RMS Lusitania - A History in Picture Postcards Eric Sauder,2015-03-31 Lusitania was an engineering marvel at one time the largest fastest and most opulent vessel in the world When she was sunk by a German submarine on 7 May 1915 with the loss of about 1 200 lives it sent shockwaves around the world The iconic passenger liner immediately became a weapon in the Allied propaganda war helping to shift American public opinion against Germany and influencing the USA s eventual entry into the First World War Her many achievements and successes were largely forgotten This volume tells Lusitania s story from construction to the aftermath of her sinking in remarkable contemporary postcards The Photographic Picture Post-card Edward John Wall, Henry Snowden Ward, 1906

Samors, Steven Dahlman, 2017-11-07 Chicago was incorporated as a city in 1837 and for the years that followed before the Great Chicago Fire the city grew slowly and steadily finally becoming for a brief period the second largest city in America After the Fire in 1871 the city rebuilt quickly and technological changes came with brick buildings a more modern downtown and transportation system This was the prologue to the concept of this new book about how Chicago has changed and adapted over the past 145 years The authors through the use of a combination of striking and evocative postcards gathered by Lawrence Okrent black and white photos drawn from collections amassed by the Chicago History Museum and the CTA and color photographs taken by one of the book's co authors Steven Dahlman have created a book that provides the reader with the many ways in which Chicago has changed from the 1880s to today From publisher Letters, Postcards, Email Esther Milne, 2012-02-27 In this original study Milne moves between close readings of letters postcards and emails and investigations of the material technological infrastructures of these forms to answer the question How does presence function as an aesthetic and rhetorical strategy within networked communication practices As her work reveals the relation between old and new communication systems is more complex than allowed in much contemporary media theory Although the correspondents of letters postcards and emails are not usually present to one another as they write and read their exchanges this does not necessarily inhibit affective communication Indeed this study demonstrates how physical absence may in some instances provide correspondents with intense intimacy and a spiritual almost telepathic sense of the other's presence While corresponding by letter postcard or email readers construe an imaginary incorporeal body for their correspondents that in turn reworks their interlocutor's self presentation In this regard the fantasy of presence reveals a key paradox of cultural communication namely that material signifiers can be used to produce the experience of incorporeal presence
