Maintaining Functions In Older Adults:

Providing Healthy and Safe Foods As We Age Institute of Medicine, Food and Nutrition Board, Food Forum, 2010-11-29 Does a longer life mean a healthier life The number of adults over 65 in the United States is growing but many may not be aware that they are at greater risk from foodborne diseases and their nutritional needs change as they age The IOM's Food Forum held a workshop October 29-30 2009 to discuss food safety and nutrition concerns for older adults

When I'm 64 National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Behavioral, Cognitive, and Sensory Sciences, Committee on Aging Frontiers in Social Psychology, Personality, and Adult Developmental Psychology, 2006-02-13 By 2030 there will be about 70 million people in the United States who are older than 64 Approximately 26 percent of these will be racial and ethnic minorities Overall the older population will be more diverse and better educated than their earlier cohorts The range of late life outcomes is very dramatic with old age being a significantly different experience for financially secure and well educated people than for poor and uneducated people The early mission of behavioral science research focused on identifying problems of older adults such as isolation caregiving and dementia Today the field of gerontology is more interdisciplinary When I'm 64 examines how individual and social behavior play a role in understanding diverse outcomes in old age It also explores the implications of an aging workforce on the economy The book recommends that the National Institute on Aging focus its research support in social personality and life span psychology in four areas motivation and behavioral change socioemotional influences on decision making the influence of social engagement on cognition and the effects of stereotypes on self and others When I'm 64 is a useful resource for policymakers researchers and medical professionals

Families Caring for an Aging America National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Health and Medicine Division, Board on Health Care Services, Committee on Family Caregiving for Older Adults, 2016-12-08 Family caregiving affects millions of Americans every day in all walks of life At least 17.7 million individuals in the United States are caregivers of an older adult with a health or functional limitation The nation's family caregivers provide the lion's share of long term care for our older adult population They are also central to older adults access to and receipt of health care and community based social services Yet the need to recognize and support caregivers is among the least appreciated challenges facing the aging U.S. population Families Caring for an Aging America examines the prevalence and nature of family caregiving of older adults and the available evidence on the effectiveness of programs supports and other interventions designed to support family caregivers This report also assesses and recommends policies to address the needs of family caregivers and to minimize the barriers that they encounter in trying to meet the needs of older adults

Cells and Surveys National Research Council, Commission on Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on Population, 2001-01-19 What can social science and demography in particular reasonably expect to learn from biological information There is increasing pressure for multipurpose household surveys to collect biological data along with the more familiar interviewer respondent information Given that recent technical developments have made it more feasible to collect biological information in non clinical settings those who fund design and analyze survey data need to think through the rationale and potential consequences This is a concern that transcends national boundaries Cells and Surveys addresses issues such as which biologic genetic data should be collected in order to be most useful to a range of social scientists and whether amassing biological data has unintended side effects The book also takes a look at the various ethical and legal concerns that such data collection entails Maintaining Function in Older Life Newman,1998-12

Nutrition Alice Callahan,Heather Leonard,Tamberly Powell,2020 Restorative Care Nursing for Older Adults Barbara Resnick, PhD, CRNP, FGSA, FAANP, FAAN,2004-07-28 The purpose of restorative care nursing is to take an active role in helping older adults maintain their highest level of function thus preventing excess disability This book was written to help formal and informal caregivers and administrators at all levels to understand the basic philosophy of restorative care and be able to develop and implement successful restorative care programs The book provides a complete 6 week education program in restorative care for caregivers many suggestions for suitable activities and practical strategies for motivating both older adults and caregivers to engage in restorative care In addition the book provides an overview of the requirements for restorative care across all settings the necessary documentation and ways in which to complete that documentation A Healthier You ,2005 Exercise and Physical Activity for Older Adults Danielle R. Bouchard,2021 This book discusses the physical benefits of exercise and physical activity when aging without major diseases making this book unique in the sense of its primary prevention focus Nutrition for the Older Adult Melissa Bernstein,Ann Luggen,2010 Nutrition for the Older Adult is a clear comprehensive text that introduces students to nutrition and health promotion for older adults Covering such important topics as the physiological changes of aging weight and nutrition problems in older adults nutritional assessment and support for the elderly and diet and cultural diversity as well as exercise prescriptions for older adults this text is an essential resource for students in the fields of nutrition nursing and gerontology Interdisciplinary Nutritional Management and Care for Older Adults Ólöf G. Geirsdóttir,Jack J. Bell,2021-09-10 This open access book aims to primarily support nurses as leaders and champions of multimodal Interdisciplinary nutrition care for older adults A structured approach to fundamentals of nutrition care across Interdisciplinary settings is combined with additional short chapters about special topics in geriatric nutrition The book is designed to provide highly accessible information on evidence based management and care for older adults with a focus on practical guidance and advice across acute rehabilitation and primary and secondary malnutrition prevention settings The cost of malnutrition in England alone has been estimated to be 19.6 billion per year or more than 15% of the total public expenditure on health and social care 65 years The importance and benefit of specialised nutrition care delivered by experts in field is well established for those with complex nutrition care needs However despite the substantial adverse impact of malnutrition on patient and healthcare outcomes specialised management of this condition is often under resourced overlooked and under prioritised by both older adults and their treating teams As an alternative timely efficient and effective supportive nutrition care opportunities may be appropriately implemented by nurses and non specialist Interdisciplinary healthcare team members working together with nutrition specialists and the older adults they care for Practical low risk opportunities should be considered across nutrition screening assessment intervention and monitoring domains for many patients with or at risk of malnutrition Whilst a variety of team members may contribute to supportive nutrition care the nursing profession provide a clear focal point Nurses across diverse settings provide the backbone for Interdisciplinary teamwork and essential patient care The nursing profession should consequently be considered best placed to administer Interdisciplinary multimodal nutrition care wherever specialist nutrition care referrals are unlikely to add value or are simply not available As such the book is a valuable resource for all healthcare providers dedicated to working with older patients to improve nutrition care
