Realist Social Theory The Morphogenetic Approach:

Realist Social Theory Margaret S. Archer, 1995-10-19 Building on her seminal contribution to social theory in Culture and agency Margaret Archer develops here her morphogenetic approach applying it to the problem of structure and agency Since structure and agency constitute different levels of stratified social reality each possesses distinctive emergent properties which are real and causally efficacious but irreducible to one another The problem therefore is shown to be how to link the two rather than conflate them as has been common practice whether in upwards conflation by the aggregation of individual acts downwards conflation through the structural orchestration of agents or more recently in central conflation which holds the two to be mutually constitutive and thus precludes any examination of their interplay by eliding them Realist social theory the morphogenetic approach thus not only rejects methodological individualism and collectivism but argues that the debate between them has been replaced by a new one between elisionary theorizing such as Giddens structuration theory and the emergentist theories based on a realist ontology of the social world. The morphogenetic approach is the sociological complement of transcendental realism and together they provide a basis for non conflationary theorizing which is also of direct utility to the practising social analyst Realist Social Theory Margaret S. Archer, 1995-10-19 Margaret Archer develops here her morphogenetic approach heralded in Culture and Agency CUP 1988 and applies it to the problem of structure and agency that is how we both shape society and are shaped by it Her aim is to capture the interplay between these two processes rather than collapse them into one as has been the case with the traditional competing individualist and collectivist methodologies. The morphogenetic approach offers a new understanding of social change and poses a direct challenge to Giddens structuration theory Culture and Agency Margaret Scotford Archer, 1996-09-26 Margaret Archer s Culture and Agency was first published in 1988 and proved a seminal contribution to social theory and the case for the role of culture in sociological thought Described in Sociological Review as a timely and sophisticated treatment the book showed that the problems of culture and agency on the one hand and structure and agency on the other could be solved using the same analytical framework In this revised edition of Culture and Agency Margaret Archer contextualises her argument in 1990s cultural sociology and links it explicitly to her latest book Realist Social Theory The Morphogenetic Approach Cambridge University Press 1995 Education Policy and Realist Social Theory Robert Archer, 2018-05-04 In Europe welfare state provision has been subjected to market forces Over the last two decades the framework of economic competitiveness has become the defining aim of education to be achieved by new managerialist techniques and mechanisms This book thoughtfully and persuasively argues against this new vision of education and offers a different more useful potential approach This in depth major study will be of great interest to researchers in the sociology of education education policy social theory organization and management studies and also to professionals concerned about the deleterious impact of current education policy on children's learning and welfare Social Morphogenesis Margaret S. Archer, 2013-02-20

The rate of social change has speeded up in the last three decades but how do we explain this This volume ventures what the generative mechanism is that produces such rapid change and discusses how this differs from late Modernity Contributors examine if an intensification of morphogenesis positive feedback that results in a change in social form and a corresponding reduction in morphostasis negative feedback that restores or reproduces the form of the social order best captures the process involved This volume resists proclaiming a new social formation as so many books written by empiricists have done by extrapolating from empirical data Until we can convincingly demonstrate that a new generative mechanism is at work it is premature to argue what accounts for the global changes that are taking place and where they will lead More concisely we seek to answer the question whether or not current social change can be regarded as social morphogenesis Only then in the next volumes will the same team of authors be able to remove the question mark Structure, Agency and the Internal Conversation Margaret Scotford Archer, 2003-08-28 Explores the relationship between structure and agency through human reflexivity and the internal conversation Social Origins of Educational Systems Margaret Scotford Archer, 2013 First published in 1979 this now classic text presents a major study of the development of educational systems focusing in detail on those of England Denmark France and Russia chosen because of their present educational differences and the historical diversity of their cultures and social structures Professor Archer goes on to provide a theoretical framework which accounts for the major characteristics of national education and the principal changes that such systems have undergone Now with a new introduction Social Origins of Educational Systems is vital reading for all those interested in the sociology of education Previously published reviews A large scale masterly study this book is the most important contribution to the sociology of education since the second world war as well as being a substantial contribution to the consolidation of sociology itself The Economist I cannot improve on her own statement of what she is trying to do The sociological contribution consists in providing a theoretical account of macroscopic patterns of change in terms of the structural and cultural factors which produce and sustain them Unquestionably this book is an impressive work of scholarship well planned conceptually and uniting its theoretical base with a set of four thoroughly and interestingly researched case studies of the history of the educational systems of Denmark England France and Russia British Journal of the Sociology of Education This magnificent treatise seriously explores many of the most recalcitrant questions about institutional systems Journal of Curriculum Studies A gargantuan and impressive socio historical enterprise Encounter a major achievement New Society The Reflexive Imperative in Late Modernity Margaret S. Archer, 2012-05-03 What do young people want from life This book shows how the internal conversation guides individual choices Explaining Society Berth Danermark, Mats Ekstrom, Liselotte Jakobsen, Jan ch. Karlsson, 2005-06-29 This book will be immensely valuable for students and researchers in social science sociology and philosophy in that it connects methodology theory and empirical research It provides an innovative picture of what society and social science is along with the methods used to study and explain social phenomena Sociological

