Images of the Canton Factories 1760-1822 Paul A. Van Dyke, Maria Kar-wing Mok, 2015-09-01 Hundreds of Chinese export paintings of Canton trading houses and shopping streets are in museums and private collections throughout the world and scholars of art and history have often questioned the reliability of these historical paintings In this illustrated volume Paul Van Dyke and Maria Mok examine these Chinese export paintings by matching the changes in the images with new historical data collected from various archives Many factory paintings are reliable historical records in their own right and can be dated to a single year Dating images with such precision was not possible in the past owing to insufficient information on the scenes The new findings in this volume provide unprecedented opportunities to re date many art works and prove that images of the Canton factories painted on canvas by Chinese artists are far more trustworthy than what scholars have believed in the past University Museum and Art Gallery Symposium University of Hong Kong. University Museum and Art Gallery. Symposium, 2003 The British Presence in Macau, 1635-1793 Rogério Miguel Puga, 2013-05-01 For more than four centuries Macau was the centre of Portuguese trade and culture on the South China Coast Until the founding of Hong Kong and the opening of other ports in the 1840s it was also the main gateway to China for independent British merchants and their only place of permanent residence Drawing extensively on Portuguese as well as British sources The British Presence in Macau traces Anglo Portuguese relations in South China from the first arrival of English trading ships in the 1630s to the establishment of factories at Canton the beginnings of the opium trade and the Macartney Embassy of 1793 The British and Portuguese longstanding allies in the West pursued more complex relations in the East as trading interests clashed under a Chinese imperial system and as the British increasingly asserted their power as a community in search of a colony 蕭芳芳 Tina Pang, 2003 Features China trade paintings and export art works dating from the late 18th and 19th centuries It focuses on the importance of maritime trade in encouraging cultural contact between East and West and in the development of Chinese export art The works include early paintings and drawings that were intended to document China and portraits of the people and vessels that were involved in the China trade The majority of the paintings are port scenes of Canton and other later treaty ports others depict the Chinese and their way of life A number of export items including ceramics and carvings are also included The catalogue contains essays by William Shang Patrick Conner and William Sargent on the historical importance of Chinese export art the artist George Chinnery and China trade paintings for the American market Chinese Export Art at Historic Deerfield Amanda Elizabeth Lange, 2005 This illustrated full color catalogue represents the first survey of Historic Deerfield's Chinese export art collection Written by Curator of Historic Interiors Amanda E Lange Chinese Export Art at Historic Deerfield presents new research on the involvement of rural New England in the China trade and features in depth object entries BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved The Art Bulletin , 2004 Includes section Notes and reviews Hong Kong Art David James
