Symbolism and Power in Central Asia Sally Cummings, 2013-09-13 With the collapse of communism post communist societies scrambled to find meaning to their new independence Central Asia was no exception Events relationships gestures spatial units and objects produced conveyed and interpreted meaning The new power container of the five independent states of Kazakhstan Kyrgyzstan Tajikistan Turkmenistan and Uzbekistan would significantly influence this process of signification Post Soviet Central Asia is an intriguing field to examine this transformation a region which did not see an organised independence movement develop prior to Soviet implosion at the centre it provokes questions about how symbolisation begins in the absence of a national will to do so The transformation overnight of Soviet republic into sovereign state provokes questions about how the process of communism turned nationalism could become symbolised and what specific role symbols came to play in these early years of independence Characterized by authoritarianism since 1991 the region s ruling elites have enjoyed disproportionate access to knowledge and to deciding what how and when that knowledge should be applied The first of its kind on Central Asia this book not only widens our understandings of developments in this geopolitically important region but also contributes to broader studies of representation ritual power and identity This book was published as a special issue of Europe Asia Studies

The Political Economy of Narcotics Julia Buxton, 2008-02-29 This book explores the origins history and organisation of the international system of narcotic drug control with a specific focus on heroin cannabis and cocaine It argues that the century long quest to eliminate the production trade in and use of narcotic drugs has been a profound failure The statistics produced by the international and domestic narcotic drug control agencies point to a sustained expansion of the drug trade despite the imposition of harsh criminal sanctions against those engaged as producers traffickers or consumers in the narcotic drugs market The roots of this major international policy failure are traced back to the outdated ideology of prohibition which is shown to be counterproductive utopian and a fundamentally inadequate basis for narcotic drug policy in the twenty first century Prohibition championed by many US policy makers has left the international community poorly positioned to confront those changes to the drug trade and drug markets that have resulted from globalisation Moreover prohibition based approaches are causing more harm than good as is demonstrated through reference to issues such as HIV AIDS the environment conflict development and social justice As the drug control system approaches its centenary there are signs that the global consensus on narcotic drug prohibition is fracturing Some European and South American states are pushing for a new approach based on regulation decriminalisation and harm reduction But those seeking to revise prohibition strategies faces entrenched resistance primarily by the U S This important text argues that successive American governments have pursued a contradictory approach acting decisively against the narcotic drug trade at home and abroad while at the same time working with drug traffickers and producer states when it is in America s strategic interest As a result US policy approaches emerge as a decisive factor in accounting for the failure of prohibition
