Mainstreaming And The Minority Child:

Mainstreaming and the Minority Child Reginald Lanier Jones, 1976 Why Are So Many Minority Students in Special Education? Beth Harry, Janette K. Klingner, 2014-04-01 The second edition of this powerful book examines the disproportionate placement of Black and Hispanic students in special education. The authors present compelling research-based stories representing the range of experiences faced by culturally and linguistically diverse students who fall in the liminal shadow of perceived disability. They examine the children's experiences, their families' interactions with school personnel, the teachers and schools' estimation of the children and their families, and the school climate that influences decisions about referrals to special education. Based on the authors' 4 years of ethnographic research in a large culturally diverse school district, the book concludes with recommendations for improving educational practice, teacher training, and policy renewal.

Mainstreaming, 1981 Mainstreaming and the Minority Child, 1976 Minority and Mainstream Children's Development and Academic Achievement Virginia Gonzalez, 2007 Presently, school populations represent a culturally and linguistically diverse student body. Students are put at risk of failure in the school environment due to overlooked developmental factors and external socio-historical factors. Due to this shift in diversification, non-traditional educational needs must be recognized. This work offers a comparative and alternative framework for students and faculty to address this contemporary challenge. It presents a unique state-of-the-art ecological and multidimensional view of the differential effect of socio-cultural and socioeconomic factors on the development of both minority and majority students. The database studies illustrate methodological advances in the field of ethnic research and provide solutions for traditional methodological problems.

Mainstreaming and the Minority Child Gerry Mandell, 1975 Placing Children in Special Education National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Commission on Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on Child Development Research and Public Policy, Panel on Selection and Placement of Students in Programs for the Mentally Retarded, 1982-02-01 The document contains the final report of a project to determine the factors that account for disproportionate representation of minority students in special education programs, especially programs for mentally retarded students, and to identify placement criteria for practices that do not affect minority students disproportionately. Chapter 1 looks at six potential causes of disproportionate placement of minorities in educable mentally retarded EMR programs: legal and administrative requirements, characteristics of students, quality of the instruction received, possible biases in the assessment process, characteristics of the home and family environment, and broader historical and cultural contexts. Chapter 2 describes characteristics of EMR students, then reviews the historical origins of special education in America, with attention to the role of the standardized intelligence test for identification and placement of mentally retarded students. A third chapter is split into two sections: one on the issues surrounding the instruments that comprise a comprehensive battery for assessing a child who is unable to learn normally in the classroom, and the other on an ideal assessment process in which the comprehensive assessment would be embedded Chapter 4 considers the components of effective education programs for EMR students and reviews three approaches to instruction the separate class structure the resource room and the teacher consultant model A final chapter lists recommendations for improvements in special education referral assessment and placement procedures and instructional practices More than half the document is comprised of six background papers with the following titles and authors Biological and Social Factors Contributing to Mild Mental Retardation J Shonkoff Classifying Mentally Retarded Students A Review of Placement Practices in Special Education W Bickel Testing in Educational Placement Issues and Evidence J Travers Effects of Special Education Placement on Educable Mentally Retarded Children K Heller Some Potential Incentives of Special Education Funding Practices S Magnetti and Patterns in Special Education Placement as Revealed by the OCR Survey J Finn SB Other People's Children Lisa D.
