Russell Lee Photographer:

Russell Lee, Photographer Russell Lee, Forrest Jack Hurley, 1978 A brief biography of the photographer followed by his photographs of people and places Russell Lee Photographs, 2007-03-01 Russell Lee is widely acclaimed as one of the most outstanding documentary photographers of the twentieth century His images of American life during the Great Depression created for the Farm Security Administration between 1936 and 1942 hold a preeminent place in one of history's best known and most useful photographic collections This famous body of work demonstrates Lee's extraordinary ability to reveal the humanity of his subjects and to become a part of the communities he photographed It also displays Lee's superior technical ability his legendary skill in using a flash enabled Lee to create some of the finest candids in the history of photography Russell Lee Photographs is the first book to show the full range and quality of Lee's entire oeuvre beyond the FSA work as well as the first major publication of his photographs since Forrest Jack Hurley's 1978 book Russell Lee Photographer long out of print The book contains over 140 images 101 of which have never appeared in book publication The photographs are grouped into suites of images that represent all of Lee's important non FSA subjects early work from New York City and Woodstock the Spanish speaking people of Texas the mentally and physically disabled political campaigns including the Kennedy Johnson campaign of 1960 commercial work for chemical and other companies a portfolio of images of Italy and quintessential scenes of small town life Setting Lee's images in context are a foreword by John Szarkowski one of America's leading photography curators and critics and an introduction by Lee's friend and fellow photography educator J B Colson who offers fascinating personal insights into Lee's life and career Considering Russell Lee's stature in American photography it is surprising that much of his post FSA work is unknown to the public and has been seldom seen even in the photography community By making these images readily available for the first time this book gives long overdue recognition to the full range and excellence of Lee's work Russell Lee Photographs is the essential book on this major American photographer

Russell Lee: A Photographer's Life and Legacy Mary Jane Appel, 2020-11-17 Russell Lee a contemporary of Walker Evans and Dorothea Lange now emerges from the shadows as one of the most influential documentary photographers in American history The most prolific photographer of the Great Depression Russell Lee has never been canonized for his iconic images With this compulsively readable and definitive biography historian and archivist Mary Jane Appel finally uncovers Lee's rebellious life tracing his journey from blue blood beginnings to intrepid years of activism and pioneering creativity through the incredible body of work he left behind Born in the quintessential turn of the century small town of Ottawa Illinois in 1903 Lee grew up in a wealthy family riddled with tragedy He trained in college to become a chemical engineer but was quickly drawn to Greenwich Village where he developed an interest in social change and the arts In 1935 the charismatic bohemian picked up a camera and a year later walked into the office of Roy Stryker head of the Historical Section of the Resettlement Administration later renamed the Farm Security Administration FSA setting in motion a new life trajectory The Historical

Section aimed to capture rural poverty and the New Deal programs designed to abolish it But Stryker imagined a much broader pictorial sourcebook for America and no one on his legendary team including Dorothea Lange Walker Evans and Gordon Parks among others would be more dedicated to reaching this goal than Russell Lee As Appel demonstrates Stryker and Lee developed a fascinating symbiotic relationship that resulted in a massive and complex breadth of work Living out of his car from the fall of 1936 to mid 1942 Lee crisscrossed America's back roads more than any photographer of his era During this time he shot 19 000 negatives that were captioned and printed more than twice that of any other FSA photographer He captured arresting images of sweeping dust storms and devastating floods and chronicled the World War II home front and the last gasp of a small town America that was inexorably vanishing all the while focusing prophetically on issues like segregation and climate change decades before they became national concerns Meticulously weaving previously unseen letters and diaries Appel brilliantly reveals why Lee's profile has remained obscured while his contemporaries became broadly celebrated With more than 100 images spread throughout Russell Lee speaks not only to the complexity of a pioneering documentary photographer's work but to a seminal American moment captured viscerally like never before

