Magnificent Minutiae:

Bare Architecture Chris L. Smith, 2017-10-19 Bare Architecture a schizoanalysis is a poststructural exploration of the interface between architecture and the body Chris L Smith skilfully introduces and explains numerous concepts drawn from poststructural philosophy to explore the manner by which the architecture body relation may be rethought in the 21st century Multiple well known figures in the discourses of poststructuralism are invoked Gilles Deleuze and Félix Guattari Roland Barthes Georges Bataille Maurice Blanchot Jorge Luis Borges and Michel Serres These figures bring into view the philosophical frame in which the body is formulated Alongside the philosophy the architecture that Smith comes to refer to as bare architecture is explored Smith considers architecture as a complex construction and the book draws upon literature art and music to provide a critique of the limits extents and opportunities for architecture itself The book considers key works from the architects Douglas Darden Georges Pingusson Lacatan and Vassal Carlo Scarpa Peter Zumthor Marco Casagrande and Sami Rintala and Raumlabor Such works are engaged for their capacities to foster a rethinking of the relation between architecture and the body 56 Kostya Kennedy, 2011-03-10 Bookburners: Book 2 Max Gladstone, Margaret Dunlap, Brian Francis Slattery, Andrea Phillips, Mur Lafferty, Amal El-Mohtar, 2017-05-09 Magic is real and hungry trapped in ancient texts and artifacts Only a few who discover it survive to fight back Join Detective Sal Brooks newest recruit to a black ops magic hunting team backed by the Vatican as she travels the world to keep the supernatural in check Just remember watch your back and don't touch anything Fans of Supernatural The X Files Buffy the Vampire Slayer and The Da Vinci Code will love this epic urban fantasy Bookburners Season 2 is written by Max Gladstone Margaret Dunlap Brian Francis Slattery Andrea Phillips Mur Lafferty and Amal El Mohtar and presented by Serial Box Publishing The Empire of the Czar; Or, Observations On the Social, Political, and Religious State and Prospects of Russia, Made During a Journey Through That Empire Astolphe Custine, 2024-03-28 Reprint of the original first published in 1843 Magnificent Minutiae Nancy Massman, 2003-06-01 One of the perks of aging is that you have some space between yourself and events that shaped you Those experiences finally stop shifting and bobbing around long enough so you can pick them up study them and place them in the pattern that is your life Nancy Massman has done that in Magnificent Minutiae her memoir She writes early in the book This drive to examine a life and organize what has been to formulate lessons to weep and laugh with memory to make sense of it all or to get on friendly terms with what will never make sense all of this compels us to tell the universe and those we have loved in it This is the way it was for me There is nothing so extraordinary in this memoir no kings millionaires world leaders or celebrities Most lives are tied together by their magnificent minutiae And later she tells us So I live my life drenched with awe glad for this existence with its unquenchable longings to be to know to love To see the world in a grain of sand and a heaven in a wildflower William Blake says helping me to focus my gaze Massman begins by showing us some of her pioneering ancestors Two of her great grandmothers were widowed with families to support Making hammocks and fish nets one great grandma supported three daughters and sent them to college The other one had nine children when her husband died at age 47 The tenth child Massman s grandfather was born the next day Here s an example of a favorite family story a grandpa told years later Great great grandfather arriving in southern Wisconsin in the 1840s scoffed at advice that he buy land in what is now downtown Milwaukee I came to buy a farm That mud hole will never amount to anything he said Her other immigrating great grandparents would have been lost at sea in 1882 if they had been a bit earlier at the dock and had boarded their intended ship It sank with no survivors They got on another ship the next day Born in 1934 in a small town in rural Wisconsin to Hugo Max Bachhuber the town doctor and Marie Hartman Bachhuber the daughter of a merchant she had adventure and security in that simpler age when kids created their own entertainment Ball games materialized in the street after supper She sutured split softball covers with fish line using a curved needle and forceps her dad gave her Slingshotting swimming in a washed out dam site complete with a huge block of concrete from which she made a foolish jump hiking picking berries in the woods picnicking and skating filled the days as did biking though she did not have her own bike until after World War II She writes about the effect of that war on a small town and its environs of the victory gardens and the gold stars in windows Readers glimpse her eight year old brother challenging the Catholic priest in church about the doctrine of the Assumption of Mary But that can t be true Sister R s class on the facts of life Staying Pure did not enlighten young Nancy who had little clue about what the sinful it was Yet she finds some valuable nuggets in her Catholic education The school children prayed for people who were suffering Saving pennies and nickels for the mission box fostered an awareness of the interdependence of all life a value she found in her family and decades later in her new faith community She tells us about that journey too Parents siblings grandparents cousins aunts and uncles children townspeople even the town drunk enter her stories as does her grandma s mixing bowl her dad

