No Sense of Place Joshua Meyrowitz,1986-12-11 How have changes in media affected our everyday experience behavior and sense of identity Such questions have generated endless arguments and speculations but no thinker has addressed the issue with such force and originality as Joshua Meyrowitz in No Sense of Place Advancing a daring and sophisticated theory Meyrowitz shows how television and other electronic media have created new social situations that are no longer shaped by where we are or who is with us While other media experts have limited the debate to message content Meyrowitz focuses on the ways in which changes in media rearrange who knows what about whom and who knows what compared to whom making it impossible for us to behave with each other in traditional ways No Sense of Place explains how the electronic landscape has encouraged the development of More adultlike children and more childlike adults More career oriented women and more family oriented men and Leaders who try to act more like the person next door and real neighbors who want to have a greater say in local national and international affairs The dramatic changes fostered by electronic media notes Meyrowitz are neither entirely good nor entirely bad In some ways we are returning to older pre literate forms of social behavior becoming hunters and gatherers of an information age In other ways we are rushing forward into a new social world New media have helped to liberate many people from restrictive place defined roles but the resulting heightened expectations have also led to new social tensions and frustrations Once taken for granted behaviors are now subject to constant debate and negotiation The book richly explicates the quadruple pun in its title Changes in media transform how we sense information and how we make sense of our physical and social places in the world

A Sense of Place, a Sense of Time John Brinckerhoff Jackson, 1994-01-01 J B Jackson a pioneer in the field of landscape studies here takes us on a tour of American landscapes past and present showing how our surroundings reflect important changes in our culture Because we live in urban and industrial environments that are constantly evolving says Jackson time and movement are increasingly important to us and place and permanence are less so We no longer gain a feeling of community from where we live or where we assemble but from common work hours habits and customs Jackson examines the new vernacular landscape of trailers parking lots trucks loading docks and suburban garages which all reflect this emphasis on mobility and transience he redefines roads as scenes of work and leisure and social intercourse as places rather than as means of getting to places he argues that public parks are now primarily for children older people and nature lovers while more mobile or gregarious people seek recreation in shopping malls in the street and in sports arenas he traces the development of dwellings in New Mexico from prehistoric Pueblo villages to mobile homes and he criticizes the tendency of some environmentalists to venerate nature instead of interacting with it and learning to share it with others in temporary ways Written with his customary lucidity and elegance this book reveals Jackson's passion for vernacular culture his insights into a style of life that blurs the boundaries between work and leisure between middle and working classes and between public and private spaces

A Sense of Place and Belonging Klemens Karlsson, 2025-03-15 A Sense of Place and Belonging examines a marginalized society Chiang Tung Keng Tung in the Eastern Shan State of Myanmar between the dominant cultures of the Burmese Chinese and Siamese Thai Chiang Tung sits at the historic borderland known as the Golden Triangle an area marked by drug trade human trafficking and civil war Hiding a glorious literary and visual cultural tradition from the fourteenth century Chiang Tung is remarkable for how well it has maintained its Buddhist culture in the turbulent history of war and forced resettlement that formed northern Southeast Asia Klemens Karlsson examines the connection between the Buddhist traditions the ancient cult of territory spirits a cult of the earth place and village that forms a kind of religious map and the monsoon culture of wet rice irrigation Tying together myths and memories told by local people and written in local chronicles with the unique performance of the Songkran festival which dramatizes a symbolic agreement between Tai Khuen people and the indigenous Lua Lawa people A Sense of Place and Belonging presents a historical political religious and cultural context connecting the present with the past the local with the global and tradition with change and transformation Place-Keeping Nicola Dempsey, Harry Smith, Mel Burton, 2014-03-21 Place Keeping presents the latest research and practice on place keeping that is the long term management of public and private open spaces from around Europe and the rest of the world There has long been a focus in urban landscape planning and urban design on the creation of high quality public spaces or place making This is supported by a growing body of research which shows how high quality public spaces are economically and socially beneficial for local communities and contribute positively to residents quality of life and wellbeing However while large amounts of capital are spent on the creation of open spaces little thought is given to and insufficient resources made available for the long term maintenance and management of public spaces or place keeping Without place keeping public spaces can fall into a downward spiral of disrepair where anti social behaviour can emerge and residents may feel unsafe and choose to use other spaces The economic and social costs of restoring such spaces can therefore be considerable where place keeping does not occur Place Keeping also provides an accessible presentation of the outputs of a major European Union funded project MP4 Making Places Profitable Public and Private Open Spaces which further extends the knowledge and debate on long term management of public and private spaces It will be an invaluable resource for students academics and practitioners seeking critical but practical guidance on the long term management of public and private spaces in a range of contexts
