Practical Spreadsheet Statistics and Curve Fitting for Scientists and Engineers Louis M. Mezei, Michael A. Cusumano, 1990 Though Japan has successfully competed with U S companies in the manufacturing and marketing of computer hardware it has been less successful in developing computer programs. This book contains the first detailed analysis of how Japanese firms have tried to redress this imbalance by applying their skills in engineering and production management to software development. Cusumano focuses on the creation of software factories in which large numbers of people are engaged in developing software in cooperative ways i.e. individual programs are not developed in isolation but rather utilize portions of other programs already developed whenever possible and then yield usable portions for other programs being written. Devoting chapters to working methods at System Developing Corp Hitachi Toshiba NEC and Fujitsu and including a comparison of Japanese and U S software factories Cusumano's book will be important reading for all people involved in software and computer technology as well as those interested in Japanese business and corporate culture. The Scientist, 1988 The Conference on Computers in Physics Instruction Edward F. Redish, John S. Risley, 1990 Computers are revolutionizing activities in all areas of life. Physics researchers accustomed to being at the forefront of technology have been deeply affected by the computer revolution. This effect has serious implications for what is taught and how it is taught in the physics classroom. This conference was organized to allow physics teachers and software developers in physics education to come together and see the state of the art in using computers to teach physics. The conference included 39 invited lectures and 122 contributed presentations. It introduced a number of innovations in the hope of increasing interactions and stimulating future contacts.
