For Kids of All Ages Peter Keough, 2019-11-27 Members of the National Society of Film Critics celebrate the wonder and magic of childhood in cinema with original essays commissioned especially for this collection alongside classic reviews from prominent film critics From animated features to adaptations of beloved novels the films explored in this collection offer a range of viewing options to entertain and inform kids from preschoolers to teenagers The New Poverty Row Fred Olen Ray, 1991-01-01 Since cinema's earliest beginnings there has been friction between producers and directors Shady accounting practices which favored the distributors at the expense of the filmmakers were all too common causing many filmmakers to form independent companies to make and distribute their own product This book examines six such low budget exploitation companies Associated Distributors Productions Filmgroup Hemisphere Pictures American General Pictures Independent International Pictures Dimension Pictures and the author's own American Independent Productions A brief history of each company laced with quotes from the company's principals is presented followed by a filmography that lists all known credits for that company Making Peoples James Belich, 2002-02-28 Now in paper This immensely readable book full of drama and humor as well as scholarship is a watershed in the writing of New Zealand history In making many new assertions and challenging many historical myths it seeks to reinterpret our approach to the past Given New Zealand's small population short history and great isolation the history of the archipelago has been saddled with a reputation for mundanity According to James Belich however it is just these characteristics that make New Zealand a historian's paradise a laboratory whose isolation size and recency is an advantage in which the grand themes of world history are often played out more rapidly more separately and therefore more discernably than elsewhere The first of two planned volumes Making Peoples begins with the Polynesian settlement and its development into the Maori tribes in the eleventh century It traces the great encounter between independent Maoridom and expanding Europe from 1642 to 1916 including the foundation of the Pakeha the neo Europeans of New Zealand between the 1830s and the 1880s It describes the forging of a neo Polynesia and a neo Britain and the traumatic interaction between them The author carefully examines the myths and realities that drove the colonialization process and suggests a new living version of one of the most critical and controversial documents in New Zealand's history the Treaty of Waitangi frequently described as New Zealand's Magna Carta The construction of peoples Maori and Pakeha is a recurring theme the response of each to the great shift from extractive to sustainable economics their relationship with their Hawaikis or ancestors with each other and with myth Essential reading for anyone interested in New Zealand history and in the history of new societies in general A Life Remembered Deborah Ann O'Neil, 2020-11-04 When I first thought about writing this book I struggled with names for the characters Do I write factual events or create them How deeply should I go into my story And the list went on and on For years I jotted down ideas and toyed with being open and honest about my life's journey both the good and the ugly and then I finally came to the realization if I can help just one person in their struggles by being truly honest then that was the best way to go about writing this book And so I began the journey of unveiling my trials and tribulations as well as my many joys to you the reader so that you could experience those moments and take away from each chapter something that may help you realize that you are special and that you have unique talents that only you can bring into this world My message is never give up and always remember that change begins with you

B Is for Bad Cinema Claire Perkins, Constantine Verevis, 2014-03-01 Considers films that lurk on the boundaries of acceptability in taste style and politics B Is for Bad Cinema continues and extends but does not limit itself to the trends in film scholarship that have made cult and exploitation films and other low genres increasingly acceptable objects for critical analysis Springing from discussions of taste and value in film these original essays mark out the broad contours of bad that is aesthetically morally or commercially disreputable cinema While some of the essays share a kinship with recent discussions of B movies and cult films they do not describe a single aesthetic category or represent a single methodology or critical agenda but variously approach bad cinema in terms of aesthetics politics and cultural value The volume covers a range of issues from the aesthetic and industrial mechanics of low budget production through the terrain of audience responses and cinematic affect and on to the broader moral and ethical implications of the material As a result B Is for Bad Cinema takes an interest in a variety of film examples overblown Hollywood blockbusters faux pornographic works and European art house films to consider those that lurk on the boundaries of acceptability
