Navigating Life Margaux Bergen, 2016-08-02 I absolutely loved this beautiful book It's wise wry bracingly honest and so gripping I couldn't put it down. Clearly whip smart Margaux Bergen has one of those rare voices that pulls you in and makes you want to keep reading. Amy Chua, author of Battle Hymn of the Tiger Mother, an inspiring, piercingly honest user's guide to life written for the author's daughter and given to her on her first day of college, reflecting tough lessons about family work and marriage. You learn a few useful things at school: the three Rs come in handy and it's good to know how to perform under pressure and wait your turn, but most of what matters is what makes you into a functioning human being able to hold your own in conversation, find your path, know what to avoid in relationships, and secure a meaningful job. No teacher will ever tell you this. This diamond sharp, gut-punchingly honest book of hard-earned wisdom is one mother's effort to equip her daughter for survival in the real world. Margaux Bergen began writing this book when her daughter Charlotte turned nine and gave it to her right after graduation from high school when she was setting off for her first day of college. I am not writing this to groom or guide you to professional or academic success; she writes, "My goal is rather to give you tools that might help you engage with the world and flourish." Think of this as a kind of developing-bath-time wisdom. Wise, heartbreakingly funny, and resonantly true. Navigating Life has invaluable lessons for students of life of all ages. It will challenge you to lead a more meaningful life and to tackle the bumps along the way with grace, grit, style, and ingenuity. What The Blessings of a Skinned Knee did for the early years of parenting, Navigating Life does for the next, far more perilous chapter when new graduates are cast out on the high seas and have to learn to swim and find their way by themselves. 13

Is the New 18? Beth J. Harpaz, 2009-01-27. I wonder sometimes if there's something to the old superstition about the number thirteen. Maybe that superstition was originally created by the mothers in some tribe who noticed that in their children's thirteenth year they suddenly became possessed by evil spirits. Because it did seem that whenever Taz was around, things spilled and shattered, calm turned into chaos, and tempers were lost. So laments the mother of one thirteen-year-old boy, Taz, a teen who overnight it seemed went from a small, sweet, loving boy to a hulking, potty-mouthed Facebook/MySpace-addicted C student who didn't even bother to hide his scorn for being anywhere in the proximity of his parents. As this startling transformation floors journalist Beth Harpaz and her husband, Elon Harpaz, tries to make sense of a bizarre teenage wilderness of 100 sneakers, clouds of Axe body spray to hide the scent of pot, and cell phone bills so big they require nine-by-twelve envelopes. In the process, she begins chronicling her son's hilarious, sometimes harrowing indiscretions, blaming herself. "I am a terrible mother" becomes her steadfast refrain. Googling unfamiliar teenage slang, reading every parenting book she can get her hands on, and querying friends who also have teens. From a derailed family vacation where Taz is more interested in trying to get a cell phone connection than looking at the world's largest trees, boring to a prom where Taz is caught with liquor, to a trip to Australia sans parents in which Taz actually doesn't get into any trouble and manages to do his own laundry, the events that mark Taz's newfound and troublesome independence are told with a wry and poignant voice by a woman who's both wistful for the past and trying her hardest to understand her son's head-scratching new behavior. In her quest to infiltrate his world by spying on his MySpace page where he claims he's twenty two Harpaz expands her online monitoring and soon becomes a Facebook addict She also reflects on her own youth and entry into middle age and in the process achieves hard won wisdom A book for any parent of teens be they girls or boys 13 Is the New 18 is a delightfully comical foray into today's increasingly widening generation gap and one mom's attempt to figure it all out with little guidance and a whole lot of misplaced guilt

Confessions of a Scary Mommy Jill Smokler, 2012-04-03 Sometimes I just let my children fall asleep in front of the TV In a culture that idealizes motherhood it's scary to confess that in your house being a mother is beautiful and dirty and joyful and frustrating all at once Admitting that it's not easy doesn't make you a bad mom at least it shouldn't If I can't survive my daughter as a toddler how the hell am I going to get through the teenage years When Jill Smokler was first home with her small children she thought her blog would be something to keep friends and family updated To her surprise she hit a chord in the hearts of mothers everywhere I end up doing my son's homework It's wrong but so much easier Total strangers were contributing their views on that strange reality called motherhood As other women shared their stories Jill realized she wasn't alone in her feelings of exhaustion and imperfection My eighteen month old still can't say Mommy but used the word shit in perfect context But she sensed her readers were still holding back so decided to start an anonymous confessional a place where real moms could leave their most honest thoughts without fearing condemnation I pretend to be happy but I cry every night in the shower The reactions were amazing some sad some pee in your pants funny some brutally honest But they were real not a commercial glamorization I clock out of motherhood at 8 P M and hide in the basement with my laptop and a beer If you're already a fan lock the bathroom door on your whining kids run a bubble bath and settle in If you've not encountered Scary Mommy before break out a glass of champagne as well because you'll be toasting your initiation into a select club I know why some animals eat their young In chapters that cover husbands The Biggest Baby of Them All to homework Didn't I Already Graduate Confessions of a Scary

Mommy combines all new essays from Jill with the best of the anonymous confessions Sometimes I wish my son was still little then I hear kids screaming at the store As Jill says We like to paint motherhood as picture perfect A newborn peacefully resting on his mother s chest A toddler taking tentative first steps into his mother s loving arms A mother fluffing her daughter s prom dress These moments are indeed miraculous and joyful they can also be few and far between Of course you adore your kids Of course you would lay down your life for them But be honest now Have you ever wondered what possessed you to sign up for the job of motherhood STOP DO NOT OPEN THIS BOOK UNTIL YOU RECITE THESE VOWS I shall remember that no mother is perfect and my children will thrive because and sometimes even in spite of me I shall not preach to a fellow mother who has not asked my opinion It s none of my damn business I shall maintain a sense of humor about all things motherhood
