Picturesque Kent:

Picturesque Surrey Gibson Thompson, Duncan Moul, 1902 Picturesque Sussex Duncan Moul, William John Hardy, 1903 Picturesque antiquities of the English cities John Britton, 1828 Picturesque Kent D. Moul, G. Thompson, 1990-01-01 Picturesque Sussex, sketches, with descriptive letterpress by W.J. Hardy Duncan Moul, 1903 Bookseller's catalogues Thomas Arthur (bookseller.), 1868 Picturesque Surrey, sketches, with descriptive letterpress by G. Thompson Duncan Moul, 1902 Picturesque Kent Gibson Thompson, Duncan Moul, 1901 The Best Books William Swan Sonnenschein, 1912 Kent Coast from the Air Jason Hawkes, 2009-05-01 Almost one third of the people of Kent live in coastal districts The superb aerial photographs in this title provide a fascinating overview of this historic coastline

Weather Architecture Jonathan Hill, 2013-06-17 Weather Architecture further extends Jonathan Hill's investigation of authorship by recognising the creativity of the weather At a time when environmental awareness is of growing relevance the overriding aim is to understand a history of architecture as a history of weather and thus to consider the weather as an architectural author that affects design construction and use in a creative dialogue with other authors such as the architect and user Environmental discussions in architecture tend to focus on the practical or the poetic but here they are considered together Rather than investigate architecture's relations to the weather in isolation they are integrated into a wider discussion of cultural and social influences on architecture The analysis of weather's effects on the design and experience of specific buildings and gardens is interwoven with a historical survey of changing attitudes to the weather in the arts sciences and society leading to a critical re-evaluation of contemporary responses to climate change The Publisher, 1901

Quarterly Guide for Readers Finsbury (England). Public Library, 1914 Ichnographia Rustica William Alvis Brogden, 2017-02-17 One of the most significant occurrences in the history of design was the creation of the English Landscape Garden Accounts of its genesis the surprising structural change from the formal to a seeming informal are numerous But none has ever been quite convincing and none satisfactorily placed the contributions of Stephen Switzer Unlike his contemporaries Switzer an 18th century author of books on gardening and agricultural improvement grasped a quite new principle that the fashionable pursuit of great gardens should be rural and extensive rather than merely the ornamentation of a particular part of an estate Switzer saw that a whole estate could be enjoyed as an aesthetic experience and by the process of improving its value could increase wealth By encouraging improvers to see the garden in his enlarged sense he opened up the adjoining countryside the landscape and made the whole a subject of unified design Some few followed his advice immediately such as Bathurst at Cirencester But it took some time for his ideas to become generally accepted Could this vision and its working out in practice between 1710 and 1740 be the very reason for such changes 300 years after the first volume of his writings began to be published this book offers a timely critical examination of lessons learned and Switzer's roles In major influential early works at Castle Howard and Blenheim and later the more minor works such as Spy Park Leeswood or Rhual the relationships between these designs and his writings is demonstrated In doing so it makes possible major reassessment of the developments and thus our attitudes to well known works It provides an explanation of how he and his colleagues and contemporaries first made what he had called Ichnographia Rustica or more familiarly Modern Gardening from the mid 1740s land later landscape gardens It reveals an exceptional innovator who by transforming the philosophical way in which nature was viewed integrated good design with good farming and horticultural practice for the first time It raises the issue of the cleavage in thought of the later 18th century essentially whether the ferme ornee as the mixture of utile and dulci was the perfect designed landscape or whether this was the enlarged garden with features of unadorned nature The book discusses these considerable and continuing contrary influences on later work and suggests Switzer has many lessons for how contemporary landscape and garden design ought be perceived and practised

Geographical Teacher ,1904 Includes section Reviews and other bibliographical material A Landscape of Architecture, History and Fiction Jonathan Hill,2015-12-22 Architecture can be analogous to a history a fiction and a landscape We expect a history or a novel to be written in words but they can also be cast in concrete or seeded in soil The catalyst to this tradition was the simultaneous and interdependent emergence in the eighteenth century of new art forms the picturesque landscape the analytical history and the English novel Each of them instigated a creative and questioning response to empiricism s detailed investigation of subjective experience and the natural world and together they stimulated a design practice and lyrical environmentalism that profoundly influenced subsequent centuries Associating the changing natural world with journeys in self understanding and the design process with a visual and spatial autobiography this book describes journeys between London and the North Sea in successive centuries analysing an enduring and evolving tradition from the picturesque and romanticism to modernism Creative architects have often looked to the past to understand the present and imagine the future Twenty first century architects need to appreciate the shock of the old as well as the shock of the new The Architecture of Ruins Jonathan Hill,2019-03-25 The Architecture of Ruins Designs on the Past Present and Future identifies an alternative and significant history of architecture from the sixteenth century to the twenty first century in which a building is designed occupied and imagined as a ruin This design practice conceives a monument and a ruin as creative interdependent and simultaneous themes within a single building dialectic addressing temporal and environmental questions in poetic psychological and practical terms and stimulating questions of personal and national identity nature and culture weather and climate permanence and impermanence and life and death Conceiving a building as a dialogue between a monument and a ruin intensifies the already blurred relations between the unfinished and the ruined and envisages the past the present and the future in a single architecture Structured around a collection of biographies this book conceives a monument and a ruin as metaphors for a life and means to negotiate between a self and a society Emphasising the interconnections between designers and the particular ways in which later architects learned from earlier ones the chapters investigate an evolving interdisciplinary design practice to show the relevance of historical understanding to design Like a history a design is a reinterpretation of the past that is meaningful to the present Equally a design is equivalent to a fiction convincing users to suspend disbelief We expect a history or a novel to be written in words but they can also be delineated in drawing cast in concrete or seeded in soil The architect is a physical novelist as well as a physical historian Like building sites ruins are full of potential In revealing not only what is lost but also what is incomplete a ruin suggests the future as well as the past As a stimulus to the imagination a ruin s incomplete and broken forms expand architecture s allegorical and metaphorical capacity indicating that a building can remain unfinished literally and in the imagination focusing attention on the creativity of users as well as architects Emphasising the symbiotic relations between nature and culture a building designed occupied and imagined as a ruin acknowledges the coproduction of multiple authors whether human non human or atmospheric and is an appropriate model for architecture in an era of increasing climate change