Far from Main Street Russell Lee, Jack Delano, 1994 The Pueblo Food Experience Cookbook is an original cookbook by for and about the Pueblo peoples of New Mexico A Bountiful Harvest Leslie A. Loveless, Arthur Melville Wettach, 2002 Although Wettach was not hired as an FSA photographer his pictures provide a fascinating parallel to the more famous work of his FSA colleagues Walker Evans Dorothea Lange and Russell Lee Yet unlike their photographs his reveal an amazing intimacy and familiarity with his subjects who were frequently his friends neighbors family members and clients BOOK JACKET Russell's Civil War Photographs Andrew J. Russell, 1982 Gathers photos of arsenals barracks stables railroad depots prisons forts pontoon bridges blockhouses and Alexandria Richmond and Washington It's All Done Gone Patsy Watkins, 2018-08-01 In 1935 a fledgling government agency embarked on a project to photograph Americans hit hardest by the Great Depression Over the next eight years the photographers of the Farm Security Administration captured nearly a quarter million images of tenant farmers and sharecroppers in the South migrant workers in California and laborers in northern industries and urban slums Of the roughly one thousand FSA photographs taken in Arkansas approximately two hundred have been selected for inclusion in this volume Portraying workers picking cotton for five cents an hour families evicted from homes for their connection with the Southern Tenant Farmers Union and the effects of flood and drought that cruelly exacerbated the impact of economic disaster these remarkable black and white images from Ben Shahn Arthur Rothstein Dorothea Lange Walker Evans Russell Lee and other acclaimed photographers illustrate the extreme hardships that so many Arkansans endured throughout this era These powerful photographs continue to resonate providing a glimpse of life in Arkansas that will captivate readers as they connect to a shared past The Likes of Us Stuart Cohen, 2009 Housed at the Library of Congress the archives of the Farm Security Administration constitute an essential visual record of American life from the late 1920s through the onset of the Second World War Guided by the adroit hands and watchful eyes of the master photo editor Roy Stryker the FSA archive includes the work of dozens of photographers from acknowledged giants like Walker Evans Ben Shahn and Dorothea Lange to Marion Post Wolcott and Russell Lee whose names and work may be less familiar Stryker s approach to his photographers assignments was a bracing mix of structure and improvisation He sent his artists across the country to shoot for a few weeks mostly in small towns and rural areas They worked from what Stryker called shooting scripts laundry lists of possible subjects and situations but were always free to explore their own perspectives on a locale its inhabitants and their activities When negatives and prints arrived Stryker would guide his artists with suggestions advice and sharp eyed criticism all designed to elicit their best work This book collects work from nine of these trips Evans in Louisiana and Alabama Shahn in West Virginia Lange in California and others uniting them with Stryker s shooting scripts letters and other relevant archival documents What emerges beyond the images themselves is a complex and vital overview of the FSA at work not just the work but how the work evolved and matured under Stryker s guidance The book concludes with photographs of New Orleans the only city photographed in depth by the FSA artists Reproduced in duotone the 175 photographs in The Likes of Us all printed from the original negatives at the Library of Congress offer a rare opportunity not only to see a choice selection of famous and little known images but also to understand the working of one of the government s most original and creative pre war initiatives

