Modernise Or Decline Richard Hooper, Deirdre Hutton, Ian R. Smith, 2008 This review Cm 7529 ISBN 9780102958393 was established to maintain the universal postal service that is the collection sorting transportation and delivery of letters to all 28 million businesses and residential addresses It sets out a number of conclusions and recommendations on how the universal service can be maintained The postal service is seen as having a strong social and economic rationale Customers place a high value on the affordability of the service on a uniform tariff and deliveries on six days per week The Review states that the post offices provide a vital point of access for residential consumers and small businesses The universal service is under threat though with the explosion of digital media the internet email mobile text and broadcasting which has prompted an unprecedented decline in the letters market The Review does see a positive future for the postal service provided that postal companies are able to respond quickly to the changing needs of customers and embrace the opportunities which new technology brings Although the Royal Mail is the only company currently capable of providing the universal service in the UK it is much less efficient than many of its European peers and faces severe difficulties Therefore a radical reform of the Royal Mail's network is inevitable and the organisation needs to modernise faster To sustain the universal service the Royal Mail needs to tackle inefficiency the pension deficit and the difficult relationships between the company unions and regulator The Review sees two distinct phases to modernisation i Transformation that is changing the culture of the organisation by improving efficiency and reducing costs ii Diversify that is finding new sources of revenue either by providing related products or expanding to cover a wider geographical area The Review believes that the Royal Mail urgently needs commercial confidence capital and corporate experience to modernise quickly and effectively and recommends a strategic partnership with one or more private sector companies with demonstrable experience of transforming a major business ideally a major network business but that Post Office Ltd should remain wholly within public sector ownership Saving the Royal Mail's universal postal service in the digital age Richard Hooper, Great Britain Department for Business, Innovation and Skills, 2010-09-10 The Coalition Government asked Richard Hooper to update the 2008 report Modernise or decline policies to maintain the universal postal service in the United Kingdom Cm 7529 2008 ISBN 9780101752923 He finds the universal postal service still under serious threat with most of the original causes for concern having got worse the market and Royal Mail's market share continue to decline the company has still not modernised sufficiently the accounting pension deficit has grown from 2.9bn to 8.0bn the current regulatory regime is not fit for purpose The 2008 recommendation that private sector capital is required by Royal Mail is reiterated for several reasons The company is unlikely to generate sufficient cash to finance the modernisation required Private sector capital will inject private sector disciplines and reduce the risk of political intervention in commercial decisions And the state of the public finances means that Royal Mail will find it harder to compete for Government capital against other public spending priorities But private capital will not be attracted without action on the pension deficit and the regulatory regime The historic pension deficit should be taken over by the public purse A new regulatory framework must be created that increases certainty for investors in the postal services sector in general and in Royal Mail in particular Postcomm has recently consulted on a new framework and this should be built upon This update sets out the high level principles that should guide regulation ensuring the overall burden is reduced

Delivering for the future Great Britain: Department for Business, Innovation and Skills,2010-10-13 This paper outlines the Government's proposals that aim to safeguard the universal postal service and secure sustainable futures for the Royal Mail and the Post Office It follows on from two reports by Richard Hooper Modernise or decline Cm 7529 2008 ISBN 9780101752923 and Saving the Royal Mail's universal postal service in the digital age Cm 7937 2010 ISBN 9780101793728 The associated Postal Services Bill Bill 78 ISBN 9780215546357 will allow private sector investment in Royal Mail to bring in commercial disciplines and the potential for new capital The Government will sell shares in Royal Mail to achieve this investment An employee share scheme will also be established which will hold at least 10 per cent of the equity in Royal Mail The historic pension deficit of some 8.4 billion will be transferred to Government and a new public sector pension scheme created The Government also makes clear that the Post Office is not for sale but the Bill allows for the possibility of mutual ownership in the future Finally the regulation of the postal services sector is to be modernised The responsibility for the mail sector will transfer from Postcomm to Ofcom with a primary responsibility to act in a way that will secure the future of the universal postal service Extra safeguards for the universal postal service are put in place by the Bill

