Louis S.B. Leakey Martin Pickford, 1997 This text offers evidence to suggest that many of the established theories and ideas regarding East African geology and anthropology are fundamentally flawed It also offers solutions to safeguard future research and discoveries in these areas

Rethinking Evolution in the Museum Monique Scott, 2007-11-19 Rethinking Evolution in the Museum explores the ways diverse natural history museum audiences imagine their evolutionary heritage In particular the book considers how the meanings constructed by audiences of museum exhibitions are a product of dynamic interplay between museum iconography and powerful images museum visitors bring with them to the museum In doing so the book illustrates how the preconceived images held by museum audiences about anthropology Africa and the museum itself strongly impact the human origins exhibition experience Although museological theory has come increasingly to recognize that museum audiences make meaning in exhibitions or make their own complex interpretations of museum exhibitions few scholars have explicitly asked how Rethinking Evolution in the Museum however provides a rare window into visitor perceptions at four world class museums the Natural History Museum and Horniman Museum in London the National Museums of Kenya in Nairobi and the American Museum of Natural History in New York Through rigorous and novel mixed methods quantitative and qualitative covering nearly 500 museum visitors this innovative study shows that audiences of human origins exhibitions interpret evolution exhibitions through a profoundly complex convergence of personal political intellectual emotional and cultural interpretive strategies This book also reveals that natural history museum visitors often respond to museum exhibitions similarly because they use common cultural tools picked up from globalized popular media circulating outside of the museum One tool of particular interest is the notion that human evolution has proceeded linearly from a bestial African prehistory to a civilized European present Despite critical growths in anthropological science and museum displays the outdated Victorian progress motif lingers persistently in popular media and the popular imagination Rethinking Evolution in the Museum sheds light on our relationship with natural history museums and will be crucial to those people interested in understanding the connection between the visitor the museum and media culture outside of the museum context

The First Human Ann Gibbons, 2007-04-10 In this dynamic account award winning science writer Ann Gibbons chronicles an extraordinary quest to answer the most primal of questions When and where was the dawn of humankind Following four intensely competitive international teams of scientists in a heated race to find the missing link the fossil of the earliest human ancestor Gibbons ventures to Africa where she encounters a fascinating array of fossil hunters Tim White the irreverent Californian who discovered the partial skeleton of a primate that lived 4 4 million years ago in Ethiopia French paleontologist Michel Brunet who uncovers a skull in Chad that could date the beginnings of humankind to seven million years ago and two other groups one led by zoologist Meave Leakey the other by British geologist Martin Pickford and his French paleontologist partner Brigitte Senut who enter the race with landmark discoveries of their own Through scrupulous
