

An illustration of six people in 16th-century attire standing in a courtyard with arches. A man in a blue jacket and dark pants is on the left, gesturing towards a group of four people. The group consists of two women in purple and blue dresses, a man in a blue jacket, and a woman in a dark dress with a white collar. To the right, a woman in a red dress with a gold corset stands looking on. The background features a large archway and a dark, rocky landscape.

EXILED HEARTS

Frances Clifford valued her family's manor above all the rubies and pearls in the world. But it would take more than a king's ransom to win Four Winds back after Queen Elizabeth accused her dead father of having stolen a priceless jewel—and awarded the estate to a foreign courtier. When the queen ordered her to marry the very man who had invaded her life, Frances vowed not to let him plunder her virtue as well.

But Gaston de Vere was determined Frances would be mistress of his heart as well as his home. To claim the boundless treasures of her love, Gaston would guide Frances on a dangerous quest to prove her father's innocence. Only when the past was laid to rest could Gaston hope to conquer the yearning, rebellious beauty who stirred a hungry passion within him.

Suffering and the Remedy of Art Harold Schweizer, 1997-03-20 This book suggests that a listening to suffering may profit from a literary hearing and vice versa It is not only that literature tells of suffering but that suffering may tell us something about the nature of literature The author examines works and texts that range from medicine to literature philosophy to photography prose to poetry and from Antigone to W H Auden The book presents individual instances real and literary of physical and mental wounds and diseases of pain and death endured by a little girl in a burn ward a boy wounded in the war in Bosnia a nameless Vietnamese woman Job Antigone as well as a number of mostly lyrical elegists a survivor of the holocaust a wife bereft of her husband a daughter bereft of her father The autonomy of each chapter suggests that experiences of suffering are always incomparable One must in every instance begin again and enter the scene of suffering on its own terms the radically individual nature of suffering is prior or past to any theory or set of generalizations

The Wonder of Touch William E. Dorman, 2021-04-19 The central message of this book is that the well being of body mind spirit and planet requires that we nurture our connections From our skin to the cosmic to sights and sounds to the Transcendent this book takes us by the hand to marvel at how life itself is a constellation of interrelationships of touch We cannot not touch and be touched Humans live in a biosphere of touch the touch thriving and bustling within our bodies the touch of our relationships with family and friends the touch between neighbors the touch with Mother Nature and the touch with the Transcendent Selfishness and self centeredness are the powers withering us and the planet In our confrontation with our anxiety at death guilt and meaningless we sever the very interrelations that nourish and enrich life It is imperative as perhaps never before that we restore our touch with our deepest selves others Mother Nature and the Transcendent
