The Real World of College Wendy Fischman, Howard Gardner, 2023-08-01 Why higher education in the United States has lost its way and how universities and colleges can focus sharply on their core mission For The Real World of College Wendy Fischman and Howard Gardner analyzed in depth interviews with more than 2 000 students alumni faculty administrators parents trustees and others which were conducted at ten institutions ranging from highly selective liberal arts colleges to less selective state schools What they found challenged characterizations in the media students are not preoccupied by political correctness free speech or even the cost of college They are most concerned about their GPA and their resumes they see jobs and earning potential as more important than learning Many say they face mental health challenges fear that they don't belong and feel a deep sense of alienation Given this daily reality for students has higher education lost its way Fischman and Gardner contend that US universities and colleges must focus sharply on their core educational mission Fischman and Gardner both recognized authorities on education and learning argue that higher education in the United States has lost sight of its principal reason for existing not vocational training not the provision of campus amenities but to increase what Fischman and Gardner call higher education capital to help students think well and broadly express themselves clearly explore new areas and be open to possible transformations Fischman and Gardner offer cogent recommendations for how every college can become a community of learners who are open to change as thinkers citizens and human beings

Craft in the Real World Matthew Salesses, 2021-01-19 This national bestseller is a significant contribution to discussions of the art of fiction and a necessary challenge to received views about whose stories are told how they are told and for whom they are intended Laila Lalami The New York Times Book Review The traditional writing workshop was established with white male writers in mind what we call craft is informed by their cultural values In this bold and original examination of elements of writing including plot character conflict structure and believability and aspects of workshop including the silenced writer and the imagined reader Matthew Salesses asks questions to invigorate these familiar concepts He upends Western notions of how a story must progress How can we rethink craft and the teaching of it to better reach writers with diverse backgrounds How can we invite diverse storytelling traditions into literary spaces Drawing from examples including One Thousand and One Nights Curious George Ursula K Le Guin's A Wizard of Earthsea and the Asian American classic No-No Boy Salesses asks us to reimagine craft and the workshop In the pages of exercises included here teachers will find suggestions for building syllabi grading and introducing new methods to the classroom students will find revision and editing guidance as well as a new lens for reading their work Salesses shows that we need to interrogate the lack of diversity at the core of published fiction how we teach and write it After all as he reminds us When we write fiction we write the world
