Indispensable Eyesores Mélanie van der Hoorn, 2009-05-01 Collapsing concrete colossuses run down overgrown skeletons immutable architectural misfits the outcasts from our built environment which we are dying to dispose of and yet cannot do without have inspired many ghost stories crime novels and urban legends Such narratives reveal the significance of architectural eyesores for the people who live or work in or near them After exploring various approaches to building lives and deaths the author presents a rich variety of undesired edifices in Germany Hungary Austria and Bosnia Herzegovina and investigates the different methods used to dispose of them eliminating damaging transforming or reframing them abandoning them to progressive dilapidation or virtually rejecting them Discarding an edifice however need not bring its social life to an end This analysis continues with a reflection on the afterlife of unwanted buildings and concludes with a discussion on the life expectancy of buildings their multi sensory materiality and thingly agency Design Activism Alastair

Fuad-Luke, 2013-06-17 Design academics and practitioners are facing a multiplicity of challenges in a dynamic complex world moving faster than the current design paradigm which is largely tied to the values and imperatives of commercial enterprise Current education and practice need to evolve to ensure that the discipline of design meets sustainability drivers and equips students teachers and professionals for the near future New approaches methods and tools are urgently required as sustainability expands the context for design and what it means to be a designer Design activists who comprise a diverse range of designers teachers and other actors are setting new ambitions for design They seek to fundamentally challenge how where and when design can catalyse positive impacts to address sustainability They are also challenging who can utilise the power of the design process To date examination of contemporary and emergent design activism is poorly represented in the literature This book will provide a rigorous exploration of design activism that will re vitalise the design debate and provide a solid platform for students teachers design professionals and other disciplines interested in transformative design activism Design Activism provides a comprehensive study of contemporary and emergent design activism This activism has a dual aim to make positive impacts towards more sustainable ways of living and working and to challenge and reinvigorate design praxis It will collate synthesise and analyse design activist approaches processes methods tools and inspirational examples outcomes from disparate sources and in doing so will create a specific canon of work to illuminate contemporary design discourse Design Activism reveals the power of design for positive social and environmental change design with a central activist role in the sustainability challenge Inspired by past design activists and set against the context of global local tensions expressions of design activism are mapped The nature of contemporary design activism is explored from individual collective action to the infrastructure that supports it generating powerful participatory design approaches a diverse toolbox and inspirational outcomes This is design as a political and social act design to enable adaptive societal capacity for co futuring Overgrown Julian Raxworthy, 2023-08-01 A call for landscape architects to leave the office and return to the garden Addressing one of the most repressed subjects in landscape architecture this book could only have been written by someone who is both an experienced gardener and a landscape architect With Overgrown Julian Raxworthy offers a watershed work in the tradition of Ian McHarg Anne Whiston Spirn Kevin Lynch and J B Jackson As a discipline landscape architecture has distanced itself from gardening and landscape architects take pains to distinguish themselves from gardeners or landscapers Landscape architects tend to imagine gardens from the office representing plants with drawings or other simulations whereas gardeners work in the dirt in real time planting pruning and maintaining In Overgrown Raxworthy calls for the integration of landscape architecture and gardening Each has something to offer the other Landscape architecture can design beautiful spaces and gardening can enhance and deepen the beauty of garden environments over time Growth says Raxworthy is the medium of garden development landscape architects should leave the office and go into the garden in order to know growth in an organic nonsimulated way Raxworthy proposes a new practice for working with plant material that he terms the viridic after the tectonic in architecture from the Latin word for green with its associations of spring and growth He builds his argument for the viridic through six generously illustrated case studies of gardens that range from formal to informal approaches from a sixteenth century French Renaissance water garden to a Scottish poet scientist's marginal garden barely differentiated from nature Raxworthy argues that landscape architectural practice itself needs to be gardened brought back into the field He offers a Manifesto for the Viridic that casts designers and plants as vegetal partners in a renewed practice of landscape gardening

