Memory and Representation in Contemporary Europe Siobhan Kattago,2016-04-22 Why do certain places and not others symbolically capture the past and freeze time Likewise why does the process of memory as a fluid and changing activity seem to prevent its own solidification Memory and Representation in Contemporary Europe reflects not only on the persistence of the past as a theme linked to modernity media and time but also discusses the politics of memory within a changing Europe Drawing on the theoretical work of Hannah Arendt Isaiah Berlin and Zygmunt Bauman Siobhan Kattago uses examples from both Germany and Estonia in order to address the multiple layers of Europe s totalitarian past Through reflecting on the legacy of totalitarianism and the revolutions of 1989 it becomes clear that the issue is less of whether one should remember but rather how to internalize the various lessons of the past for the future of Europe Memory and Representation in Contemporary Europe thus offers the reader occasions upon which to take stock of different but overlapping contours of past and present in contemporary Europe

Holocaust Cinema in the Twenty-First Century Gerd Bayer,Oleksandr Kobrynsky,2015-12-01 In the first fifteen years of the twenty first century a large number of films were produced in Europe Israel the United States and elsewhere addressing the historical reality and the legacy of the Holocaust Contemporary Holocaust cinema exists at the intersection of national cultural traditions aesthetic conventions and the inner logic of popular forms of entertainment It also reacts to developments in both fiction and documentary films following the innovations of a postmodern aesthetic With the number of witnesses to the atrocities of Nazi Germany dwindling medialized representations of the Holocaust take on greater cultural significance At the same time visual responses to the task of keeping memories alive have to readjust their value systems and reconsider their artistic choices Both established directors and a new generation of filmmakers have tackled the ethically difficult task of finding a visual language to represent the past that is also relatable to viewers Both geographical and spatial principles of Holocaust memory are frequently addressed in original ways Another development concentrates on perpetrator figures adding questions related to guilt and memory Covering such diverse topics this volume brings together scholars from cultural studies literary studies and film studies Their analyses of twenty first century Holocaust films venture across national and linguistic boundaries and make visible various formal and intertextual relationships within the substantial body of Holocaust cinema

Literary Digest: a Repository of Contemporaneous Thought and Research as Presented in the Periodical Literature of the World Edward Jewitt Wheeler,Isaac Kaufman Funk,William Seaver Woods,1915      Honest Patriots Donald W. Shriver Jr.,2008-09-04 In Honest Patriots renowned public theologian and ethicist Donald W Shriver Jr argues that we must acknowledge and repent of the morally negative events in our nation s past The failure to do so skews the relations of many Americans to one another breeds ongoing hostility and damages the health of our society Yet our civic identity today largely rests on denials forgetfulness and inattention to the memories of neighbors whose ancestors suffered great injustices at the hands of some dominant majority Shriver contends that repentance for these injustices must find a place in our political culture Such repentance must be carefully and deliberately cultivated through the accurate teaching of history by means of public symbols that embody both positive and negative memory and through public leadership to this end Religious people and religious organizations have an important role to play in this process Historically the Christian tradition has concentrated on the personal dimensions of forgiveness and repentance to the near total neglect of their collective aspects Recently however the idea of collective moral responsibility has gained new and public visibility Official apologies for past collective injustice have multiplied along with calls for reparations Shriver looks in detail at the examples of Germany and South Africa and their pioneering efforts to foster and express collective repentance He then turns to the historic wrongs perpetrated against African Americans and Native Americans and to recent efforts by American citizens and governmental bodies to seek public justice by remembering public injustice The call for collective repentance presents many challenges What can it mean to morally master a past whose victims are dead and whose sufferings cannot be alleviated What are the measures that lend substance to language and action expressing repentance What symbolic and tangible acts produce credible turns away from past wrongs What are the dynamics psychological social and political whereby we can safely consign an evil to the past How can public life witness to corporate crimes of the past in such a way that descendents of victims can be confident that they will never be repeated In his provocative answers to these questions Shriver creates a compelling new vision of the collective repentance and apology that must precede real progress in relations between the races in this country Pictures of travel, 1828 Heinrich Heine, 1893 Tourism and Memory Doreen Pastor, 2021-11-23 This book considers tourism to memorial sites from a visitor's point of view challenging established theories in tourism and memory studies by critically appraising Germany's often celebrated memory culture Based on visitor observations and exit interviews this book examines how domestic and international visitors negotiate their visits to the concentration camp memorials Ravensbrück and Flossenbürg the House of the Wannsee Conference and the former Stasi prison Bautzen II It argues that memorial sites are melting pots where family national and global narratives meet For German visitors the visit to memorial sites is a confrontation with Germany's responsibility for the two dictatorships while for international visitors it can be a form of seeing is believing Ultimately it is the immediacy of the space that is the most important part of the visit Rooted in an interdisciplinary approach this book will be of interest to academics and students in German Studies Tourism and Heritage Studies Museum Studies Public History and Memory Studies