Protecting Consumers? Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Committee of Public Accounts,2008 This is the 52nd report from the Committee of Public Accounts HC 571 session 2007-08 ISBN 9780215524928 and it follows an NAO report HC 342 session 2007-08 ISBN 9780102953114 It looks at protection of consumers through removal of price controls by regulators examines the benefits of this decision to different groups of consumers and the challenges of regulating these markets The regulators Ofcom Ofgem and Postcomm have statutory objectives requiring them to protect consumers through the introduction of competition where appropriate Between 2002 and 2006 each removed retail price controls from the following fixed line telephone provision gas and electricity supply special delivery postal services for business account users Once price controls are removed regulators rely on consumers to switch suppliers so in theory rewarding companies who offer good service and competitive prices For this to work consumers need good information about the different suppliers must be able to switch supplier easily have confidence in the market to believe changing supplier will make a difference and when necessary obtain redress if the company behaves anti competitively Regulators need to ensure the competition is working effectively and that there is protection for vulnerable consumers especially at a time of large increases in energy prices and telecoms prices above those of most countries

Progress in the Competitive Agenda in the Postal and Delivery Sector Michael A. Crew,Paul R. Kleindorfer,2009-01-01 Regulation continues to be an important issue in the postal and delivery sector of the global economy This latest volume in the Advances in Regulatory Economics series reflects the latest research on trends and policies affecting the postal sector and progress made in the industry s competitive agenda It is global in scope and covers a broad range of legal and economic issues from leading scholars researchers and policy makers Topics covered include service quality and price caps the impact of price regulation on service quality financing the USO cost analysis and pricing of innovative postal products postal demand studies the effects of intermedia competition mail order demand Internet advertising trends in direct mail legal and regulatory issues related to the postal sector competitive strategies in the parcel market and environmental impacts of mail The book also provides concrete analyses of the driving forces underlying restructuring transformation and privatization strategies of postal operators Scholars and practitioners in public sector economics and postal regulation will appreciate this in depth treatment of their industry

The Future of the Post Office Peter Robinson,Marcus Rubin,1999

The Postal Services Bill Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Business and Enterprise Committee,2009 In Modernise or decline policies to maintain the universal postal service in the United Kingdom Cm 7529 ISBN 9780101752923 the Hooper review confirmed that Royal Mail Group was the only company capable of delivering the service and proposed a package to deal with the Group s problems The state should take responsibility for the historic pension deficit there should be a new regulatory regime in which mail services would be regulated as part of wider communications services and most controversially there should be a private sector equity partner in Royal Mail The Government accepted these proposals Cm 7560 ISBN 9780101756020 and introduced the Postal Services Bill HL Bill 24 ISBN 9780108454530 The Committee supports the proposals on the pension fund and the new regulatory regime But it does not consider that the case has been made that these two reforms can only be made as part of a package which includes the third reform the involvement of a private sector equity partner in Royal Mail The provisions contained in the Bill allowing such a partnership are not necessary or desirable as the Government already has powers to sell shares to enable Royal Mail to participate in a joint venture There is a lack of clarity over how much investment is needed or where that investment will come from while the Government appears to have no business plan and has not indicated the use to which any private sector capital would be put Given this uncertainty the case must rest on its non financial benefits and the Committee poses several questions about the proposed partnership which must be addressed

Handbook of Worldwide Postal Reform Michael A. Crew,Paul R. Kleindorfer,James I. Campbell,2009-01-01 The postal and delivery sector has been the subject of considerable interest in recent years This book brings together a number of contributions directed at understanding developments in the field of postal reform The authors review the experience and plans of individual countries to provide some perspective on the problems faced in the area and the varied approaches being taken to address it They also review key elements of policy and strategy that are important in this debate
