Margaret A. Boden, 2006 Cognitive science is among the most fascinating intellectual achievements of the modern era. The quest to understand the mind is an ancient one. But modern science has offered new insights and techniques that have revolutionized this enquiry. Oxford University Press now presents a masterly history of the field told by one of its most eminent practitioners. Psychology is the thematic heart of cognitive science which aims to understand human and animal minds. But its core theoretical ideas are drawn from cybernetics and artificial intelligence and many cognitive scientists try to build functioning models of how the mind works. In that sense Margaret Boden suggests its key insight is that mind is a very special machine. Because the mind has many different aspects the field is highly interdisciplinary. It integrates psychology not only with cybernetics AI but also with neuroscience and clinical neurology with the philosophy of mind language and logic with linguistic work on grammar semantics and communication with anthropological studies of cultures and with biological and A Life research on animal behaviour evolution and life itself. Each of these disciplines in its own way asks what the mind is what it does how it works how it develops and how it is even possible. Boden traces the key questions back to Descartes's revolutionary writings and to the ideas of his followers and his radical critics through the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. Her story shows how controversies in the development of experimental physiology neurophysiology psychology evolutionary biology embryology and logic are still relevant today. Then she guides the reader through the complex interlinked paths along which the study of mind developed in the twentieth century. Cognitive science covers all mental phenomena not just cognition knowledge but also emotion personality psychopathology social communication religion motor action and consciousness. In each area Boden introduces the key ideas and researchers and discusses those philosophical critics who see cognitive science as fundamentally misguided. And she sketches the waves of resistance and acceptance on the part of the media and general public showing how these have affected the development of the field. No one else could tell this story as Boden can. She has been a member of the cognitive science community since the late 1950s and has known many of its key figures personally. Her narrative is written in a lively swift moving style enriched by the personal touch of someone who knows the story at first hand. Her history looks forward as well as back. Besides asking how state of the art research compares with the hopes of the early pioneers she identifies the most promising current work. Mind as Machine will be a rich resource for anyone working on the mind in any academic discipline who wants to know how our understanding of mental capacities has advanced over the years. A Bibliography of Philosophy William Swan Sonnenschein, 1897 Jung and Educational Theory Inna Semetsky, 2012-04-12 Jung and Educational Theory offers a new take on Jung's work providing original rich and informative material on his impact on educational research. Explores Jung's writing from the standpoint of educational philosophy assessing what it has to offer to theories of education. Highlights Jung's emphasis on education's role in bringing up integrated and ethical human beings Offers the perspectives of a diversity of academics and practitioners on topics ranging from the role of the unconscious in learning to the polytheistic classroom Both a valuable addition to the academic library and a significant new resource in the professional development of teachers Human Development Grace J. Craig, Don Baucum, 1999 Designed for students from a wide range of backgrounds this text takes a chronological and interdisciplinary approach to human development With its focus on context and culture the 8 E illustrates that the status of human development is inextricably embedded in a study of complex and changing cultures
