Civilizing Peace Building Wendy M. Sargent, 2016-05-23 Highlighting the high price paid by the United Nations and international peace builders that underutilize the reflexive new paradigm approach to international relations IR this study develops an overview of IR theory relied on by governmental and diplomatic communities as a guide to peace building Especially significant is the development of IR theory in relation to religious extremism and tendencies towards barbarism with modernities It discusses outcomes such as the exponential growth of international enmity between diverse populations and public demonization of the religious or ethnic other expressed most recently through the War on Terror Central to this research is the emerging debate on the impact of religious and cultural identity on IR and peace building While many IR books continue to research positivist approaches Sargent looks at the concept of structural violence as identified using post positive approaches This book rethinks peace building outside the limits of ideological difference

Overcoming America / America Overcoming Stephen C. Rowe, 2013-03-13 In Overcoming America America Overcoming Stephen Rowe shows how the moral disease and political paralysis that plague America are symptomatic of the fact that America herself has been overtaken by the modern values which she exported to the rest of the world He points to a way out of this current and potentially fatal malaise join other societies which are also struggling to move beyond the modern and consciously reappropriate those elements of tradition which have to do with cultivation of the mature human being To avoid fundamentalism Rowe discusses how this reappropriation must be undertaken in dialogue with those who also have come to recognize the unsustainable quality of the modern life and who have been able to live beyond the nihilistic wish to tear it down This book supports the call for an emerging global ethic and spirituality providing resources of articulation and interpretation that allow for an ongoing dialogue between traditional and modern values both worthy and problematic in their own ways through which reliable policy and healthy living become possible Big Vision, Small Business Jamie S. Theorizing About Intercultural Communication William B. Gudykunst, 2005 Second theories can be designed to describe how communication varies across cultures

Leadership-as-Practice Joseph A. Raelin, 2016-01-29 This book develops a new paradigm in the field of leadership studies referred to as the leadership as practice L A P movement Its essence is its conception of leadership as occurring as a practice rather than residing in the traits or behaviours of particular individuals A practice is a coordinative effort among participants who choose through their own rules to achieve a distinctive outcome It also tends to encompass routines as well as problem solving or coping skills often tacit that are shared by a community Accordingly leadership as practice is less about what one person thinks or does and more about what people may accomplish together It is thus concerned with how leadership emerges and unfolds through day to day experience The social and material contingencies impacting the leadership constellation the people who are effecting leadership at any given time do not reside outside of leadership but are very much embedded within it To find leadership then we must look to the practice within which it is occurring The leadership as practice approach resonates with a number of closely related traditions such as collective shared distributed and relational leadership that converge on leadership processes These approaches share a line of inquiry that acknowledges leadership as a social phenomenon The new focus opens up a plethora of research opportunities encouraging the study of social processes beyond influence such as intersubjective agency shared

When religious diversity is our reality radical hospitality to people of other faiths is not a luxury but a necessity More than necessary for our survival radical hospitality to religious diversity is necessary if we are to thrive as a global society By no means does the practice of hospitality in a multifaith world require that we be oblivious of our differences On the contrary it demands a respectful embrace of our differences because that is who we are Neither does radical hospitality require that we water down our commitment because faithfulness and openness are not contradictory We must be able to say with burning passion that we are open to the claims of other faiths because we are faithful to our religious heritage The essays in this book do not offer simply theological exhortations they offer specific ways of how we can become religiously competent citizens in a multifaith world Let's take the bold steps of radical openness with this book on our side Socratic Circles Matt Copeland, 2023-10-10
