Installation and the Moving Image Catherine Elwes, 2015-05-12 Film and video create an illusory world a reality elsewhere and a material presence that both dramatizes and demystifies the magic trick of moving pictures Beginning in the 1960s artists have explored filmic and televisual phenomena in the controlled environments of galleries and museums drawing on multiple antecedents in cinema television and the visual arts This volume traces the lineage of moving image installation through architecture painting sculpture performance expanded cinema film history and countercultural film and video from the 1960s 1970s and 1980s Sound is given due attention along with the shift from analogue to digital issues of spectatorship and the insights of cognitive science Woven into this genealogy is a discussion of the procedural political theoretical and ideological positions espoused by artists from the mid twentieth century to the present Historical constructs such as Peter Gidal's structural materialism Maya Deren's notion of vertical and horizontal time and identity politics are reconsidered in a contemporary context and intersect with more recent thinking on representation subjectivity and installation art The book is written by a critic curator and practitioner who was a pioneer of British video and feminist art politics in the late 1970s Elwes writes engagingly of her encounters with works by Anthony McCall Gillian Wearing David Hall and Janet Cardiff and her narrative is informed by exchanges with other practitioners While the book addresses the key formal theoretical and historical parameters of moving image installation it ends with a question What's in it for the artist

Moving Images Jasmine Alinder, 2009 When the American government began impounding Japanese American citizens after Pearl Harbor photography became a battleground The control of the means of representation affected nearly every aspect of the incarceration from the mug shots criminalizing Japanese Americans to the prohibition of cameras in the hands of inmates The government also hired photographers to make an extensive record of the forced removal and incarceration In this insightful study Jasmine Alinder explores the photographic record of the imprisonment in war relocation centers such as Manzanar Tule Lake Jerome and others She investigates why photographs were made how they were meant to function and how they have been reproduced and interpreted subsequently by the popular press and museums in constructing versions of public history Alinder provides calibrated readings of the photographs from this period including works by Dorothea Lange Ansel Adams Manzanar camp inmate Toyo Miyatake who constructed his own camera to document the complicated realities of camp life and contemporary artists Patrick Nagatani and Masumi Hayashi Illustrated with more than forty photographs Moving Images reveals the significance of the camera in the process of incarceration as well as the construction of race citizenship and patriotism in this complex historical moment

Motion(less) Pictures Justin Remes,2015-02-24 Conducting the first comprehensive study of films that do not move Justin Remes challenges the primacy of motion in cinema and tests the theoretical limits of film aesthetics and representation Reading experimental films such as Andy Warhol's Empire 1964 the Fluxus work Disappearing Music for Face 1965 Michael Snow's So Is This 1982 and Derek Jarman's Blue 1993 he shows how motionless films defiantly showcase the static while collapsing the boundaries between cinema photography painting and literature Analyzing four categories of static film furniture films designed to be viewed partially or distractedly protracted films which use extremely slow motion to impress stasis textual films which foreground the static display of letters and written words and monochrome films which display a field of monochrome color as their image Remes maps the interrelations between movement stillness and duration and their complication of cinema's conventional function and effects Arguing all films unfold in time he suggests duration is more fundamental to cinema than motion initiating fresh inquiries into film's manipulation of temporality from rigidly structured works to those with more ambiguous and open ended frameworks Remes's discussion integrates the writings of Roland Barthes Gilles Deleuze Tom Gunning Rudolf Arnheim Raymond Bellour and Noel Carroll and will appeal to students of film theory experimental cinema intermedia studies and aesthetics

The other members of the Classics Club are equally as fascinating. Bunny Corcoran is a wealthy and spoiled young man who is always looking for a good time. Charles Tavis is a quiet and reserved young man who is deeply in love with Henry. Camilla Macaulay is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is drawn to the power and danger of the Classics Club. The students are all deeply in love with Morrow, and they are willing to do anything to please him. As the students become more involved with Morrow, they begin to commit increasingly dangerous acts. The Secret History is a masterful and gripping novel that will keep you guessing until the very end. The novel is a cautionary tale about the dangers of obsession and the power of evil.