Picturing Migrants James R. Swensen, 2015-10 As time passes personal memories of the Great Depression die with those who lived through the desperate 1930s In the absence of firsthand knowledge John Steinbeck s The Grapes of Wrath and the photographs produced for the New Deal s Farm Security Administration FSA now provide most of the images that come to mind when we think of the 1930s That novel and those photographs as this book shows share a history Fully exploring this complex connection for the first time Picturing Migrants offers new insight into Steinbeck s novel and the FSA s photography and into the circumstances that have made them enduring icons of the Depression Looking at the work of Dorothea Lange Horace Bristol Arthur Rothstein and Russell Lee it is easy to imagine that these images came straight out of the pages of The Grapes of Wrath This should be no surprise James R Swensen tells us because Steinbeck explicitly turned to photographs of the period to create his visceral narrative of hope and loss among Okie migrants in search of a better life in California When the novel became an instant best seller upon its release in April 1939 some dismissed its imagery as pure fantasy Lee knew better and traveled to Oklahoma for proof The documentary pictures he produced are nothing short of a photographic illustration of the hard lives and desperate reality that Steinbeck so vividly portrayed In Picturing Migrants Swensen sets these lesser known images alongside the more familiar work of Lange and others giving us a clearer understanding of the FSA s work to publicize the plight of the migrant in the wake of the novel and John Ford s award winning film adaptation A new perspective on an era whose hardships and lessons resonate to this day Picturing Migrants lets us see as never before how a novel and a series of documentary photographs have kept the Great Depression unforgettably real for generation after generation Symbols of Ideal Life Maren Stange,1992 The documentary style that dominates American photography had its origins in the social reform publicity campaigns of the turn of the century This study traces the history of this genre and its main participants including Jacob Riis Lewis Hine Walker Evans Dorothea Lange Ben Shahn and Russell Lee A Medical Survey of the Bituminous-coal Industry United States. Coal Mines Administration,United States. Department of the Interior,United States. Office of the Administrator, Coal Mine Safety and Health,1947 Hard Luck Blues Rich Remsberg,2024-04-22 Showcasing American music and music making during the Great Depression Hard Luck Blues presents more than two hundred photographs created by the New Deal s Farm Security Administration photography program With an appreciation for the amateur and the local FSA photographers depicted a range of musicians sharing the regular music of everyday life from informal songs in migrant work camps farmers homes barn dances and on street corners to organized performances at church revivals dance halls and community festivals Captured across the nation from the northeast to the southwest the images document the last generation of musicians who learned to play without the influence of recorded sound as well as some of the pioneers of Chicago s R B scene and the first years of amplified instruments The best visual representation of American roots music performance during the Depression era Hard Luck Blues features photographs by Jack Delano Dorothea Lange Russell Lee Arthur Rothstein Ben Shahn Marion Post Wolcott and others Photographer and image researcher Rich Remsberg breathes life into the images by providing contextual details about the persons and events captured in some cases drawing on interviews with the photographers subjects Also included are a foreword by author Nicholas Dawidoff and an afterword by music historian Henry Sapoznik Published in association with the Library of Congress

A Vision Shared Hank O'Neal,2018-05 Featuring the indelible work of the eleven photographers who worked for the Farm Security Administration perhaps the finest photographic team assembled in the twentieth century A Vision Shared A Classic Portrait of America and Its People 1935 1943 was published in 1976 to great acclaim and was named one of the hundred most important books of the decade by the Association of American Publishers John Collier Jack Delano Walker Evans Theo Jung Dorothea Lange Russell Lee Carl Mydans Arthur Rothstein Ben Shahn John Vachon and Marion Post Wolcott were invited by Hank O Neal to choose the best of their own work and provide commentary 0For the fortieth anniversary edition of this remarkable volume all of the photographs text and historical material that made up the original edition have been carefully reproduced followed by a new afterword by O Neal detailing the events that followed the book s initial release Women of New Mexico Marta Weigle,1993 An intriguing collection of archival photographs from the late 1930s and 1940s depicting women s lives in settings ranging from the railroad yards at Clovis to the homestead community of Pie Town and from Taos County Hispanic villages to southern ranches Land, Sky, and All that is Within James Enyeart,1998 More than one hundred political posters from 1960 1990 help document the sociopolitical history of Latin America during a period of intense radicalism and upheaval

The Photographs of Marion Post Wolcott Marion Post Wolcott, 2008 The approximately 172 000 film negatives and transparencies in the Library of Congress's collection from the Farm Security Administration FSA later the Office of War Information OWI provide a unique view of American life during the Great Depression and World War II This government photography project headed by Roy E Stryker employed many relatively unknown names who later became some of the twentieth century's best known photographers such as Walker Evans Dorothea Lange Russell Lee Marion Post Wolcott Arthur Rothstein and Carl Mydans Initially conceived to document government loans to farmers and their subsequent resettlement in suburban communities the project expanded to create a visual record of agricultural workers across the United States Later Stryker's photographers recorded both rural and urban centers as the nation prepared for World War II Each volume in the Fields of Vision series features an introduction to the work of a single FSA photographer by a leading contemporary author or writer and presents fifty striking images that show how the particular vision of these photographers helped shape the collective identity of America Their evocative pictures transport the viewer to American homes farms and streets of the 1930s and 1940s while offering a glimpse of a new narrative and intimate style that was later to blossom on the pages of Look and Life magazines For many Americans of the pre television age the diversity and complexity of their country was defined by the lenses of these men and women This volume focuses on the photographs of Marion Post Wolcott

Ben Shahn's American Scene John Raeburn, 2010 The paintings murals and graphics of Ben Shahn have made him one of the most heralded American artists of the 20th century but during the 1930s he was among the America's premier photographers This book presents 100 photographs from his most ambitious FSA project a study of small town life in the Depression
