Rural Water Supply And Sanitation South Asia Rural Development Series:

Springs of Life Ganesh Pangare, Vasudha Pangare, Binayak Das, 2006 This exhaustive account of water in India documents the natural beauty of the country's bodies of water the ways in which communities live and interact with water particularly in turbulent ecosystems the resilience of people living in water stressed regions and common sense solutions to local water problems Detailing the past present and future of India's water resources this unique book combines thorough research with a coffee table style presentation with photographs that document the authors extensive travels across the country Water Resources, Sustainable Livelihoods, and Eco-system Services Indian Society for Ecological Economics. Conference, 2003 Papers In The Volume Address Issues Relating To Water Resources Sustainable Livelihoods And Eco System Sciences In India Emerging Problems Of Urban And Industrial Pollution Analyse Institution Of Water Management And Aquatic Eco System Also Point Out Future Challenges And Directions For Policy Makers Rural Water Supply and Sanitation DANIDA., 1999 This report on India's rural water supply and sanitation points out that India has achieved considerable success in providing safe drinking water to about 85% of her rural population by tapping ground and surface water through 3 million hand pumps thousands of water supply schemes and traditional sources Despite the impressive coverage of provision of safe drinking water facilities in the rural areas there are certain areas of serious concern The issue of sustainability and maintenance of quality of water supplied are cited as the two major constraints in achieving the avowed objectives In the years to come the rural water supply program is sure to have serious challenges by way of meeting the expanding needs of a fast growing population as well as the increasing demand of the population for higher service levels The adoption of the demand driven approach replacing the present supply focused approach is a pre requisite for evolving suitable cost sharing practices with active participation of the stakeholders In this background the report on the rural water supply and sanitation by the World Bank as part of the Water Resources Management Work dwells on the policy and constraint of this sector as well as on institutional and financial issues related to the sector reform process and advocates an approach to bring about radical reforms in the sector Democratic Decentralisation through a Natural Resource Lens Jesse C. Ribot, Anne M. Larson, 2013-09-13 This volume queries the state and effect of the global decentralization movement through the study of natural resource decentralizations in Africa Asia and Latin America The case studies presented here use a comparative framework to characterize the degree to which natural resource decentralizations can be said to be taking place and where possible to measure their social and environmental consequences In general the cases show that threats to national level interests are producing resistance that is fettering the struggle for reform Challenge of Sustainable Development Ramprasad Sengupta, 2003 The volume is the outcome of a symposium held at the Indian Institute of Management Calcutta IIMC in February 2001 A number of senior scholars participated from all over India Professor Ramprasad Sengupta and Professor Anup K Sinha organized the symposium under the aegis of C DEP Centre for Development and Environment Policy in IIMC Professor Ramprasad Sengupta has since then been at JNU in New Delhi Sengupta and Sinha are both professors of economics and are the editors of the proposed volume The symposium of Population Life Support and Human Development was set in the backdrop of the 2001 Census We had adopted an interdisciplinary approach in addressing questions about population trends and whether we have sufficient land for food adequate water and the ability to provide education and health for all along with the increased need for urban space In the twenty first century education and health are considered as important life support systems as the ability to access adequate food clean air and water The challenge of human development can be met by focusing on basic and substantive issues of technology as well as social institutions and policies that create the capability priorities and the distribution patterns for new and existing resources This concern lies at the core of this volume that seeks to understand the process of sustainable human development and the environmental and technological problems that constrain such improvements

Urban Water Supply and Sanitation Robin Turrell,1999 India s economic policies are aimed at increasing economic growth improving market efficiency and competitiveness and integrating the Indian economy with global markets Much of the population and industrial growth is expected to occur in urban centers Consequently the demands on the urban water supply and sanitation sector UWSS will be great Urban Water Supply and Sanitation states the UWSS sector needs urgent attention both to meet these new demands and to ensure that all city dwellers have access to basic services at reasonable costs This book outlines the way forward which includes a discussion on institutional reform and financial reform as well an action plan

Water for Rural Communities John Briscoe,David M. De Ferranti,1988 Efforts to improve the water supplies used by people in rural areas of developing countries have run into serious obstacles not only are public funds not available to build facilities for all but many newly constructed facilities have fallen into disrepair and disuse Along with the numerous failures there are also successes in this sector From these successes a new view has begun to emerge of what the guiding principles of rural water supply strategies should be This book brings together and spells out the constituents of this emerging view The central message is that it is the local people themselves not those trying to help them who have the most important role to play The community itself must be the primary decisionmaker the primary investor the primary organizer and the primary overseer The authors examine the implications of this primary principle for the main policy issues the level of service to be provided in different settings the level and mechanisms for cost recovery the roles for the private and public sectors and the role of women The potential advantages of proceeding from this outlook instead of the older top down approaches are considerable Improvement efforts are more likely to meet felt needs new facilities are more likely to be kept in service and more communities are more likely to get safe water sooner

India Nalini Kumar,2000-01-01 At head of title World Bank Operations Evaluation Department Agriculture and Anti-depression Act of 1975 United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Agriculture and Forestry,1975 Inter-sectoral Water Allocation, Planning, and Management ,1999 Fundamental changes must take place in how water is allocated planned and managed if India s goals for continued economic growth and improved social and environmental conditions are to be met India s needs are especially severe due to its rapidly developing water constraints environmental problems huge population regional inequalities in water availability along with the federal administrative structure and rapid demographic and economic growth The findings of Inter Sectoral Water Allocation Planning and Management are that a comprehensive approach is needed in order to implement change The book provides detailed recommendations in the areas of policy making legislation and regulations institutions economic incentives technology and public information

Hearings, Reports and Prints of the Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Agriculture and Forestry,1976 Year Book Australia 1970-. with its finite and fragile water resources being stressed and depleted while various sectoral demands are growing rapidly Initiating and Sustaining Water Sector Reforms offers detailed solutions to this complex and important concern

Diverting the Flow Margreet Zwarteveen, Sara Ahmed, Suman Rimal Gautam, 2014-03-11 Across the South Asian region water determines livelihoods and in some cases even survival However water also creates exclusions Access to water and its social organisation are intimately tied up with power relations This book provides an overview of gender equity and water issues relevant to South Asia The essays empirically illustrate and theoretically argue how gender intersects with other axes of social difference such as class caste ethnicity age and religion to shape water access use and management practices Divided into six thematic sections each of which starts with an introduction of relevant concepts debates and theories the book looks at laws and rights policies technologies and intervention strategies In all the book clearly shows how understanding and changing the use distribution and management of water is conditional upon understanding and accommodating gender relations Published by Zubaan
