The Japanese in the Western Mind Perry Hinton, 2023-06-16 This fascinating book is an insightful exploration of Western perceptions and representations of Japanese culture and society drawing on social and cultural psychological ideas around stereotypes and intercultural relations Hinton considers how the West views the Japanese as an ideologically different other and proposes a cultural theory of stereotypes from which to explore Western observations of the Japanese The book explores Western socio cultural representations of the Japanese alongside Edward Said's well known theory of Orientalism It examines the West's intercultural relationship with Japan and how this has changed over time to show how the Japanese have been represented in the Western mind throughout history to the present day Hinton argues that our view of other cultures is based on our own cultural expectations which involve complex issues of meaning making and perceived cultural differences This book foregrounds the research through accounts of Westerners about the Japanese to reveal how cultural representations can influence the ways in which people from different cultures communicate in interaction and how intercultural understanding or misunderstanding can arise By reflecting on the changing Western representations of the Japanese and how and why these have emerged this book will be of interest to students academics and general readers interested in stereotypes cultural psychology intercultural communication anthropology and Japanese culture and history

'Boredom is the Enemy' Amanda Laugesen, 2016-04-15 War is often characterised as one percent terror 99 per cent boredom Whilst much ink has been spilt on the one per cent relatively little work has been directed toward the other 99 per cent of a soldier's time As such this book will be welcomed by those seeking a fuller understanding of what makes soldiers endure war and how they cope with prolonged periods of inaction It explores the issue of military boredom and investigates how soldiers spent their time when not engaged in battle work or training through a study of their creative imaginative and intellectual lives It examines the efforts of military authorities to provide solutions to military boredom and the problem of discipline and morale through the provisioning of entertainment and education but more importantly explores the ways in which soldiers responded to such efforts arguing that soldiers used entertainment and education in ways that suited them The focus in the book is on Australians and their experiences primarily during the First World War but with subsequent chapters taking the story through the Second World War to the Vietnam War This focus on a single national group allows questions to be raised about what might or might not be exceptional about the experiences of a particular national group and the ways national identity can shape an individual's relationship and engagement with education and entertainment It can also suggest the continuities and changes in these experiences through the course of three wars The story of Australians at war illuminates a much broader story of the Sumatra Railway Lizzie Oliver, 2017-12-14 Prisoners of the Sumatra Railway is the first book to detail the experiences of British former prisoners of war POWs who were forced to construct a railway across Sumatra during the Japanese occupation. It is also the first study to be undertaken of the life writing of POWs held captive by the Japanese during the Second World War and the transgenerational responses in Britain to this period of captivity. This book brings to light previously unpublished materials including exceptionally rare and detailed diaries, notebooks and letters from the railway. Memoirs from Sumatra including detailed recollections and post-war statements written by key personnel on the railway such as Medical Officers and interpreters. Remarkable original artwork created by POWs on Sumatra. Contemporaneous photographs taken inside the camps. Employing theories of life writing, memory and war representation including transgenerational transmission. Lizzie Oliver focuses particularly on what these documents can tell us about how former POWs tried to share, preserve and make sense of their experiences. It is a wholly original study that is of great value to Second World War scholars and anyone interested in 20th century Southeast Asian history or war and memory. Behind Barbed Wire Alexander Mikaberidze, 2018-11-26 An indispensable reference on concentration camps, death camps, prisoner of war camps and military prisons offering broad historical coverage as well as detailed analysis of the nature of captivity in modern conflict. This comprehensive reference work examines internment, forced labor and extermination during times of war and genocide with a focus on the 20th and 21st centuries and particular attention paid to World War II and recent conflicts in the Middle East. It explores internment as it has been used as a weapon and led to crimes against humanity and is ideal for students of global studies, history and political science as well as politically and socially aware general readers. In addition to entries on such notorious camps as Abu Ghraib, Andersonville, Auschwitz and the Hanoi Hilton, the encyclopedia includes profiles of key perpetrators of camp and prison atrocities and more than a dozen curated and contextualized primary source documents that further illuminate the subject. Primary sources include United Nations documents outlining the treatment of prisoners of war, government reports of infamous camp and prison atrocities and oral histories from survivors of these notorious facilities.

Captive Fathers, Captive Children Terry Smyth, 2022-10-06 Why are the daughters and sons of Far East prisoners of war still captivated by the stories of their fathers? What is it that compels so many of the children, after so many years, to search for the details of their fathers' captivity? And how, over the decades, have they come to terms with their childhood memories? In his book, Terry Smyth treads new ground by examining the processes through which the children's memory practices came to be rooted in the POW experiences of their fathers. By following a life course approach and a psychosocial methodology, the book demonstrates how memory and trauma were worked into the social and cultural lives of individual children and explores how the relationship between their inner psychic worlds and subsequent memory practices unfolded against a challenging and morally ambivalent geopolitical background. The book invites readers to engage with the author in a journey of exploration and self-reflection with elements of auto-ethnography adding richness to the text. Enlivened by interview extracts, case study material and ethnographic observations this work opens up fresh and ambitious perspectives on the personal legacies of war