The Burning Island Pamela Frierson, 2012-05-29 Westerners from early missionaries to explorers to present day artists scientists and tourists have always found volcanoes fascinating and disturbing Native Hawaiians in contrast revere volcanoes as a source of spiritual energy and see the volcano goddess Pele as part of the natural cycle of a continuously procreative cosmos Volcanoes hold a special place in our curiosity about nature The Burning Island is an intimate multilayered portrait of the Hawaiian volcano region a land marked by a precarious tension between the harsh reality of constant geologic change respect for mythological traditions and the pressures of economic exploitation Pamela Frierson treks up Mauna Loa the world's largest active volcano and Kilauea to explore how volcanoes work as well as how their powerful and destructive forces reshape land cultures and history Her adventures reveal surprising archeological ruins threatened rainforest ecosystems and questionable real estate development of the islands Now a classic of nature writing Frierson's narrative sets the stage for a larger exploration of our need to take great care in respecting and preserving nature and tradition while balancing our ever expanding sense of discovery and use of the land

Newman, 2018-01-31 The Nature and Use of Ecotoxicological Evidence Natural Science Statistics Psychology and Sociology examines how toxicologists and environmental professionals come to understand and make decisions about possible harm from pollutants Drawing on concepts and techniques from the natural social and mathematical sciences the book emphasizes how pollutant related evidence is gathered assessed communicated and applied in decision making Each chapter begins with a real world example before exploring fundamental cognitive social statistical or natural science concepts to explain the opening example Methods from other disciplines for recognizing reducing or removing the influence of impediments in wise decision making are highlighted in each chapter Misreading evidence by the scientific community and miscommunication to regulators and the public remain major impediments to wise action in pollution issues Which evidence comes to dominate the dialogue among scientists regulators and decision makers depends on social and scientific dynamics Yet psychological and sociological factors that influence the movement of evidence through scientific communities to regulators receive cursory discussion by professionals unfamiliar with the sociology literature Toxicologists environmental scientists psychologists and professionals and students across the sciences will find the book useful for understanding how evidence is generated assessed and communicated in their own fields Includes groundbreaking research synthesizing information from across the sciences to understand the decision making process Provides real life examples and uses theoretical concepts to analyze them in clear direct language Encourages critical thinking about complex problems Florence in Transition Marvin Becker, 2019-08-01 Originally published in 1968 In the pluralistic society of the medieval commune informal and personal ties of obligation bound men together In trecento Florence this gentle communal structure gradually evolved into the stricter more centralized organization characteristic of the modern state A growing emphasis on law and order transformed the medieval commune of the early fourteenth century into the Renaissance territorial state of the latter half of the century Professor Becker's subject is this metamorphosis Following his study of the declining communal paideia in Volume One the author examines in this second volume the growing vigor of public world as well as the attendant depersonalization and repression He is concerned primarily with two factors that he considers the major forces producing the Renaissance territorial state and encouraging the growth of imperial government and constitutionalism the intrusion of new citizens novi cives into politics after 1343 and the skyrocketing of communal debt Thus the author disputes Burckhardt's idea of the state as a work of art viewing it instead as a creation of socioeconomic mobility and deficit financing Further in examining art and literature as symptoms of developing public culture and reactions to it Professor Becker interprets them as indications of increased public involvement of the Florentine citizens thus providing a sharp refutation of Burckhardt's egoistic violent Renaissance man The author concludes his study with a detailed description of the territorial state itself pointing out the new relationship between citizen and polis which emerged in the early fifteenth century These two volumes provide a compelling and challenging interpretation of a crucial period in Western history Letters from Russia Astolphe de Custine, 2012-04-25 The Marquis de Custine's record of his trip to Russia in 1839 is a brilliantly perceptive even prophetic account of one of the world's most fascinating and troubled countries It is also a wonderful piece of travel writing Custine who met with people in all walks of life including the Czar himself offers vivid descriptions of St Petersburg and Moscow of life at court and on the street and of the impoverished Russian countryside But together with a wealth of sharply delineated incident and detail Custine's great work also presents an indelible picture roundly denounced by both Czarist and Communist regimes of a country crushed by despotism and intoxicated with slavery Letters from Russia here published in a new edition prepared by Anka Muhlstein the author of the Goncourt Prize winning biography of Custine stands with Tocqueville's Democracy in America as a profound and passionate encounter with historical forces that are still very much at work in the world today

The Prairie Club of Chicago Cathy Jean Maloney, 2001 Originally formed in 1908 as an outgrowth of the Playground Association of Chicago the Prairie Club was incorporated as a separate entity in 1911 Embodying the typical reform mentality of the Progressive era the club emphasized outdoor recreation and preservation and sponsored walking trips around Chicago's countryside Captured here in over 200 vintage photographs are the footsteps of the Prairie Club as they built a constituency for exploring and preserving the forests and fields surrounding the Windy City Like many large American cities in the early 1900s Chicago's industrialization and waves of immigration spawned crowded unhealthy urban conditions The Prairie Club turned to nature for relief from these societal ills From its first outing on Saturday April 18 1908 around Mount Forest District near Willow Springs members sponsored hikes and outdoor activities from Palos and Tinley through Hinsdale and Downers Grove and up to the North Shore With each of these walks public support grew for what ultimately became victorious efforts to establish the forest preserves Indiana Dunes and other nature spots around the burgeoning cityscape
