The World Republic of Letters Pascale Casanova, 2004 The world of letters has always seemed a matter more of metaphor than of global reality In this book Pascale Casanova shows us the state of world literature behind the stylistic refinements a world of letters relatively independent from economic and political realms and in which language systems aesthetic orders and genres struggle for dominance Rejecting facile talk of globalization with its suggestion of a happy literary melting pot Casanova exposes an emerging regime of inequality in the world of letters where minor languages and literatures are subject to the invisible but implacable violence of their dominant counterparts Inspired by the writings of Fernand Braudel and Pierre Bourdieu this ambitious book develops the first systematic model for understanding the production circulation and valuing of literature worldwide Casanova proposes a baseline from which we might measure the newness and modernity of the world of letters the literary equivalent of the meridian at Greenwich She argues for the importance of literary capital and its role in giving value and legitimacy to nations in their incessant struggle for international power Within her overarching theory Casanova locates three main periods in the genesis of world literature Latin French and German and closely examines three towering figures in the world republic of letters Kafka Joyce and Faulkner Her work provides a rich and surprising view of the political struggles of our modern world one framed by sites of publication circulation translation and efforts at literary annexation

Muriel Rukeyser's the Book of the Dead Tim Dayton, 2015-05-05 The Book of the Dead by Muriel Rukeyser was published as part of her 1938 volume U S 1 The poem which is probably the most ambitious and least understood work of Depression era American verse commemorates the worst industrial accident in U S history the Gauley Tunnel tragedy In this terrible disaster an undetermined number of men likely somewhere between 700 and 800 died of acute silicosis a lung disorder caused by prolonged inhalation of silica dust after working on a tunnel project in Fayette County West Virginia in the early 1930s After many years of relative neglect The Book of the Dead has recently returned to print and has become the subject of critical attention In Muriel Rukeyser s The Book of the Dead Tim Dayton continues that study by characterizing the literary and political world of Rukeyser at the time she wrote The Book of the Dead Rukeyser s poem clearly emerges from 1930s radicalism as well as from Rukeyser s deeply felt calling to poetry After describing the world from which the poem emerged Dayton sets up the fundamental factual matters with which the poem is concerned detailing the circumstances of the Gauley Tunnel tragedy and establishes a framework derived from the classical tripartite division of the genres epic lyric and dramatic Through this framework he sees Rukeyser presenting a multifaceted reflection upon the significance particularly the historical significance of the Gauley Tunnel tragedy For Rukeyser that disaster was the emblem of a history in which those who do the work of the world are denied control of the vast powers they bring into being Dayton also studies the critical reception of The Book of the Dead and determines that while the contemporary response was mixed most reviewers felt that Rukeyser had certainly attempted something of value and significance He pays particular attention to John Wheelwright s critical review and to the defenses of Rukeyser launched in the 1980s and 1990s by Louise Kertesz and Walter Kalaidjian The author also examines the relationship between Marxism as a theory of history governing The Book of the Dead and the poem itself which presents a vision of history Based upon primary scholarship in Rukeyser s papers a close reading of the poem and Marxist theory Muriel Rukeyser s The Book of the Dead offers a comprehensive and compelling analysis of The Book of the Dead and will likely remain the definitive work on this poem Place Branding R. Govers,F. Go,2016-01-18 The topic of place branding is moving from infancy to adolescence Many cities and nations have already established their place brand and this well documented new book brings the fundamentals of place branding together in an academic format but is at the same time useful for practice National Dreams Daniel Francis,2002-07-01 As Canadians we remember the stories told to us in high school history class as condensed images of the past the glorious Mountie the fearsome Native the Last Spike National Dreams is an incisive study of the most persistent icons and stories in Canadian history and how they inform our sense of national identity the fundamental beliefs that we Canadians hold about ourselves National Dreams is the story of our stories the myths and truths of our collective past that we first learned in school and which we carry throughout our adult lives as tangible evidence of what separates us from other nationalities Francis examines various aspects of this national mythology in which history is as much storytelling as fact Textbooks were an important resource for Francis For me these books are interesting not because they explain what actually happened to us but because they explain what we think happened to us For example Francis documents how the legend of the CPR as a country sustaining national affirming monolith was created by the company itself a group of capitalists celebrating the privately owned railway albeit one which was generously supported with public land and cash and reiterated by most historians ever since Similarly we learn how the Mounties were transformed from historical police force to mythic heroes by a vast army of autobiographers historians novelists and Hollywood filmmakers with little attention paid to the true role of the force in such incidents as the Bolshevik rebellion in which a secret conspiracy by the Government against its people was conducted through the RNWMP Also revealed in National Dreams are the stories surrounding the formation and celebration of Canadian heroes such as Louis Riel and Billy Bishop