Urban Interstices: The Aesthetics and the Politics of the In-between Andrea Mubi Brighenti, 2016-02-11 Bringing together a team of international scholars with an interest in urban transformations spatial justice and territoriality this volume questions how the interstice is related to the emerging processes of partitioning enclave making and zoning showing how in between spaces are intimately related to larger flows networks territories and boundaries Illustrated with a range of case studies from places such as the US Quebec the UK Italy Gaza Iraq India and South east Asia the volume analyses the place and function of interstitial locales in both a disciplined urban space and a disordered space conceptualized through the notions of excess danger and threat Warning not to romanticize the interstice the book invites us to study it as not simply a place but also a set of phenomena events and social interactions How are interstices perceived and represented What is the politics of visibility that is applied to them How to capture their peculiar rhythms speeds and affects On the one hand interstices open up venues for informality improvisation challenge and bricolage playful as well as angry statements on the neoliberal city and enhanced urban inequalities On the other hand they also represent a crucial site of governance even governance by withdrawal and urban management where an array of techniques ranging from military urbanism to new forms of value extraction are experimented At the point of convergence of all these tensions interstices appear as veritable sites of transformation where social forces clash and mesh prefiguring our urban future The book interrogates these territories proposing new ways to explore the dynamics events and visibilities that define them     Design & Nature IV C. A. Brebbia, 2008 Design in engineering and science has often been inspired by nature This has been more evident in recent years after a period during which our civilization thought in terms of taming rather than working in harmony with nature The consequences of that approach are still with us and have resulted in a world increasingly homogenized lacking in biodiversity and with increased pollution Mankind has been slow to learn and even slower to apply the lessons that nature offers in spite of the urgency of our predicament This book contains papers presented at the fourth International Conference on Comparing Design in Nature with Science and Engineering The emphasis of this Volume is on engineering and architectural applications and on biomimetics reflecting in some measure current interest in finding environmentally friendly solutions which also optimize the use of natural resources The contributions have been arranged into the following topics Biomimetics Shape and Form in Engineering Nature Nature and Architectural Design Natural Materials and Surfaces Complexity and Education     Landscape Ecology in the Dutch Context T.M. de Jong, J.N.M. Dekker, R. Posthoorn, 2017-04-03 This book is the result of three symposia of the Dutch Society for Landscape Ecology Werkgemeenschap voor Landschapsecologisch Onderzoek about the Dutch National Ecological Network urban ecology and civil infrastructure The three topics among others show important contexts in which landscape ecologists do their research and apply their knowledge and skills The book focuses on urbanisation intensive land use and water management as characteristic features of the Netherlands and therefore presents an important view on landscape ecology in the Dutch context     Archis, 2004     Internationale Bibliographie der Rezensionen wissenschaftlicher Literatur, 2003     Bibliographic Guide to Art and Architecture New York Public Library. Art and Architecture Division, 1980     Forthcoming Books Rose Arny, 2003     Louis G. Le Roy Louis Guillaume Roy, 2002 For more than 30 years Louis Le Roy has been working on an enormous structure in a meadow at the Friesian settlement of Mildam near Heerenveen in the Netherlands There Le Roy's Eco Cathedral continues to grow out of discarded street rubble piled up by his bare hands the surrounding nature growing unhindered in response to the question what can one person achieve working with nature in space and time     Spatial Intelligence Leon Van Schaik, 2008-10-20 The book is organised into three distinct sections that in turn highlight the significance of spatial intelligence for architecture the first section provides an overview of spatial intelligence as a human capability the second section argues how the acknowledgement of this capability in architectural education and the profession should enable the demystification of the practice of design forming the basis of a more democratic interface between society and practice the final section explores exciting new opportunities for practice in the linking of real and virtual environments in the information age     The Nature of Urban Design Alexandros Washburn, 2013-10-03 The best cities become an ingrained part of their residents identities Urban design is the key to this process but all too often citizens abandon it to professionals unable to see a way to express what they love and value in their own neighborhoods New in paperback this visually rich book by Alexandros Washburn former Chief Urban Designer of the

New York Department of City Planning redefines urban design His book empowers urbanites and lays the foundations for a new approach to design that will help cities to prosper in an uncertain future He asks his readers to consider how cities shape communities for it is the strength of our communities he argues that will determine how we respond to crises like Hurricane Sandy whose floodwaters he watched from his home in Red Hook Brooklyn Washburn draws heavily on his experience within the New York City planning system while highlighting forward thinking developments in cities around the world He grounds his book in the realities of political and financial challenges that hasten or hinder even the most beautiful designs By discussing projects like the High Line and the Harlem Children s Zone as well as examples from Seoul to Singapore he explores the nuances of the urban design process while emphasizing the importance of individuals with the drive to make a difference in their city Throughout the book Washburn shows how a well designed city can be the most efficient equitable safe and enriching place on earth The Nature of Urban Design provides a framework for participating in the process of change and will inspire and inform anyone who cares about cities Through Vegetal Being Luce

