

A photograph of a dirt path leading through a forest. The trees on either side have autumn foliage in shades of orange, yellow, and brown. The path leads towards a bright light source at the end of the path, creating a strong lens flare effect. The overall mood is serene and contemplative.

When people need love and understanding and support the most is when they deserve it the least.

Wired for Love Stan Tatkin, 2024-06-01 Invaluable for so many partners looking to reconnect and grow closer together Gwyneth Paltrow founder and CEO of goop Stan Tatkin can be entirely followed into the towering infernos of our most painful relationship challenges Alanis Morissette artist activist and wholeness advocate The complete insider's guide to understanding your partner's brain sparking lasting connection and enjoying a romantic relationship built on love and trust now with more than 170 000 copies sold What the heck is my partner thinking Why do they always react like this How can we get back that connection we had in the beginning If you've ever asked yourself these questions you aren't alone and it doesn't mean that your relationship is doomed Every person is wired for love differently with different habits needs and reactions to conflict The good news is that most people's minds work in predictable ways and respond well to security attachment and routines making it possible to neurologically prime the brain for greater love and connection and fewer conflicts This go to guide will show you how Drawn from neuroscience attachment theory and emotion regulation this highly anticipated second edition of Wired for Love presents cutting edge research on how and why love lasts and offers ten guiding principles that can improve any relationship This fully revised and updated edition also includes new guidance on how to manage disagreements as well as new exercises to help you create a sense of safety and security establish healthy conflict ground rules and deal with the threat of the third any outside source which threatens the harmony in your relationship including in laws alcohol children and affairs You'll find proven effective strategies to help you strengthen your relationship by Creating and maintaining a safe couple bubble Using morning and evening routines to stay connected Learning how to see your partner's point of view Meeting each other halfway in a fight Becoming the expert on what makes your partner feel loved By using simple gestures and words you'll learn to put out emotional fires and help your partner feel appreciated and loved You'll also discover how to move past a warring brain mentality and toward a more cooperative loving brain Most importantly you'll gain a better understanding of the complex dynamics at work behind love and trust in intimate relationships While there's no doubt that love is an inexact science if you understand how you and your partner are wired differently you can overcome your differences and create a lasting intimate connection

Love Simon May, 2019-03-12 What is love's real aim Why is it so ruthlessly selective in its choice of loved ones Why do we love at all In addressing these questions Simon May develops a radically new understanding of love as the emotion we feel towards whomever or whatever we experience as grounding our life as offering us a possibility of home in a world that we supremely value He sees love as motivated by a promise of ontological rootedness rather than as two thousand years of tradition variously asserts by beauty or goodness by a search for wholeness by virtue by sexual or reproductive desire by compassion or altruism or empathy or in one of today's dominant views by no qualities at all of the loved one After arguing that such founding Western myths as the Odyssey and Abraham's call by God to Canaan in the Bible powerfully exemplify his new conception of love May goes on to re-examine the relation of love to beauty sex and goodness in the light of this conception offering among other things a novel theory of beauty and suggesting against Plato that we can love others for their ugliness while also seeing them as beautiful Finally he proposes that in the Western world romantic love is gradually giving way to parental love as the most valued form of love namely the love without which one's life is not deemed complete or truly flourishing May explains why childhood has become sacred and excellence in parenting a paramount ideal as well as a litmus test of society's moral health In doing so he argues that the child is the first genuinely modern supreme object of love the first to fully reflect what Nietzsche called the death of God

Love Simon May,2011-07-19 Traces the history of love and how it developed from its Hebraic and Greek origins to an ideal that obsesses the modern Western world and highlights philosophers that have challenged conventional thoughts on love and happiness

The Highly Sensitive Person in Love Elaine Aron,2001 The author has taken a closer look at how inborn temperament affects intimacy offers practical help for highly sensitive people seeking happier healthier romantic relationships Every aspect is covered from low stress fighting to sensitive sexuality Included are self tests and case studies and the results from the first survey ever done on sex and temperament With wonderful advice on making the most of all personality combinations in relationships Aron offers a wealth of insights for non highly sensitive people as well Publisher description

Creating Love John Bradshaw,2013-04-24 Why are so many of us at times completely baffled by a relationship How can we think we know someone so well and admit in the end that we hardly knew that person at all Why do many people who work diligently and strenuously to gain wholeness and balance still feel so frustrated about having a fulfilling relationship Why have so many people given up on love from the Prologue John Bradshaw s bestselling books and compelling PBS series have touched and changed millions of lives Now in Creating Love he offers us a new way to understand our most crucial relationships with our romantic partners and spouses with our parents and children with friends and co workers with ourselves and with God Bradshaw s compassionate approach shows that many of us have been literally entranced by past experiences of counterfeit love so we unknowingly re create patterns that can never fulfill us Here he provides both the insights and the precise tools we need to keep those destructive patterns from repeating in the present And then he shows how we can open ourselves to the soul building work of real love and create healthy loving relationships where we can be fully ourselves in every part of our lives

I Understand Vonnie Woodrick,2020-09-01 Time doesn t heal love heals When Vonnie Woodrick lost her husband Rob to suicide in 2003 she was faced with a series of decisions How would she move on How would she support and raise her three children as a young widow How would she talk about Rob and honor his memory These questions had no easy answers but Vonnie found herself longing for one thing in particular understanding The stigma of mental illness loomed large over Rob s death and made healing difficult But Vonnie found the common assumptions surrounding suicide to be false Rob was not crazy He did not choose to take his own life He was in agony and only wanted the pain to end His death was a direct result of his mental illness Why didn t more people understand this Over a decade later Vonnie and her children created the nonprofit organization i understand to help others enduring this same grief and loneliness Since its founding in 2014 i understand has become a haven of compassionate comfort and a powerful voice in the movement to change the way we talk about suicide so that it can be seen for what it truly is a terminal effect of mental illness rather than a deliberate choice This is the story of how love transformed Vonnie s brokenness into hope not only for herself and her family but for anyone struggling to emerge from the darkness of suicide