In the Bubble John Thackara, 2006-02-17 How to design a world in which we rely less on stuff and more on people We re filling up the world with technology and devices but we ve lost sight of an important question What is this stuff for What value does it add to our lives So asks author John Thackara in his new book In the Bubble Designing for a Complex World These are tough questions for the pushers of technology to answer Our economic system is centered on technology so it would be no small matter if tech ceased to be an end in itself in our daily lives Technology is not going to go away but the time to discuss the end it will serve is before we deploy it not after We need to ask what purpose will be served by the broadband communications smart materials wearable computing and connected appliances that we re unleashing upon the world We need to ask what impact all this stuff will have on our daily lives Who will look after it and how In the Bubble is about a world based less on stuff and more on people Thackara describes a transformation that is taking place now not in a remote science fiction future it s not about as he puts it the schlock of the new but about radical innovation already emerging in daily life We are regaining respect for what people can do that technology can t In the Bubble describes services designed to help people carry out daily activities in new ways Many of these services involve technology ranging from body implants to wide bodied jets But objects and systems play a supporting role in a people centered world The design focus is on services not things And new principles above all lightness inform the way these services are designed and used At the heart of In the Bubble is a belief informed by a wealth of real world examples that ethics and responsibility can inform design decisions without impeding social and technical innovation

Sounding the Cape Denis Martin, 2013 For several centuries Cape Town has accommodated a great variety of musical genres which have usually been associated with specific population groups living in and around the city Musical styles and genres produced in Cape Town have therefore been assigned an identity which is first and foremost social This volume tries to question the relationship established between musical styles and genres and social in this case pseudo racial identities In Sounding the Cape Denis Constant Martin recomposes and examines through the theoretical prism of creolisation the history of music in Cape Town deploying analytical tools borrowed from the most recent studies of identity configurations He demonstrates that musical creation in the Mother City and in South Africa has always been nurtured by contacts exchanges and innovations whatever the efforts made by racist powers to separate and divide people according to their origin Musicians interviewed at the dawn of the 21st century confirm that mixture and blending characterise all Cape Town s musics They also emphasise the importance of a rhythmic pattern particular to Cape Town the ghoema beat whose origins are obviously mixed The study of music demonstrates that the history of Cape Town and of South Africa as a whole undeniably fostered creole societies Yet twenty years after the collapse of apartheid these societies are still divided along lines that combine economic factors and racial categorisations Martin concludes that were music given a greater importance in educational and cultural policies it could contribute to fighting these divisions and promote the notion of a nation that in spite of the violence of racism and apartheid has managed to invent a unique common culture Living on the Land Nathalie J. Borwein,2013-06-29 Our intention in this collection is to provide largely through original writings an extended account of pi from the dawn of mathematical time to the present The story of pi reflects the most seminal the most serious and sometimes the most whimsical aspects of mathematics A surprising amount of the most important mathematics and a significant number of the most important mathematicians have contributed to its unfolding directly or otherwise Pi is one of the few mathematical concepts whose mention evokes a response of recognition and interest in those not concerned professionally with the subject It has been a part of human culture and the educated imagination for more than twenty five hundred years The computation of pi is virtually the only topic from the most ancient stratum of mathematics that is still of serious interest to modern mathematical research To pursue this topic as it developed throughout the millennia is to follow a thread through the history of mathematics that winds through geometry analysis and special functions numerical analysis algebra and number theory It offers a subject that provides mathematicians with examples of many current mathematical techniques as well as a palpable sense of their historical development Why a Source Book Few books serve wider potential audiences than does a source book To our knowledge there is at present no easy access to the bulk of the material we have collected Architecture of the Picturesque in Canada Janet Wright,1984
