherding, wild berry picking and fish processing. The volume will be of interest to policy makers at local, regional, national and European levels and scholars and students in a broad range of areas including migration, labour markets and rural studies. This book is available for free in PDF format as Open Access from the individual product page at www.routledge.com.

Concept and Strategy of Rural Industrial Development Ajmer Singh Malik, 1995. Dr Malik has been actively associated with various academic bodies in the discipline of Public Administration. Dr Malik has specialized in Rural Development and Personnel Administration.

Rural Industrialization In Israel Raphael Bar-el, Ariela Nesher, Mosche Schwartz, Rachel Finkel, 2019-07-11. Rural development in Israel consists of a unique variety of industrialization experiences that may be instructive for many countries at various stages of development. The social, ideological, political, economic and organizational precepts that Israel's rural settlements are based on lend themselves to many different approaches. This book deals with industrialization patterns in the kibbutz, the moshav, the non-agricultural village and the Arab village. Prevailing conditions, size and labor force availability, of skills, infrastructure and objectives, creation of employment, improvement of living standards vary depending on the specific type of settlement. As a result, optimal policy for rural industrialization is different from village to village. The authors give the general background of and define the specific development objectives for each type of village. They review relevant conditions at the local and regional levels, analyze the individual experiences of industrial development, evaluate economic achievement and attainment of development goals and determine influential factors The final aim is to reassess Israeli policies and strategies and offer lessons to other countries undertaking rural industrialization

Sources of Chinese Economic Growth, 1978-1996 Chris Bramall, 2000-09-14 This analysis of the political economy of growth in the era of Deng Xiaoping takes issue with the growth accounting methodologies and market centred explanations which characterize so much of the literature on transition era China By adopting an approach which echoes the pioneering work of Chalmers Johnson Alice Amsden and Robert Wade on other East Asian Economies and which makes full use of the rich statistical materials that have become available since 1978 this book shows that Chinese growth was driven by a combination of state led industrial policy and the favourable infrastructural legacies of the Maoist era And in giving due weight to the sheer complexity of the growth process by looking in detail at the experience of four very different Chinese regions it avoids over simplistic macroeconomic generalization Nevertheless even this type of approach is inadequate because it fails to explain why industrial policy has been so much more successful in China than in other countries This book therefore goes beyond the development state approach to argue that state autonomy in China reflected the remarkably equal distribution of income and wealth at the end of the 1970s and paradoxically the destruction of party structures and institutions during the Cultural Revolution The policy implications are stark The Chinese experience demonstrates that industrial policy and state spending on physical and social infrastructure can produce rich rewards conversely slavish reliance on foreign direct investment and trade are likely to limit the pace of growth But attempts to replicate China s success in Latin America sub Saharan Africa and South Asia will fail because their governments will not resist rent seeking by classes and interest groups Moreover as the state becomes weaker in the wake of the re emergence of a powerful capitalist class even Chinese growth may prove unsustainable

Entrepreneurial Development S S Khanka, 2006 This book is useful for B Com M Com and MBA students of all Indian Universities Presentation of various aspects of entrepreneurship is the most salient features of this book Clarity of all topics has been given throughout Description of the most difficult topics in a simple and easy to follow style has been the authors main attempt At the end of the each chapter Assessment Questions are included in this book Glossary Bibliography Author Index Subject Index and Abbreviations are incorporated at the end of the book

Revisiting Rural Places Jonathan Rigg, Peter Vandergeest, 2012-05-31 First published in Asia by NUS Press National University of Singapore

Gender and Employment in Rural China Jing Song, 2017-04-21 With China s rapid advancements in urbanization and industrialization there has been significant labor movement away from agriculture in the rural regions Using four village case studies Song examines how this restructuring process affects the rural population Much of her research is centered on their various perceptions and reactions towards the market reforms How are their lives reshaped through the employment transition Along with the changes of family life and the diversification of development models how do an individual s gender and background play a role in determining employment These are the broad questions that Song addresses through detailed analysis of four different villages in light of China's move towards decentralization of its rural economy     Transforming the Rural Nonfarm Economy Steven Haggblade, Peter B. R. Hazell, Thomas Reardon, 2007-11-16 Contrary to conventional wisdom that equates rural economies with agriculture rural residents in developing countries often rely heavily on activities other than farming for their income Indeed nonfarm work accounts for between one third and one half of rural incomes in the developing world In recent years accelerating globalization increasing competition from large businesses expanding urban markets for rural goods and services and greater availability of information and communication technology have combined to expose rural nonfarm businesses to new opportunities as well as new risks By examining these rapid changes in the rural nonfarm economy international experts explore how the rural nonfarm economy can contribute to overall economic growth in developing countries and how the poor can participate in this rapidly evolving segment of the economy The authors review an array of recent studies of the rural nonfarm economy in order to summarize existing empirical evidence explore policy implications and identify future research priorities They examine the varied scale structure and composition of the rural nonfarm economy as well as its relationship with agricultural and urban enterprises And they address key questions about the role of public intervention in the rural nonfarm economy and how the rural poor can participate in and navigate the rapid transition underway in rural areas The contributors offer new insights to specialists in rural development and to others interested in overall economic development     Rural Industries, 1925     Pigs, Profits, and Rural Communities Kendall M. Thu, E. Paul Durrenberger, 1998-07-23 This book illuminates the processes and consequences of agricultural industrialization particularly within the swine production industry for the social economic human environmental and political health of the rural United States Contributors come from widely divergent backgrounds including a former U S senator farmers a veterinarian a medical psychologist an agricultural economist a biological ecologist a farm organization president and anthropologists Set within the theoretical framework of Walter Goldschmidt's research on the community consequences of industrialized food production these contributions show that the increasing divergence of ownership has real human costs that continue to be ignored by economic developers and policymakers
