Pietro Belluschi Modern American Architect:

Pietro Belluschi Meredith L. Clausen,1994 Meredith Clausen reveals the enormous power that Belluschi wielded as an arbiter of taste and decision maker in the 1950s and 1960s his role in shaping the policy of the State Department in its overseas building program and his role in securing major commissions for favored architects such as I M Pei Equally important is Clausen s discussion of Belluschi s role in the development of regionalism in the Pacific Northwest and its impact on the definition of modernism as it was emerging in the United States

Beauty of the City Philip Niles,2008 aAll new things built with the idea of preserving the beauty of the city and adding to it aA E DoyleThe Central Library Benson Hotel Reed College the Meier Frank building the U S National Bankthese are just a few of the grand Portland icons designed by Albert E Doyle During a period of rapid growth in Portland Oregon after the Lewis Clark Centennial Exposition and before the Great Depression Doyle 1877 1928 was the cityas most important architect Beauty of the City is the first biography of this celebrated architect Doyleas career was short just twenty one years Yet everywhere Portland retains his imprint Many of Doyleas classical often white terra cotta buildings became venerable city landmarks He also designed Portland residences Neahkahnie beach cottages and houses and banks in Oregon and Washington Using A E Doyleas own diaries and letters and his firmas records historian Philip Niles traces the architectas life and times in the context of the burgeoning cityscape As Portland expanded beyond its frontier origins and provincialism Doyle helped introduce East Coast and European sophistication Indeed his refined sensibility influenced the development of the Northwest Regional Style by Pietro Belluschi and John Yeon among others Doyle set the standard for elegance and proportion that later architects adapted to more modern stylesahis standard defines Portlandas vibrant core and contributes to the cityas beauty as much today as it did eighty years ago Readers interested in Northwest history and culture will appreciate this compelling and richly illustrated biography of a Portland architect and the parallel story of the growth of the city Likewise architectural historians and those seeking to better understand Portland's architectural heritage will enjoy reading of Doyle's contributions to this celebrated cityscape The Details of Modern Architecture Edward R. Ford, 1990 Covering the period 1890-1932 this book focuses on various recognised masters explaining the detailing and construction techniques used in their buildings

Classic Modern Homes of the Thirties James Ford, Katherine Morrow Ford, 1989-01-01 Over 300 illustrations including sharply detailed photographs line drawings of floor and site plans elevations and cross sections depict interiors and exteriors of 62 houses exemplifying the purpose spirit and techniques of modern architecture A clearly written explanatory text discusses the use of materials family and location analysis site costs and other factors involved in the design and construction of these homes

Five Houses, Ten Details Edward R. Ford, 2012-04-17 Edward Ford's forty years of practicing and teaching architecture have focused on one area the architectural detail Yet despite two hugely influential books The Details of Modern Architecture volumes 1 and 2 numerous articles and lectures given from Vancouver to Vienna there are two questions Ford has remarkably never answered What is a detail and more importantly What is a good detail Ford is an architect as well as a writer so it is not surprising that rather than answering these questions in a third book he spent six years on the design and construction of a house Building it was not an exercise in the application of ideas about detail it was rather a mechanism for answering those two simple questions

Alloys Marin R. Sullivan, 2022-03-22 A new look at the interrelationship of architecture and sculpture during one of the richest periods of American modern design Alloys looks at a unique period of synergy and exchange in the postwar United States when sculpture profoundly shaped architecture and vice versa Leading architects such as Gordon Bunshaft and Eero Saarinen turned to sculptors including Harry Bertoia Alexander Calder Richard Lippold and Isamu Noguchi to produce site determined large scale sculptures tailored for their buildings highly visible and well traversed threshold spaces The parameters of these spaces atriums lobbies plazas and entryways led to various designs like sculptural walls ceilings and screens that not only embraced new industrial materials and processes but also demonstrated art's ability to merge with lived architectural spaces Marin Sullivan argues that these sculptural commissions represent an alternate history of midcentury American art Rather than singular masterworks by lone geniuses some of the era's most notable spaces Philip Johnson's Four Seasons Restaurant in Mies van der Rohe's Seagram Building Max Abramovitz's Philharmonic Hall at Lincoln Center and Pietro Belluschi and Walter Gropius's Pan Am Building would be diminished without the collaborative efforts of architects and artists At the same time the artistic creations within these spaces could not exist anywhere else Sullivan shows that the principle of synergy provides an ideal framework to assess this pronounced relationship between sculpture and architecture She also explores the afterlives of these postwar commissions in the decades since their construction A fresh consideration of sculpture's relationship to architectural design and functionality following World War II Alloys highlights the affinities between the two fields and the ways their connections remain with us today Louis I. Kahn's Jewish Architecture Susan G.