Irigaray, Michael Marder, 2016-07-05 Blossoming from a correspondence between Luce Irigaray and Michael Marder Through Vegetal Being is an intense personal philosophical and political meditation on the significance of the vegetal for our lives our ways of thinking and our relations with human and nonhuman beings The vegetal world has the potential to rescue our planet and our species and offers us a way to abandon past metaphysics without falling into nihilism Luce Irigaray has argued in her philosophical work that living and coexisting are deficient unless we recognize sexuate difference as a crucial dimension of our existence Michael Marder believes the same is true for vegetal difference Irigaray and Marder consider how plants contribute to human development by sustaining our breathing nourishing our senses and keeping our bodies and minds alive They note the importance of returning to ancient Greek tradition and engaging with Eastern teachings to revive a culture closer to nature As a result we can reestablish roots when we are displaced and recover the vital energy we need to improve our sensibility and relation to others This generative discussion points toward a more universal way of becoming human that is embedded in the vegetal world Subnature David Gissen, 2012-03-20 We are conditioned over time to regard environmental forces such as dust mud gas smoke debris weeds and insects as inimical to architecture Much of today s discussion about sustainable and green design revolves around efforts to clean or filter out these primitive elements While mostly the direct result of human habitation these subnatural forces are nothing new In fact our ability to manage these forces has long defined the limits of civilized life From its origins architecture has been engaged in both fighting and embracing these so called destructive forces In Subnature David Gissen author of our critically acclaimed Big and Green examines experimental work by today s leading designers scholars philosophers and biologists that rejects the idea that humans can somehow recreate a purely natural world free of the untidy elements that actually constitute nature Each chapter provides an examination of a particular form of subnature and its actualization in contemporary design practice The exhilarating and at times unsettling work featured in Subnature suggests an alternative view of natural processes and ecosystems and their relationships to human society and architecture. R Sie n s Mosquito Bottleneck house in Trinidad uses a skin that actually attracts mosquitoes and moves them through the building while keeping them separate from the occupants. In his building designs the architect Philippe Rahm draws the dank air from the earth and the gasses and moisture from our breath to define new forms of spatial experience. In his Underground House Mollier House and Omnisport Hall Rahm forces us to consider the odor of soil and the emissions from our body as the natural context of a future architecture. Cero 9 s design for the Magic Mountain captures excess heat emitted from a power generator in Ames Iowa to fuel a rose garden that embellishes the industrial site and creates a natural mountain rising above the city s skyline. Subnature looks beyond LEED ratings green roofs and solar panels toward a progressive architecture based on a radical new conception of nature.

Landscape and Western Art Malcolm Andrews, 1999 This book explores many issues raised by the range of ideas and images of the natural world in Western art since the Renaissance. The whole concept of landscape is examined as a representation of the relationship between the human and natural worlds. Featured artists include Claude Freidrich Turner Cole and Ruisdael and many different forms of landscape art are addressed such as land art painting photography garden design panorama and cartography.

A History of Groves Jan Woudstra, Colin Roth, 2017-08-24 The grove a grouping of trees intentionally cultivated or found growing wild has a long diverse history entwined with human settlement rural practices and the culture and politics of cities. A grove can be a memorial a place of learning a site of poetic retreat and philosophy or political encampment a public park or theatre a place of hidden pleasures a symbol of a vanished forest ecology or a place of gods or other spirits. Yet groves are largely absent from our contemporary vocabulary and rarely included in today s landscape practice whether urban or rural. Groves are both literal and metaphorical manifestations ways of defining spaces and ecologies in our cultural life. Since they can add meaning to urban forms and ecologies and contribute meaningfully to the significance of place critical examination is long overdue. The editors have taken care to ensure that the text is accessible to the general reader as well as specialists.

The Language of Landscape Anne Whiston Spirn, 1998-01-01 This eloquent and powerful book combines poetry and pragmatism to teach the language of landscape. Anne Whiston Spirn author of the award winning The Granite Garden Urban Nature and Human Design argues that the language of landscape exists with its own syntax grammar and metaphors and that we imperil ourselves by failing to learn to read and speak this language. To understand the meanings of landscape our habitat is to see the world differently and to enable ourselves to avoid profound aesthetic and environmental mistakes. Offering examples that range across thousands of years and five continents Spirn examines urban rural and natural landscapes. She discusses the thought of renowned landscape authors Thomas Jefferson Frank Lloyd Wright Frederick Law Olmsted Lawrence Halprin and of less well known pioneers including Australian architect Glenn Murcutt and Danish landscape artist C Th S rensen. She discusses instances of great landscape designers using landscape fluently masterfully and sometimes cynically And in a probing analysis of the many meanings of landscape Spirn shows how one person s ideal landscape may be another s nightmare how Utopian landscapes can be dark There is danger when we lose the connection between a place and our understanding of it Spirn warns and she calls for change in the way we shape our environment based on the notions of nature as a set of ideas and landscape as the expression of action and ideas in place      The Landscape Urbanism Reader Charles Waldheim,2012-03-20 In The Landscape Urbanism Reader Charles Waldheim who is at the forefront of this new movement has assembled the definitive collection of essays by many of the field s top practitioners Fourteen essays written by leading figures across a range of disciplines and from around the world including James Corner Linda Pollak Alan Berger Pierre Bolanger Julia Czerniak and more capture the origins the contemporary milieu and the aspirations of this relatively new field The Landscape Urbanism Reader is an inspiring signal to the future of city making as well as an indispensable reference for students teachers architects and urban planners

Planting Green Roofs and Living Walls Nigel Dunnett,Noël Kingsbury,2004 This book introduces a revolutionary new concept to gardeners Planting on roofs and walls began in Europe but it is now becoming popular all over the world Green roofs and walls reduce pollution and run off and also help insulate and reduce the maintenance needs of buildings Planting Green Roofs and Living Walls discusses the practical techniques required to make planting on roofs and walls a reality It describes how roofs may be modified to bear the weight of vegetation considers the different options for drainage layers and growing media and lists the plants suitable for different climates and environments This informative book will encourage gardeners everywhere to consider the enormous benefits to be gained from planting on their roofs and walls
