Christianity is a faith that developed from within Judaism and in which there is belief in merely one God. Christianity spread easy but steadily in the Roman Empire. The rise of Christianity was a powerful beginning. Teachings from Jesus, what Christianity had to offer, the persecution of Christians, and Constantine accepting Christianity were factors that led to the rise and success of Christianity.

Rome took control of the Judaic Kingdom in A.D. 6 and made it portion of the Roman Empire. A few Jews, nevertheless, believed that they would one time once more be freed. Many Jews believed that God would direct a savior known as the Messiah who would reconstruct the Judaic Kingdom. That Messiah was named Jesus Christ. Jesus was born sometime around 6-4 B.C. , in the town of Bethlehem in Judea. Jesus was a public curate ; many of Jesus 's instructions came from Judaic traditions. Jesus went from town to town and distribute his instructions and thoughts to people. He ignored the fact of wealth and position and cared more that his instructions had a particular entreaty peculiarly to the hapless. Jesus taught people that God had a personal relationship with each human being. He taught that people should love God, their neighbours, their enemies, and even themselves. He said, "Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the Earth. " Even though Jesus was going more popular, it was his decease and Resurrection that led people to believe that he was the Messiah. The Grecian word Christos means Messiah or savior and the word Christianity comes from the word "Christ. "

The Rise Of Christianity

Christian religion spread because it embraced all people and gave hope to the powerless. Christianity offered a personal relationship with God. This particularly appealed to the hapless because there was no cost to follow the faith. With other faiths, people had to do forfeits to be portion of that faith. Forfeits cost money which the hapless could non afford. However, with Christianity, the hapless were able to follow their faith without giving up anything or paying for forfeits.

Christian religion was besides successful in distributing because it promised ageless life after decease. This appealed to many people. Other faiths promised merely as many old ages in the hereafter as a individual had lived. For illustration, if a individual lived for 70 old ages, they would merely acquire 70 old ages of goodness in his hereafter. In Christianity, it did non count how long you lived or the sort of life you led. God would forgive a individual 's wickednesss and he would still acquire illustriousness in his ageless hereafter.

Although Christianity was turning, the Roman Leaders became angry with Christians for non idolizing the Roman Gods. Christians refused to believe in any other Gods but their God. Roman swayers had more and more Christians persecuted as the Pax Romana crumbled. The swayers had the Christians exiled, i

Singing the Congregation reinvigorates the analytic categories of congregation and congregational music Drawing from theoretical models in ethnomusicology and congregational studies Singing the Congregation reconceives the congregation as a fluid contingent social constellation that is actively performed into being through communal practice in this case the musically structured participatory activity known as worship Congregational music making is thereby recast as a practice capable of weaving together a religious community both inside and outside local institutional churches Congregational music making is not only a means of expressing local concerns and constituting the local religious community it is also a powerful way to identify with far flung individuals institutions and networks that comprise this global religious community The interactions among the congregations reveal widespread conflicts over religious authority carrying far ranging implications for how evangelicals position themselves relative to other groups in North America and beyond     Wilson Library Bulletin
