Rebuilt Michael Chorost, 2005 Chorost chronicles his journey from deafness to hearing from human to cyborg and how it transformed him Written with self deprecating dry wit this volume explores hearing sound and software that can now mend the senses

World Wide Mind Michael Chorost, 2011-02-15 What if digital communication felt as real as being touched This question led Michael Chorost to explore profound new ideas triggered by lab research around the world and the result is the book you now hold Marvelous and momentous World Wide Mind takes mind to mind communication out of the realm of science fiction and reveals how we are on the verge of a radical new understanding of human interaction Chorost himself has computers in his head that enable him to hear two cochlear implants Drawing on that experience he proposes that our Paleolithic bodies and our Pentium chips could be physically merged and he explores the technologies that could do it He visits engineers building wearable computers that allow people to be online every waking moment and scientists working on implanted chips that would let paralysis victims communicate Entirely new neural interfaces are being developed that let computers read and alter neural activity in unprecedented detail But we all know how addictive the Internet is Chorost explains the addiction he details the biochemistry of what makes you hunger to touch your iPhone and check your email He proposes how we could design a mind to mind technology that would let us reconnect with our bodies and enhance our relationships With such technologies we could achieve a collective consciousness a World Wide Mind And it would be humankind's next evolutionary step With daring and sensitivity Chorost writes about how he learned how to enhance his own relationships by attending workshops teaching the power of touch He learned how to bring technology and communication together to find true love and his story shows how we can master technology to make ourselves more human rather than less World Wide Mind offers a new understanding of how we communicate what we need to connect fully with one another and how our addiction to email and texting can be countered with technologies that put us literally in each other's minds

Rebuilt Michael Chorost, 2006-05-19 After Michael Chorost suddenly lost what was left of his hearing he took the radical step of having a cochlear implant a tiny computer installed in his head A technological marvel the device not only restored to him the world of sound but also could be routinely upgraded with new software Despite his initial fear of the technology's potentially dehumanizing effects Chorost's implant allowed him to connect with others in surprising ways as a cyborg he learned about love joined a writing group and formed deeper friendships More profoundly his perception of the world around him was dramatically altered Brimming with insight and written with charm and self deprecating humor Rebuilt unveils in personal terms the astounding possibilities of a new technological age

Coming to Our Senses Susan R. Barry, 2021-06-08 A neurobiologist reexamines the personal nature of perception in this groundbreaking guide to a new model for our senses We think of perception as a passive mechanical process as if our eyes are cameras and our ears microphones But as neurobiologist Susan R Barry argues perception is a deeply personal act Our environments our relationships and our actions shape and reshape our senses throughout our lives This idea is no more apparent than in the cases of people who gain senses as adults Barry tells the stories of Liam McCoy practically blind from birth and Zohra Damji born deaf in the decade following surgeries that restored their senses As Liam and Zohra learned entirely new ways of being Barry discovered an entirely new model of the nature of perception Coming to Our Senses is a celebration of human resilience and a powerful reminder that before you can really understand other people you must first recognize that their worlds are fundamentally different from your own

Sophie's World Jostein Gaarder, 1994 The protagonists are Sophie Amundsen a 14 year old girl and Alberto Knox her philosophy teacher The novel chronicles their metaphysical relationship as they study Western philosophy from its beginnings to the present A bestseller in Norway

The Secret of Our Success Joseph Henrich, 2017-10-17 How our collective intelligence has helped us to evolve and prosper Humans are a puzzling species On the one hand we struggle to survive on our own in the wild often failing to overcome even basic challenges like obtaining food building shelters or avoiding predators On the other hand human groups have produced ingenious technologies sophisticated languages and complex institutions that have permitted us to successfully expand into a vast range of diverse environments What has enabled us to dominate the globe more than any other species while remaining virtually helpless as lone individuals This book shows that the secret of our success lies not in our innate intelligence but in our collective brains on the ability of human groups to socially interconnect and learn from one another over generations Drawing insights from lost European explorers clever chimpanzees mobile hunter gatherers neuroscientific findings ancient bones and the human genome Joseph Henrich demonstrates how our collective brains have propelled our species genetic evolution and shaped our biology Our early capacities for learning from others produced many cultural innovations such as fire cooking water containers plant knowledge and projectile weapons which in turn drove the expansion of our brains and altered our physiology anatomy and psychology in crucial ways Later on some collective brains generated and recombined powerful concepts such as the lever wheel screw and writing while also creating the institutions that continue to alter our motivations and perceptions Henrich shows how our genetics and biology are inextricably interwoven with cultural evolution and how culture gene interactions launched our species on an extraordinary evolutionary trajectory Tracking clues from our ancient past to the present The Secret of Our Success explores how the evolution of both our cultural and social natures produce a collective intelligence that explains both our species immense success and the origins of human uniqueness

Fixing My Gaze Susan R. Barry, 2009-05-26 A revelatory account of the brain's capacity for change When neuroscientist Susan Barry was fifty years old she experienced the sense of immersion in a three dimensional world for the first time Skyscrapers on street corners appeared to loom out toward her like the bows of giant ships Tree branches projected upward and outward enclosing and commanding palpable volumes of space Leaves created intricate mosaics in 3D Barry had been cross eyed and stereoblind since early infancy After half a century of perceiving her surroundings as flat and compressed on that day she saw the city of Manhattan in stereo depth for first time in her life As a neuroscientist she understood just how extraordinary this transformation was not only for herself but for the scientific understanding of the human brain Scientists have long believed that the brain is malleable only during a critical period in early childhood According to this theory Barry s brain had organized itself when she was a baby to avoid double vision and there was no way to rewire it as an adult But Barry found an optometrist who prescribed a little known program of vision therapy after intensive training Barry was ultimately able to accomplish what other scientists and even she herself had once considered impossible Dubbed Stereo Sue by renowned neurologist Oliver Sacks Susan Barry tells her own remarkable journey and celebrates the joyous pleasure of our senses I Love Jesus, But I Want to Die Sarah J. Since cognitive talent varies from person to person our education system can never create equal opportunity for all. Instead it teaches our children that hierarchy and competition are natural and that human value should be based on intelligence. These ideas are counter to everything that the left believes but until they acknowledge the existence of individual cognitive differences progressives remain complicit in keeping the status quo in place. This passionate voice driven manifesto demands that we embrace a new goal for education: equality of outcomes. We must create a world that has a place for everyone, not just the academically talented. But we'll never achieve this dream until the Cult of Smart is destroyed. Human

Accomplishment Charles Murray, 2009-10-13. Readers are sure to enjoy the arguments and elegant presentation of this engaging cultural survey by the controversial co-author of The Bell Curve. Kirkus Reviews. At irregular times and in scattered settings human beings have achieved great things. Human Accomplishment is about those great things falling in the domains known as the arts and sciences and the people who did them. So begins Charles Murray's unique account of human excellence from the age of Homer to our own time. Murray compiles inventories of the people who have been essential to the stories of literature, music, art, philosophy, and the sciences: a total of 4,002 men and women from around the world ranked according to their eminence. The heart of Human Accomplishment is a series of enthralling descriptive chapters on the giants in the arts and what sets them apart from the merely great. Charles Murray takes on some controversial questions: Why has accomplishment been so concentrated in Europe? Among men? Since 1400? He presents evidence that the rate of great accomplishment has been declining in the last century, asks what it means, and offers a rich framework for thinking about the conditions under which the human spirit has expressed itself most gloriously. Well written and informative. Publishers Weekly.
