Cartwright, 1990-12-31 The Young Leonardo Larry J. Feinberg, 2014-04-21 Leonardo da Vinci is often presented as the transcendent genius removed from or ahead of his time This book however attempts to understand him in the context of Renaissance Florence Larry J Feinberg explores Leonardo s origins and the beginning of his career as an artist While celebrating his many artistic achievements the book illuminates his debt to other artists works and his struggles to gain and retain patronage as well as his career and personal difficulties Feinberg examines the range of Leonardo s interests including aerodynamics anatomy astronomy botany geology hydraulics optics and warfare technology to clarify how the artist s broad intellectual curiosity informed his art Situating the artist within the political social cultural and artistic context of mid and late fifteenth century Florence Feinberg shows how this environment influenced Leonardo s artistic output and laid the groundwork for the achievements of his mature works Voyage Amanda Rainger, Paul Rogers, 2002 Voyage is a French course with grammar and progression at its heart designed to help teachers cover all the requirements of the National Curriculum The course provides clear explanations and a variety of practice activities making learning and teaching easier. It fully integrates differentiation to meet the needs of a wide ability range and includes regular assessments such as end of unit tests at Key Stage 3 and examination practice at Key Stage 4. It addresses the information and communication technology component of the National Curriculum. Bridging Reading Aloud and Speech Production Simone Sulpizio, Sachiko Kinoshita, 2016-07-25. For decades human cognition involved in reading aloud and speech production has been investigated extensively. A quote search of the two in Google Scholar produces about 83 000 and 255 000 results respectively. This large amount of research has produced quite detailed descriptions of the cognitive mechanisms that allow people to speak or to read aloud a word. However, despite the fact that reading aloud and speech production share some processes (generation of phonology and preparation of a motor speech response), the research in these two areas seems to have taken parallel and independent tracks with almost no contact between the two. The present Research Topic takes an initial step towards building a bridge that will link the two research areas, as we believe that such an endeavour is essential for moving forward in our understanding of how the mind/brain processes words. To this aim, we encourage contributions exploring the relation between speech production and reading aloud. The questions the Research Topic should address include, but are not limited to, the following: To what extent are speech production and word reading/reading aloud similar? Are there some shared components and/or mechanisms between the two processes? Is the time course of the supposed shared mechanisms' activation similar in the two processes? How does the different input (conceptual vs. orthographic) interact with the types of information that reading and speaking share (semantic and phonological knowledge, articulatory codes)? How does a difference in the input affect the supposed common stages of processing, i.e. phonological encoding and articulatory planning and execution? We welcome any kind of contribution, e.g. original research article, review, opinion, that answers the above or other questions related to the Topic.

Featural Relations in the Brain: Theoretical and Experimental Perspectives on Grammatical Agreement, 2nd Edition Simona Mancini, Sendy Caffarra, Andrew Nevins. Successful speaking and understanding hinges on the almost effortless capacity of speakers to decode and build dependencies among words in a sentence based on covariance in some specific features. Whenever two features covary, an agreement relation is established. Agreement is a widespread and varied phenomenon; its pervasiveness in some languages contrasts with its near absence in others, which poses a challenge for linguists and psycholinguists that attempt to explain the mechanics of its representation, processing and acquisition. Agreement has been extensively investigated from a theoretical perspective but also from the point of view of psycholinguistics and the cognitive neuroscience of language. Theoretical linguistics has provided an articulated system of structural representations and computations on which the establishment of agreement relations hinges, while psycholinguistics and cognitive neuroscience have aimed at unveiling the algorithms that underlie the use of these computations and their behavioral and neurophysiological bases. The goal of this Research Topic is to draw together multiple and interdisciplinary work to highlight the state of the art in the study of agreement and propose new perspectives on this research topic Publisher's note In this 2nd edition the following article was added Mancini S Caffarra S and Nevins A 2021 Editorial Featural Relations in the Brain Theoretical and Experimental Perspectives on Grammatical Agreement Front Psychol 12 754430 doi 10.3389/fpsyg.2021.754430

Animacy in Cognition: Effects, Mechanisms, and Theories Michael J. Serra, Josefa N. S. Pandeirada, Joshua VanArsdall, 2024-11-19 People and animals broadly animates are important dynamic forces in the natural world They represent social targets such as friends and enemies economic and romantic partners predators and prey and companions Most importantly unlike inanimate objects animate agents have internal goals and drives that cause them to act on the world rather than simply be acted on In short animates fill our world with novel causes and have been a consistent selection pressure over the course of evolution human and nonhuman Cognitive scientists have long acknowledged the importance of animacy investigating it as a perceptual phenomenon as a component of language a natural category a demand on attention a dimension of neurological organization and more recently as an important factor in memory Although animacy has been a dimension of interest in cognitive science for quite some time cognitive scientists from different subdisciplines interested in animacy e.g. perception attention language and memory rarely talk with one another to synthesize findings across subfields A major goal of this research topic is to solicit articles from across cognitive science in a broad sense that investigate the role that animacy plays in cognition in the hopes that authors and readers may begin to see the bigger picture regarding how animacy influences the mind We hope that by bringing together researchers from across cognitive science we will hear from a diverse set of perspectives regarding animacy representing a variety of research questions and methodologies within this larger topic Likewise we hope that the finished research topic will lead to an increased and more varied exploration of the role of animacy in our thoughts and actions and will appeal to readers across fields The High School ,1923
