Louis Andriessen De Staat Landmarks In Music Since 195:

Modern Music and After Paul Griffiths, 2011-02-16 Over three decades Paul Griffiths's survey has remained the definitive study of music since the Second World War this fully revised and updated edition re-establishes Modern Music and After as the preeminent introduction to the music of our time The disruptions of the war and the struggles of the ensuing peace were reflected in the music of the time in Pierre Boulez's radical reformation of compositional technique and in John Cage's development of zen music in Milton Babbitt's settling of the serial system and in Dmitry Shostakovich's unsettling symphonies in Karlheinz Stockhausen's development of electronic music and in Luigi Nono's pursuit of the universally human in Iannis Xenakis's view of music as sounding mathematics and in Luciano Berio's consideration of it as language The initiatives of these composers and their contemporaries opened prospects that haven't yet stopped unfolding This constant expansion of musical thinking since 1945 has left us with no singular history of music Griffiths's study accordingly follows several different paths showing how and why they converge and diverge This new edition of Modern Music and After discusses not only the music of the fifteen years that have passed since the previous edition but also the recent explosion of scholarly interest in the latter half of the twentieth century In particular the book has been expanded to incorporate the variety of responses to the modernist impasse experienced by composers of the 1980s and 1990s Griffiths then moves the book into the twenty first century as he examines such highly influential composers as Helmut Lachenmann and Salvatore Sciarrino For its breadth wealth of detail and characteristic wit and clarity the third edition of Modern Music and After is required reading for the student and the enquiring listener Music for Piano and Orchestra, Enlarged Edition Maurice

Hinson, 1993-09-22 Suitable for all admirers of the piano this work brings together more than 3 000 works for piano and orchestra It comes with a supplement containing over 200 new entries Narratives of Low Countries History and Culture Jane Fenoulhet, Lesley Gilbert, Ulrich Tiedau, 2016-11-07 This edited collection explores the ways in which our understanding of the past in Dutch history and culture can be rethought to consider not only how it forms part of the present but how it can relate also to the future Divided into three parts The Uses of Myth and History The Past as Illumination of Cultural Context and Historiography in Focus this book seeks to demonstrate the importance of the past by investigating the transmission of culture and its transformations It reflects on the history of historiography and looks critically at the products of the historiographic process such as Dutch and Afrikaans literary history The chapters cover a range of disciplines and approaches some authors offer a broad view of a particular period such as Jonathan Israel's contribution on myth and history in the ideological politics of the Dutch Golden Age while others zoom in on specific genres texts or historical moments such as Benjamin Schmidt's study of the doolhof a word that today means labyrinth but once described a 17th century educational amusement park This volume enlightening and home to multiple paths of enquiry leading in different directions is an excellent example of what a past present doolhof might look like On the Threshold of Beauty, 2014-04-30 On the Threshold of Beauty is an exciting and detailed reconstruction of the emergence of electronic music in the Netherlands. Kees Tazelaar, composer and head of the Institute of Sonology at the Royal Conservatoire in The Hague, relates its turbulent history from the earliest beginnings in the mid 1920s through to the postwar era and the emergence of musique concrète. This history begins around 1930 at the Philips Physics Laboratory and the creation of the now legendary Philips Pavilion at Expo 58 in Brussels for which Le Corbusier, Iannis Xenakis and Edgar Varèse collaborated on an extraordinary son et lumière extravaganza. In 1960 Philips divested itself of the laboratory and it was absorbed into a new studio at Utrecht University where Gottfried Michael Koenig became artistic director. In 1964 Tazelaar also looks in detail at the influence wielded by the Contact Organization for Electronic Music during this period and at the work of Dutch electronic pioneers Jan Boerman and Dick Raaijmakers.

Painting and publishing as cultural industries Claartje Rasterhoff, 2017-07-11

Painting and Publishing as Cultural Industries 1580-1800 addresses how a small country like the Dutch Republic could become a major player in the creation of cultural goods during the Golden Age. On the basis of quantitative and qualitative sources from art history and book history, Claartje Rasterhoff traces the evolution of the painting and publishing industries from modest trades to booming industries. Informed by studies on cultural industries, she focuses on the role of industrial organization in shaping patterns of growth and innovation. Much like their present-day counterparts, early modern Dutch cultural industries were spatially concentrated, highly networked and institutionally embedded. This distinct organizational structure helped to reduce uncertainty in the market and stimulated the commercial and creative potential of painters and publishers for a century. At least Dutch painters and publishers had catered to their markets so rapidly and in such variety that the exceptional levels of output, quality and innovation accomplished during the first half of the seventeenth century could not be sustained. As producers came to face saturated domestic markets, they took to limiting risks and strengthening their distribution and marketing activities. By introducing the concepts of business cycles and spatial clusters, Rasterhoff offers a novel explanation.

painting and sculpture in Europe North and South America and Japan has proved to be a difficult enterprise At any international show the jury is faced with the all but unanswerable question of who is to be invited and who is to get the prizes The number of young artists has become virtually infinite the concept of art has expanded beyond all measure and yet any interference by a jury is regarded as untimely Everything is art from works in a legitimate tradition to the most daring experiments with light projections or stagily ordered ensembles and we do not have far to go to the time when mere indications will be given instead of worked out sketches indications for a public whatever its reactions might be Not so long ago any exhibition of modern art referred to Cezanne to Cubism or to Klee's universal Geviert People went back to the researches of Freud and Jung spoke of archaic structural elements and looked for possible parallels between what art was saying and what Einstein and Planck were saying in science New aspects were found of reality of the artist world relationship of the artists and the world's mutual containment rather than their mutual opposition But all that is of very limited interest to painters and sculptors today Mathieu was shocked by Wols and found that he was marking the end to the development since 1880 for young contemporaries he is a glorious legend in which his death is as important as his work They would be just as unwilling to learn from Wols as from Hans Hartung and his thinking hand which forms the meaning of his world About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
