Noise, Water, Meat Douglas Kahn,2001-08-24 An examination of the role of sound in twentieth century arts This interdisciplinary history and theory of sound in the arts reads the twentieth century by listening to it to the emphatic and exceptional sounds of modernism and those on the cusp of postmodernism recorded sound noise silence the fluid sounds of immersion and dripping and the meat voices of viruses screams and bestial cries Focusing on Europe in the first half of the century and the United States in the postwar years

Douglas Kahn explores aural activities in literature music visual arts theater and film Placing aurality at the center of the history of the arts he revisits key artistic questions listening to the sounds that drown out the politics and poetics that generated them Artists discussed include Antonin Artaud George Brecht William Burroughs John Cage Sergei Eisenstein Fluxus Allan Kaprow Michael McClure Yoko Ono Jackson Pollock Luigi Russolo and Dziga Vertov A Dark Trace Herman Westerink, 2009 Figures of the Unconscious No 8 Sigmund Freud in his search for the origins of the sense of guilt in individual life and culture regularly speaks of reading a dark trace thus referring to the Oedipus myth as a myth about the problem of human guilt In Freud's view this sense of guilt is a trace a path that leads deep into the individual's mental state into childhood memories and into the prehistory of culture and religion Herman Westerink follows this trace and analyzes Freud's thought on the sense of guilt as a central issue in his work from the earliest studies on the moral and guilty characters of the hysterics via later complex differentiations within the concept of the sense of guilt and finally to Freud's conception of civilization's discontents and Jewish sense of guilt The sense of guilt is a key issue in Freudian psychoanalysis not only in relation to other key concepts in psychoanalytic theory but also in relation to Freud's debates with other psychoanalysts including Carl Jung and Melanie Klein
