Re-constructing Archaeology Michael Shanks, Christopher Tilley, 2016-09-17 In Re Constructing Archaeology Shanks and Tilley aim to challenge the disciplinary practices of both traditional and the new archaeology and to present a radical alternative a critically self conscious archaeology aware of itself as practice in the present and equally a social archaeology that appreciates artefacts not merely as objects of analysis but as part of a social world of past and present that is charged with meaning It is a fresh and invigorating contribution to the emergence of a philosophically and politically informed archaeology T&T Clark Handbook of Anthropology and the Hebrew Bible Emanuel Pfoh, 2022-12-15 This handbook presents an overview of the main approaches from social and cultural anthropology to the Hebrew Bible Since the late 19th century biblical scholarship has addressed issues and themes related to biblical stories from a perspective which could now be considered socio anthropological It is however only since the 1960s that biblical scholars have started to produce readings and incorporate analytical models drawn directly from social anthropology to widen the interpretive scope of the social and historical data contained in the biblical sources The handbook is arranged into two main thematic parts Part

1 assesses the place of the Bible in social anthropology examines the contribution of ethnoarchaeology to the recovery of the social world of Iron Age Palestine and offers insights from the anthropology of the Mediterranean for the interpretation of the biblical stories Part 2 provides a series of case studies on anthropological themes arising in the Hebrew Bible These include kinship and social organisation death cultural and collective memory and ritualism Contributors also examine how the biblical stories reveal dynamics of power and authority gender and honour and shame and how socio anthropological approaches can reveal these narratives and deepen our knowledge of the human societies and cultural context of the texts Bringing together the expertise of scholars of the Hebrew Bible and Biblical Archaeology this ethnographic introduction prompts new questions into our understanding of anthropology and the Bible

Graphing Culture

Change in North American Archaeology R. Lee Lyman, 2021-06-10 Documentation analysis and explanation of culture change have long been goals of archaeology Scientific graphs facilitate the visual thinking that allow archaeologists to determine the relationship between variables and if well designed comprehend the processes implied by the relationship Different graph types suggest different ontologies and theories of change and particular techniques of parsing temporally continuous morphological variation of artefacts into types influence graph form North American archaeologists have grappled with finding a graph that effectively and efficiently displays culture change over time Line graphs bar graphs and numerous one off graph types were used between 1910 and 1950 after which spindle graphs displaying temporal frequency distributions of specimens within each of multiple artefact types emerged as the most readily deciphered diagram The variety of graph types used over the twentieth century indicate archaeologists often mixed elements of both Darwinian variational evolutionary change and Midas touch like transformational change Today there is minimal discussion of graph theory or graph grammar in introductory archaeology textbooks or advanced texts and elements of the two theories of evolution are still mixed Culture has changed and archaeology provides unique access to the totality of humankind s cultural past It is therefore crucial that graph theory construction and decipherment are revived in archaeological discussion Gendered

Labor in Specialized Economies Sophia E. Kelly, Traci Ardren, 2016-12-01 Prehistoric economic relationships are often presented as genderless yet mounting research highlights the critical role gendered identities play in the division of work tasks and the development of specialized production in pre modern economic systems In Gendered Labor in Specialized Economies contributors combine the study of gender in the archaeological record with the examination of intensified craft production in prehistory to reassess the connection between craft specialization and the types and amount of work that men and women performed in ancient communities Chapters are organized by four interrelated themes crucial for understanding the implications of gender in the organization of craft production craft specialization and the political economy combined effort in specialized production the organization of female and male specialists and flexibility and rigidity in the gendered division of labor Contributors consider how changes to the gendered division of labor in craft manufacture altered other types of production or resulted from modifications in the organization of production elsewhere in the economic system Striking a balance between theoretical and methodological approaches and presenting case studies from sites around the world Gendered Labor in Specialized Economies offers a guide to the major issues that will frame future research on how men s and women s work changes predisposes and structures the course of economic development in various societies Contributors Alejandra Alonso Olvera Traci Ardren Michael G Callaghan Nigel Chang Cathy Lynne Costin Pilar Margarita Hernandez Escontras A Halliwell Sue Harrington James M Heidke Sophia E Kelly Brigitte Kovacevich T Kam Manahan Ann Brower Stahl Laura Swantek Rita Wright Andrea Yankowski The Ancient Central Andes Jeffrey Quilter, 2022-05-05

The Ancient Central Andes presents a general overview of the prehistoric peoples and cultures of the Central Andes the region now encompassing most of Peru and significant parts of Ecuador Bolivia northern Chile and northwestern Argentina The book contextualizes past and modern scholarship and provides a balanced view of current research Two opening chapters present the intellectual political and practical background and history of research in the Central Andes and the spatial temporal and formal dimensions of the study of its past Chapters then proceed in chronological order from remote antiquity to the Spanish Conquest A number of important themes run through the book including the tension between those scholars who wish to study Peruvian antiquity on a comparative basis and those who take historicist approaches the concept of Lo Andino commonly used by many specialists that assumes long term unchanging patterns of culture some of which are claimed to persist to the present and culture change related to severe environmental events Consensus opinions on interpretations are highlighted as are disputes among scholars regarding interpretations of the past The Ancient Central Andes provides an up to date objective survey of the archaeology of the Central Andes that is much needed Students and interested readers will benefit greatly from this introduction to a key period in South America s past Time, Process and Structured Transformation in Archaeology James McGlade,Sander E. van der Leeuw,2013-10-16 In a discipline which essentially studies how modern man came to be it is remarkable that there are hardly any conceptual tools to describe change This is due to the history of the western intellectual and scientific tradition which for a long time favoured mechanics over dynamics and the study of stability over that of change Change was primarily deemed due to external events in archaeology mainly climatic or environmental Revolutionary innovations in the natural and life sciences often erroneously referred to as chaos theory suggest that there are ways to overcome this problem A wide range of processes can be described in terms of dynamic systems and modern computing methods enable us to investigate many of their properties This volume presents a cogent argument for the use of such approaches and a discussion of a number of its aspects by a range of scientists from the humanities social and natural sciences and archaeology Artifact Classification Dwight W Read,2016-09-16 Archaeologists have been developing artifact typologies to understand cultural categories for as long as the discipline has existed Dwight Read examines these attempts to systematize the cultural domains in premodern societies through a historical study of pottery typologies He then offers a methodology for producing classifications that are both salient to the cultural groups that produced them and relevant for establishing cultural categories and timelines for the archaeologist attempting to understand the relationship between material culture and ideational culture of ancient societies This volume is valuable to upper level students and professional archaeologists across the discipline Archaeology and Modernity Julian Thomas,2004 Julian Thomas explores the concept of objectivity in archaeology and asks how far our perceptions of the past are coloured by the world in which we live What are the implications for scholarship if we cannot see ancient cultures from the perspective of the people who lived them The Life Within Stephen Houston,2014-03-25 Beautifully written and illustrated The Life Within is the first full study of the vitality and materiality of Classic Maya art and writing and the quest for transcendence and immortality Stone Vessels in the Near East during the Iron Age and the Persian Period Andrea Squitieri,2017-03-13 This book focuses on the characteristics and the development of the stone vessel industry in the Near East during the Iron Age and the Persian period c 1200 330 BCE
