Motion(less) Pictures Justin Remes, 2015-02-24 Conducting the first comprehensive study of films that do not move Justin Remes challenges the primacy of motion in cinema and tests the theoretical limits of film aesthetics and representation Reading experimental films such as Andy Warhol's Empire 1964 the Fluxus work Disappearing Music for Face 1965 Michael Snow's So Is This 1982 and Derek Jarman's Blue 1993 he shows how motionless films defiantly showcase the static while collapsing the boundaries between cinema photography painting and literature Analyzing four categories of static film furniture films designed to be viewed partially or distractedly protracted films which use extremely slow motion to impress stasis textual films which foreground the static display of letters and written words and monochrome films which display a field of monochrome color as their image Remes maps the interrelations between movement stillness and duration and their complication of cinema's conventional function and effects Arguing all films unfold in time he suggests duration is more fundamental to cinema than motion initiating fresh inquiries into film's manipulation of temporality from rigidly structured works to those with more ambiguous and open ended frameworks Remes's discussion integrates the writings of Roland Barthes Gilles Deleuze Tom Gunning Rudolf Arnheim Raymond Bellour and Noel Carroll and will appeal to students of film theory experimental cinema intermedia studies and aesthetics Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress, 1991

E-motion Picture Magic Birgit Wolz, 2005 Like no other medium before it the popular movie presents the potential of a new power for illuminating the depth of human experience E Motion Picture Magic employs that power as a tool to increase consciousness Cinema therapy offers more perspective on life prompting the viewer to step back from his or her problems in order to feel less insecure worried or discontented Using films for self improvement allows a shift in perspective when viewed with conscious awareness The use of movies for personal growth and healing carries forward a long standing connection between storytelling and self reflection that may date back to the beginnings of spoken language The movie experience used in very specific ways can have significant benefits for those who are willing to apply themselves using E Motion Picture Magic that can be both beneficial as well as enjoyable Technical Paper United States.
