Tourism and Indigenous Peoples is a unique text examining the role of indigenous societies in tourism and how they interact within the tourism nexus Unlike other publications this text focuses on the active role that indigenous peoples take in the industry and uses international case studies and experiences to provide a global context to illustrate best practice and aid comparison First published over ten years ago the editors Butler and Hinch have thoroughly revised and updated the text to bring together a new collection of contributions and case studies from recognised international authors and those with first hand experiences in this area Divided into five main sections the text looks at this topic under the following headings
Involvement Uses case studies to discuss and compare such as campfire programmes in east Africa and the employment of indigenous peoples as guides amongst other cases
Turbulence Host guest relationships conflicts on communities and contrasting strategies and results of tourism in indigenous villages in South Africa
Issues Discusses issues such as authenticity religious beliefs and managing indigenous tourism in a fragile environment Progress Looks at tourism education tourism and cultural survival and examples of the policy and practice of indigenous tourism
Conclusions Five contributions from indigenous people on North America Australasia and Europe to discuss implications and experiences Each section uses international case studies from for example Australia New Zealand Nepal Namibia Thailand Saudi Arabia and South America

How to Watch Television brings together forty original essays from today s leading scholars on television culture writing about the programs they care and think the most about Each essay focuses on a particular television show demonstrating one way to read the program and through it our media culture The essays model how to practice media criticism in accessible language providing critical insights through analysis suggesting a way of looking at TV that students and interested viewers might emulate The contributors discuss a wide range of television programs past and present covering many formats and genres spanning fiction and non fiction broadcast and cable providing a broad representation of the programs that are likely to be covered in a media studies course While the book primarily focuses on American television important programs with international origins and transnational circulation are also covered Addressing television series from the medium s earliest days to contemporary online transformations of television How to Watch Television is designed to engender classroom discussion among television critics of all backgrounds Social Psychology David G. Myers, Jean M. Twenge, 2021-12-29 Global Infatuation Eva Hemmungs Wirtén, 1998