Realism Andrea Maccarini, Emmanuele Morandi, Riccardo Prandini, 2011-03-28 Sociological Realism presents a clear and updated discussion of the main tenets and issues of social theory written by some of the top scholars within the critical realist and relational approach It connects such approaches systematically to other strands of thought that are central in contemporary sociology like systems theory and rational choice theory Divided into three parts social ontology sociological theory and methodology each part includes a systematic presentation a comment and a wider discussion by the editors thereby taking on the form of a dialogue among experts This book is a uniquely blended and consistent conversation showing the convergence of European social theory on a critical realist and relational way of thinking This volume is extremely important both for teaching purposes and for all those scholars who wish to get a fresh perspective on some deep dynamics of contemporary sociology Conversations About Reflexivity Margaret S. Archer, 2009-12-18 Reflexivity is defined as the regular exercise of the mental ability shared by all normal people to consider themselves in relation to their social contexts and vice versa In addition to this sociological interest it allows us to hold idle or trivial internal conversations Focussing fully on this phenomenon this book discusses the three main questions associated with this subject in detail Where does the ability to be reflexive comes from What part do our internal reflexive deliberations play in designing the courses of action we take subordinate to habitual action or not Is reflexivity a homogeneous practice for all people and invariant over history In addressing these questions contributors engage critically with the most relevant studies by luminaries such as G H Mead C S Pierce Habermas Luhmann Beck Giddens and Bourdieu Most contributors are leading Pragmatists or Critical Realists associated with the Reflexivity Forum an informal international and inter disciplinary group This combination of reference to influential writers of the past and the best of modern theory has produced a fascinating book that is essential reading for all students with a serious interest in social theory or critical realism Contributions to Social Ontology Clive Lawson, John Spiro Latsis, Nuno Martins, 2013-01-11 Recent years have seen a dramatic re emergence of interest in ontology From philosophy and social sciences to artificial intelligence and computer science ontology is gaining interdisciplinary influence as a popular tool for applied research Contributions to Social Ontology focuses specifically on these developments within the social sciences The contributions reveal that this revived interest in social ontology involves far more than an unquestioning acceptance or application of the concepts and methods of academic philosophers Instead as ontology permeates so many new areas social ontology itself is evolving in new and fascinating ways This book engages with these new developments pushing it forward with cutting edge new material from leading authors in this area from Roy Bhaskar to Margaret Archer It also explicitly analyzes the relationship between the new ontological projects and the more traditional approaches This book will be of great interest to students and researchers alike across the social sciences and particularly in philosophy economics and sociology The Morphogenesis of the Norwegian Educational System Margaret S. Archer, Unn-Doris K. Bæck, Tone Skinningsrud, 2022-03-21 Based in the philosophy of critical realism this book employs a range of Margaret Archer's theoretical concepts to investigate temporal and spatial aspects of Norwegian education Stemming from Archer's engagement as visiting professor from 2017 to 2019 in the Department of Education at UiT The Arctic University of Norway the book explores a new area for critical realist theorizing by asking how different spatial contexts affect the workings of the system The various chapters employ diverse sets of Archer's theoretical concepts from morphogenetic cycles and the emergence of educational systems at the macro level to the exercise of reflexivity among individual school leaders and students at the micro level In contrast to the focus on educational homogeneity and similarity among Nordic and Scandinavian countries and promotion of the conception of the Nordic Model this book draws attention to differences between these nations as well as regional differences within Norway As such it will appeal to scholars with interests in education sociology critical realism educational sciences and pedagogy education history and political science as well those with a specific interest in the Nordic region The Creativity of Action Hans Joas, 1996 Hans Joas is one of the foremost social theorists in Germany today Based on Joas's celebrated study of George Herbert Mead this work reevaluates the contribution of American pragmatism and European philosophical anthropology to theories of action in the social sciences Joas also establishes direct ties between Mead's work and approaches drawn from German traditions of philosophical anthropology Joas argues for adding a third model of action to the two predominant models of rational and normative action one that emphasizes the creative character of human action This model encompasses the other two allowing for a more comprehensive theory of action Joas elaborates some implications of his model for theories of social movements and social change and for the status of action theory in sociology in the face of competition from theories advanced by Luhmann and Habermas The problem of action is of crucial importance in both sociology and philosophy and this book already widely debated in Germany will add fresh impetus to the lively discussions current in the English speaking world

