Hallinan,2006-11-24 The aim of the Handbook of Sociology of Education is to present the most theoretically grounded and empirically rigorous sociological analyses of schools to date The authors are distinguished researchers in the field Their contributions to the Handbook offer major theoretical perspectives on the schooling process and describe significant empirical studies of schools and their effects on individuals and society The research presented in the Handbook is built on three fundamental tenets of sociology First the authors adopt the perspective that schools are a central institution in society An understanding of the function of schooling in social life is enhanced by viewing schools as interrelated with other societal institutions The study of how the context of schooling influences education processes is critical to an understanding of school outcomes Rather than being determined solely by ascribed and achieved characteristics an individual's cognitive and social development are influenced heavily by the structures and networks in which the individual is embedded Communities families schools and social groups are critical elements in the educative process By viewing the school as a societal institution and highlighting the interaction between context and individual behavior the Handbook chapters provide a broader and deeper understanding of the determinants of learning in contemporary society The second sociological insight that guides the research in the Handbook is that the school is a social system

,2001 Partnership for the Americas: Western Hemisphere Strategy and U.S. Southern Command James G. Stavridis, RADM James G. Stavridis, 2014-02-23 Since its creation in 1963 United States Southern Command has been led by 30 senior officers representing all four of the armed forces. None has undertaken his leadership responsibilities with the cultural sensitivity and creativity demonstrated by Admiral Jim Stavridis during his tenure in command. Breaking with tradition, Admiral Stavridis discarded the customary military model as he organized the Southern Command Headquarters. In its place, he created an organization designed not to subdue adversaries but instead to build durable and enduring partnerships with friends. His observation that it is the business of Southern Command to launch ideas, not missiles, into the command's area of responsibility gained strategic resonance throughout the Caribbean and Central and South America and at the highest levels in Washington, DC.

In this visionary and comprehensive book, two nationally known experts describe a new approach to school-based mental health, one that better serves students, maximizes resources and promotes academic performance. The authors describe how educators can effectively coordinate internal and external resources to support a healthy school environment and help at-risk students overcome barriers to learning. School leaders, psychologists, counselors and policy makers will find essential guidance, including an overview of the history and current state of school mental health programs, discussing major issues confronting the field. Strategies for effective school-based initiatives, including addressing behavior issues, introducing classroom-based activities and coordinating with community resources. A call to action for higher quality mental health programming across public schools, including how collaboration, research and advocacy can make a difference. Gain the knowledge you need to develop or improve your school's mental health program to better serve both the academic and mental health needs of your students.

Coming Home to New Orleans Karl F. Seidman, 2013-03-04 Coming Home to New Orleans documents grassroots rebuilding efforts in New Orleans neighborhoods after Hurricane Katrina and draws lessons on their contribution to the post-disaster recovery of cities. The book begins with two chapters that address Katrina's impact and the planning and public sector recovery policies that set the context for neighborhood recovery. Rebuilding narratives for six New Orleans neighborhoods are then presented and analyzed. In the heavily flooded Broadmoor and Village de L Est neighborhoods residents coalesced around communitywide initiatives one through a neighborhood association and the second under church leadership to help homeowners return and restore housing get key public facilities and businesses rebuilt and create new community based organizations and civic capacity A comparison of four adjacent neighborhoods in the center of the city show how differing socioeconomic conditions geography government policies and neighborhood capacity created varied recovery trajectories The concluding chapter argues that grassroots and neighborhood scale initiatives can make important contributions to city recovery in four areas repopulation restoring complete neighborhoods with key services and amenities rebuilding parts of the small business economy and enhancing recovery capacity It also calls for more balanced investments and policies to rebuild rental and owner occupied housing and more deliberate collaboration with community based organizations to undertake and implement recovery plans and proposes changes to federal disaster recovery policies and programs to leverage the contribution of grassroots rebuilding and more support for city recovery
