Can't and Won't Lydia Davis, 2024-06-04 This story collection is evidence of a writer who is in total control of her own peculiar original voice its pleasures are unexpected and manifold Kate Christensen Elle Lydia Davis s stories may be literal one liners like the pithy Bloomington Or they may be surprising investigations into mundane disruptions such as A Small Story About a Small Box of Chocolates The stories may appear in the form of letters of complaint they may be extracted from Flaubert's correspondence or they may be inspired by the author's own dreams or the dreams of friends. What does not vary throughout. Can't and Won't. Lydia Davis's fifth collection of stories is the power of her finely honed prose. Davis is sharply observant; she is wry or witty or poignant. Above all, she is refreshing. Davis writes with bracing candor and sly humor about the quotidian, revealing the mysterious, the foreign, the alienating, and the pleasurable within the predictable patterns of daily life.

Invisible Cities Italo Calvino, 2013-08-12. Italo Calvino's beloved intricately crafted novel about an Emperor's travels, a brilliant journey across far-off places and distant memory. Cities like dreams are made of desires and fears, even if the thread of their discourse is secret; their rules are absurd; their perspectives deceitful; and everything conceals something else. In a garden sit the aged Kublai Khan and the young Marco Polo, Mongol emperor and Venetian traveler. Kublai Khan has sensed the end of his empire coming soon. Marco Polo diverts his host with stories of the cities he has seen in his travels around the empire: cities and memory cities and desire cities and designs cities and the dead cities and the sky trading cities, hidden cities. As Marco Polo unspools his tales, the emperor detects these fantastic places are more than they appear.

Be the Change, Himāl, 1999.

Pig Earth John Berger, 1992-10-27. With this haunting first volume in his Into Their Labours trilogy, John Berger begins his chronicle of the eclipse of peasant cultures in the twentieth century. Set in a small village in the French Alps, Pig Earth relates the stories of skeptical, hard-working men and fiercely independent women of calves born and pigs slaughtered, of summer haymaking and long dark winters of rest, of the message of forgiveness from a dead father to his prodigal son, and of the marvelous Lucie Cabrol, exiled to a hut high in the mountains, an inexorable part of the lives of men who have known her. Above all, this masterpiece of sensuous description and profound moral resonance is an act of reckoning that conveys the precise wealth and weight of a world we are losing.

Everything Like Before Kjell Askildsen, 2021-04-27. From one of the greatest Norwegian authors of the twentieth century comes a collection of spare, biting stories of people caught between reality and expectation, hope and despair, love and longing. A man and a woman in a quiet remote house, an old man on a park bench, an estranged brother in a railway café. Kjell Askildsen's characters are surrounded by absence. Filled with disquiet and longing, they walk to a fjord, they smoke, they drink on a veranda, they listen to conversations that drift through open windows. Small flashes like the promise of a sunhat, a nail in a cherry tree, or a raised flag reveal the interminable space between desire and reality in which Askildsen's characters are forever suspended. Widely recognized as one of the greatest modern short story writers with unadorned prose and a dark humor, Askildsen captures life as it really is, the worlds of his characters uncanny mirrors of our own.
