Love Stories Of World War II:

Love Stories of World War II, 2001 Both poignant and inspiring these are the moving stories of men and women who met amid the chaos of the most devastating war in history and became the loves of one another's lives. Many are now enjoying their seventies and eighties together after more than fifty happy years of marriage. They met in many remarkable ways, some in the briefest of chance encounters and their love endured heart-rending ordeals of long separation and the constant threat that a husband or lover might not return. As these couples reflect on the profound experience of the war, the stories they most like to tell are of the deep bonds they forged during that tumultuous time, bonds so strong that they lasted a lifetime. As one man put it, "We've all got war stories. Some of us like to tell them and some don't. But the story of how we fell in love with our wives well that's still with us every day and I know a lot of us can still get a little choked up over it." The war was a long time ago, one part of our lives. But we're still living the love stories. Bestselling author and master interviewer Larry King tells the stories of these love affairs just as the couples recalled them, capturing the special feeling of those times in their own words. The stories are complemented with a wealth of personal photographs and reproductions of touching memorabilia, including V-mail letters, cartoons, cards, newspaper accounts, and even the ticket stub from the movie seen on a first date. The stories reflect a wonderful range of experiences, from couples who met and got married within a few weeks to those who waited years after a brief first meeting to see each other again. There are stories of falling in love at first sight, stories of tragedy transformed by love, and stories of the remarkable resourcefulness that can be exercised by two people determined to be together. A treasure trove of unique reminiscences, Love Stories of World War II offers an unprecedented view into this personal side of the World War II experience and celebrates the incredible legacy of remarkable relationships forged in the midst of tragedy.

The Nurse and the Navigator Charles Dunn, 3rd, 2017-09-19 We Are Going to Be Lucky Elizabeth L. Fox, 2018-05-22 We Are Going to Be Lucky tells the story of a first-generation Jewish American couple separated by war. Captured in their own words, Lenny and Diana Miller were married just one year before America entered World War II. Deeply committed to social justice and bonded by love, both vowed to write to one another daily after Lenny enlisted in 1943. As Lenny made his way through basic training in Mississippi to the beaches of Normandy and eventually to the Battle of the Bulge, Diana struggled financially, giving up her job as a machinist to become a mother. Their contributions to the war effort, Lenny's crucial missions as an Army scout and Diana's work in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, are the backdrop to their daily correspondence, including insightful discussions of democracy, politics, and economic hardship. Faced with grueling conditions overseas, Lenny managed to preserve every letter his wife sent, mailing them back to her for safekeeping. The couple's extraordinary letters, preserved in their entirety, reveal and reflect the excruciating personal sacrifices endured by both soldiers at war and their young families back home. After decades of gathering dust, their words have been carefully transcribed and thoughtfully edited and annotated by Elizabeth L. Fox, Lenny and Diana's daughter.

War Bonds Cindy Hval, 2015-02-10 A look at love during World War II that celebrates not only the personal sacrifices these couples made to serve their country but also their devotion to one another San Francisco Book Review America's World War II is most often told through the stories of its great battles when an entire generation of our young men was suddenly thrust across the oceans to represent the New World in deadly combat against the great powers of the Old On sea in the air and on land our boys fought against totalitarian powers that threatened to overturn the American ideal of liberty for every individual even civilization itself But while often forgotten America's women participated too On the home front they were more than willing to share in the hardships of wartime and in countless cases they fairly lived and breathed with support for our troops overseas Whether working in factories or taking care of families rationing or volunteering their unflagging support contributed more to our victories than has ever been told Young people have been falling in love since time began but romance during a global conflagration brought a unique set of challenges The uncertainty of the time led to an abundance of couples marrying quickly after brief courtships Others grew closer through intermittent correspondence in which the soldier was often censored by officers yet true longing from both sides invariably came through It was the worst time of all to try to have a relationship yet amazingly thousands of couples created lifelong bonds From blind dates to whirlwind romances to long separations War Bonds highlights stories of couples who met or married during WWII Each of the thirty stories begins with a World War II era song title and concludes with a look at wartime couples in their twilight as well as when they were so hopeful and young and determined to save the world Illustrated with photographs from the 1940s as well as current ones of each couple War Bonds offers readers a glimpse of bygone days as well as a poignant glimpse of our own During history's greatest war it was no time to start a relationship But many among our young men and women did so regardless and in this book we see how amazingly the war bonds of that World War II generation so frequently endured
