

Rhetorical Essay

Task: Select a speech by a reputable source and critique it according to the criteria discussed in class.

1. Choose a famous speech and fully annotate the text while considering content, structure, and rhetorical devices being used.
2. Notes as many examples of the author's use of devices and the function they serve as possible. That is, point out what is being done and why it is effective. If you have access to the audio version, you may also deconstruct the oral techniques being employed.
3. You may also wish to examine what George Orwell would say about the article. Explain whether you think that the "language errors" are done intentionally and for effect or whether they are merely examples of sloppy English.
4. Present your findings in the form of an essay. That is, develop a thesis that analyzes how the author proves his or her thesis/purpose. E.g. "Smith's article is an excellent example of how an author can manipulate language to disguise her real intention of creating patriotic fervour."
5. The essay should be two to three pages, double-spaced. You must also submit:
 - a. Textual Analysis Chart
 - b. The annotated speech
 - c. At least one hand edited version your analysis

Note: a short list of things to consider:

Appeal to logos, pathos, or ethos; purpose; audience; occasion; tone; syntax; structure; effectiveness/persuasive of the argument; rhetorical devices

Rebirth Of Rhetoric Essays In Language And Education:

Rebirth of Rhetoric Richard Andrews, 2012-05-16 Rebirth of Rhetoric brings together contributions from several fields to provide a forum in which a unifying theory for language and literature studies can be debated. The book does not aim to resurrect classical Renaissance rhetoric but to remake it within a contemporary context. The context of texts both spoken and written is one of the main emphases of this collection, whether it is the ideology informing the text or the way in which a text is transformed by its audience. The book also aims to present a range of practical approaches to the study of texts of all kinds: literary, televisual, film and photography. It also argues the case for developments in the Arts and Humanities which will bring together people working in Education, Linguistics, Composition, Literature and Cultural Studies. Rebirth of Rhetoric

Includes prompts and principles for those who wish to improve their own practice or to engage in projects or research in this area. Rereading Aristotle's Rhetoric Alan G. Gross, Arthur E. Walzer, 2008-02-20. In this collection edited by Alan G. Gross and Arthur E. Walzer, scholars in communication, rhetoric and composition and philosophy seek to reread Aristotle's Rhetoric from a purely rhetorical perspective. So important do these contributors find the Rhetoric in fact that a core tenet in this book is that all subsequent rhetorical theory is but a series of responses to issues raised by the central work. The essays reflect on questions basic to rhetoric as a humanistic discipline. Some explore the ways in which the Rhetoric explicates the nature of the art of rhetoric, noting that on this issue the tensions within the Rhetoric often provide a direct passageway into our own conflicts. The Words of

Oral Discourse and Education Bronwyn Davies,P. Corson,2013-11-01 Oral Discourse and Education examines spoken language as a field of study looking at the various ways in which we can both theorise the place of talk in education and examine the way talk is actually done in educational settings Given the centrality of literacy based practices in schools a book focusing on talk brings quite different and important perspectives to the study of education Talk is something that has all too often been devalued and taken for granted What becomes evident throughout the papers included in this volume is that talk is of central importance in establishing identities and the cultures in which those identities are located However because we are unused to reflexively examining the way we talk there is a serious disjuncture between what we believe talk should achieve and what can be seen to be achieved in actual talk in educational settings Anyone interested in teaching should read this book Becoming more aware of the centrality of talk and what it achieves is important both for enabling us to find ways to bring our ideals more in line with our practices and for being able to recognise and reflect on the ways our talk can be achieving things quite other than what we intend This book is relevant to teachers at primary secondary and tertiary levels and for researchers interested in spoken language in educational contexts