The Relational Subject Pierpaolo Donati, Margaret S. Archer, 2015-06-17 Many social theorists now call themselves relational sociologists but mean entirely different things by it The majority endorse a flat ontology dealing exclusively with dyadic relations Consequently they cannot explain the context in which relationships occur or their consequences except as resultants of endless transactions This book adopts a different approach which regards the relation itself as an emergent property with internal causal effects upon its participants and external ones on others The authors argue that most relationists seem unaware that analytical philosophers such as Searle Gilbert and Tuomela have spent years trying to conceptualize the We as dependent upon shared intentionality Donati and Archer change the focus away from We thinking and argue that We ness derives from subjects reflexive orientations towards the emergent relational goods and evils they themselves generate Their approach could be called relational realism though they suggest that realists too have failed to explore the relational subject

Enlightened Common Sense Roy Bhaskar, 2016-07-01 Since the 1970s critical realism has grown to address a range of subjects including economics philosophy science and religion It has become a complex and mature philosophy Enlightened Common Sense The Philosophy of Critical Realism looks back over this development in one concise and accessible volume The late Roy Bhaskar was critical realism s philosophical originator and chief exponent He draws on a lifetime s experience to give a definitive systematic account of this increasingly influential international and multidisciplinary approach Critical realism s key element has always been its vindication and deepening of our understanding of ontology Arguing that realist ontology is inexorable in knowledge and action Bhaskar sees this as the key to a new enlightened common sense From the definition of critical realism and its applicability in the social sciences to explanation of dialectical critical realism and the philosophy of metaReality this is the essential introduction for students of critical realism

Rethinking Social Theory Roger Sibeon, 2004-03-27 Identifies and explores unresolved controversies and ambiguities in present day sociological theorizing Debating Humanity Daniel Chernilo, 2017-04-20 An original approach to the question what is a human being examining key ideas of leading contemporary sociologists and philosophers Realism for Marxist Sociology of Education Grant Banfield, 2015-09-16 This book offers a critical realist intervention into the field of Marxist Sociology of Education Critical realism as developed by British philosopher Roy Bhaskar is known for its capacity to serve as a conceptual underlabourer to applied fields like education Indeed its success in clarifying and resolving thorny issues of educational theory and practice is now well established Given critical realism's sympathetic Marxist origins its productive and critical engagement with Marxism has an even longer history To date there has been little sustained attention given to the application of critical realism to Marxist educational praxis The book addresses this gap in existing scholarship Its conceptual ground clearing of the field of Marxist Sociology of Education centres on two problematics well known in the social sciences naturalism and the structure agency relation Marxist theory from the days of Marx to the present is shown to also be haunted by these problematics. This has resulted in considerable tension around the meaning and nature of for example reform revolution class determinism and class struggle With its emergence in the 1970s as a child of Western Marxism the field continues to be an expression of these tensions that seriously limit its transformative potential Addressing these issues and offering conceptual clarification in the interests of revolutionary educational practice Critical Realism for Marxist Sociology of Education provides a new perspective on education which will be of interest to students scholars and practitioners alike Concepts in Action, 2017-11-06 Rather than treating concepts and their application in a static and iconic manner Concepts in Action provides us with examples of the active and creative use of concepts for constructing and generating new knowledge Examples of theoretic constructions and topics discussed refers to the function of theory in main stream sociology concepts enabling us to expand the range of interpretations a critical view and approach to general concepts of culture nature and consumption concepts dealing with organization institutions and actors and examples of travelling concepts such as class gender race and social recognition Concepts in Action follows on the earlier Theory in Action 2016 as part of a three volume project broadening our understanding of the interplay of theory and methods The forthcoming third volume will focus on the strategy of constructing and analyzing the object in social science This volume is highly relevant for researchers and students interested in theoretical construction in the social sciences Contributors are G ran Ahrne Mette Andersson Harriet Bjerrum Nielsen Anne Britt Flemmen Antje Gimmler Willy Guneriussen Roar Hagen Raimund Hasse H kon Leiulfsrud Willy Martinussen John Scott Peter Sohlberg P l Strandbakken Richard Swedberg and Erik Olin Wright
