Maiolica In The Making:

Maiolica in the Making Catherine Hess, 1999 In the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries potters from the Italian village of Castelli d'Abruzzo created wares that constitute a final supremely pictorial phase of the tin glazed earthenware art known as maiolica Here Catherine Hess documents the Gentili Barabei archive a recently acquired collection of 276 documents relating to these celebrated ceramics to show how it illuminates the production of maiolica Majolica Mania Susan Weber, 2021-01-12 The first comprehensive study of the most important ceramic innovation of the 19th century Colorful wildly imaginative and technically innovative majolica was functional and aesthetic ceramic ware Its subject matter reflects a range of 19th century preoccupations from botany and zoology to popular humor and the macabre Majolica Mania examines the medium's considerable impact from wares used in domestic settings to monumental pieces at the World's Fairs Essays by international experts address the extensive output of the originators and manufacturers in England including Minton Wedgwood and George Jones and the migration of English craftsmen to the U S New research including information on important American makers in New York Baltimore and Philadelphia is also featured Fully illustrated the book is enlivened by new photography of pieces from major museums and private collections in the U S and Great Britain Italian Maiolica and Other Early Modern Ceramics in the Courtauld Gallery Elisa Sani, 2023 This is the first catalogue of the collection of early modern ceramics in the Courtauld The pieces in the collection showcase brilliantly the skill of potters and pottery painters working at the time of Raphael and Titian Maiolica is one of the most revealing expressions of Renaissance art Its extraordinary range of colours retain the vividness that they had when they left the potter's kiln Italian potters absorbed techniques and shapes from the Islamic world and incorporated ornament and subject matter from the arts of ancient Rome This new approach to pottery making combined with the invention of printing woodcut and engraving resulted in an extraordinary type of painted pottery praised by Vasari in his Lives of the Artists for surpassing the ancient with its brilliance of glaze and variety of painting The collection boasts a magnificent group of vessels made during the high Renaissance the golden age of Italian maiolica It includes precious and delicate Deruta lustreware with imagery deriving from Perugino and Raphael as well as vessels painted in a narrative style of pottery painting known as istoriato Highlights include vessels depicting episodes taken from the first printed Bibles of the Renaissance Istoriato maiolica flourished particularly in the lands of the Dukes of Urbino who promoted this craft by sending painted pottery to prestigious patrons across Europe A Book of Porcelain Bernard Rackham, 1910 It is the experience probably of most Western amateurs of porcelain to pass through three successive stages of development in their appreciation of an art which even for the uninitiated for those who have no knowledge of its history and little understanding of its technical aspects is not lacking in charm and fascination pg xiii The Arts of Fire Catherine Hess, Linda Komaroff, George Saliba, 2004 Students and scholars of the Italian Renaissance easily fall under the spell of its achievements its self-confident humanism its groundbreaking scientific innovations its ravishing artistic production Yet many of the developments in Italian ceramics and glass were made possible by Italy's proximity to the Islamic world The Arts of Fire underscores how central the Islamic influence was on this luxury art of the Italian Renaissance Published to coincide with an exhibition at the Getty Museum on view from May 4 to September 5 2004 The Arts of Fire demonstrates how many of the techniques of glass and ceramic production and ornamentation were first developed in the Islamic East between the eighth and twelfth centuries These techniques enamel and gilding on glass and tin glaze and luster on ceramics produced brilliant and colorful decoration that was a source of awe and admiration transforming these crafts for the first time into works of art and true luxury commodities Essays by Catherine Hess George Saliba and Linda Komaroff demonstrate early modern Europe's debts to the Islamic world and help us better understand the interrelationships of cultures over time

Edward FORTNUM,1873 The Art Collector in Early Modern Italy Monika Schmitter,2021-09-23 Lorenzo Lotto's Portrait of Andrea Odoni is one of the most famous paintings of the Italian Renaissance Son of an immigrant and a member of the non noble citizen class Odoni understood how the power of art could make a name for himself and his family in his adopted homeland Far from emulating Venetian patricians however he set himself apart through the works he collected and the way he displayed them In this book Monika Schmitter imaginatively reconstructs Odoni's house essentially a portrait of Odoni through his surroundings and possessions Schmitter's detailed analysis of Odoni's life and portrait reveals how sixteenth century individuals drew on contemporary ideas about spirituality history and science to forge their own theories about the power of things and the agency of object She shows how Lotto's painting served as a meta commentary on the practice of collecting and on the ability of material things to transform the self Made in Naples & the Amalfi Coast Laura Morelli,2015-10-01 *A Descriptive Catalogue of the Maiolica, Hispano-Moresco, Persian, Damascus and Rhodian Wares, in the South Kensington Museum.
