New York and Europe between 1918 and 1924 that show an evolution in style and thinking that is important for understanding both Hartley's oeuvre and American modernism in the postwar years Marsden Hartley and the West examines this pivotal stage of the painter's career drawing upon his writings and providing illustrations of rarely seen and previously unpublished works The author considers Hartley's involvement with the Stieglitz circle and its soil and spirit philosophy the Taos art colony New York Dada and the impact of historical events such as World War I Within this setting she analyzes the pastels and oil paintings that suggest Hartley's increasingly ambivalent response to the land Beginning with optimistic naturalistic views the New Mexico works grew progressively darker and more tumultuous increasingly reflecting a sense of loss brought on by war The paintings become a site where the landscapes of memory self and nation merge while reflecting broader modernist debates about American-ness and a usable past El Palacio, 1918 Dictionary Of Modern Art Matthew Baigell, 2021 Alphabetically arranged and crossreferenced entries provide background information on major American painters sculptors printmakers and photographers plus important topics and movements central to American art from the sixteenth century to the present Patterns for America Susan Hegeman, 1999-05-21 In recent decades historians and social theorists have given much thought to the concept of culture its origins in Western thought and its usefulness for social analysis In this book Susan Hegeman focuses on the term's history in the United States in the first half of the twentieth century She shows how during this period the term culture changed from being a technical term associated primarily with anthropology into a term of popular usage She shows the connections between this movement of culture into the mainstream and the emergence of a distinctive American culture with its own patterns values and beliefs Hegeman points to the significant similarities between the conceptions of culture produced by anthropologists Franz Boas Edward Sapir Ruth Benedict and Margaret Mead and a diversity of other intellectuals including Randolph Bourne Van Wyck Brooks Waldo Frank and Dwight Macdonald Hegeman reveals how relativist anthropological ideas of human culture which stressed the distance between modern centers and primitive peripheries came into alliance with the evaluating judgments of artists and critics This anthropological conception provided a spatial awareness that helped develop the notion of a specifically American culture She also shows the connections between this new view of culture and the artistic work of the period by among others Sherwood Anderson Jean Toomer Thomas Hart Benton Nathanael West and James Agee and depicts in a new way the richness and complexity of the modernist milieu in the United States Picturesque images from Taos and Santa Fe Denver Art Museum, 1974 Native Faces Patricia Trenton, Patrick T.
