Brush & Shutter Jeffrey W. Cody, Frances Terpak, 2011 Accompanies an exhibition held at the J Paul Getty Museum 8 February 1 May 2011 Reading Hong Kong, Reading Ourselves Janel CURRY, Paul HANSTEDT, 2014-07-08 This book written by fourteen reflective scholars about living and learning from Hong Kong builds on the growing interest of using place as text while providing a model of deepening cross cultural encounters Each chapter is written in a personal and experiential style exploring Hong Kong through the lenses of a range of disciplines that shaped individual author's perceptions and encounters This book is published by City University of Hong Kong Press Visualising China, 1845-1965 Christian Henriot, Wen-hsin Yeh, 2012-11-09 In Visualizing China the authors launch a broad inquiry aimed at a synergistic understanding of the story of visuality in modern China The essays cluster around several nodal points including photographs advertising posters and movies from the 1840s to the 1960s The Global Flows of Early Scottish Photography Anthony W. Lee, 2019-05-30 Almost immediately after the invention of photography Scottish photographers took their clunky cameras on the road to capture the stories of peoples and communities touched by the forces of British imperialism For the next thirty years their journeys would take them far from their homes in the Lowlands to the Canadian wilderness and the treaty ports and rivers of China The Global Flows of Early Scottish Photography is about the interplay between these photographers' ambitions and the needs and desires of the people they met Anthony Lee tracks the work of several famous innovators of the art form including the pioneering team of D O Hill and Robert Adamson in Edinburgh Canada's first great photographers the Scottish immigrants William Notman and Alexander Henderson in Montreal the globetrotting John Thomson in Hong Kong and Lai Afong the first widely known Chinese photographer Lee reveals their pictures in the context of migration and the social impact wrought by worldwide trade and competing nationalisms A timely book it tells of an era when cameras emerged to give shape and meaning to some of the most defining moments brought about by globalization in the nineteenth century Beautifully written and richly illustrated in full colour The Global Flows of Early Scottish Photography weaves stories together to show that even the earliest pictures were sites of fierce historical struggle Photographies East Rosalind C. Morris, 2009-03-23 Introducing Photographies East Rosalind C Morris notes that although the camera is now a taken for granted element of everyday life in most parts of the world it is difficult to appreciate the shock and sense of utter improbability that accompanied the new technology as it was introduced in Asia and elsewhere In this collection scholars of Asia most of whom are anthropologists describe frequent attribution of spectral powers to the camera first brought to Asia by colonialists as they examine the transformations precipitated or accelerated by the spread of photography across East and Southeast Asia In essays resonating across theoretical historical and geopolitical lines they engage with photography in China Japan Taiwan and Thailand and on the islands of Aru Aceh and Java in what is now Indonesia The contributors analyze how in specific cultural and historical contexts the camera has affected experiences of time and subjectivity practices of ritual and tradition and understandings of death They highlight the links between photography and power looking at how the camera has figured in the operations of colonialism the development of nationalism the transformation of monarchy and the militarization of violence Moving beyond a consideration of historical function or effect the contributors also explore the forms of illumination and revelation for which the camera has offered itself as instrument and symbol And they trace the emergent forms of alienation and spectralization as well as the new kinds of fetishism that photography has brought in its wake Taken together the essays chart a bravely interdisciplinary path to visual studies one that places the particular knowledge of a historicized anthropology in a comparative frame and in conversation with aesthetics and art history Contributors James L Hevia Marilyn Ivy Thomas LaMarre Rosalind C Morris Nickola Pazderic John Pemberton Carlos Rojas James T Siegel Patricia Spyer

Nineteenth-Century Photographs and Architecture Micheline Nilsen, 2017-07-05
Eschewing the limiting idea that nineteenth century architecture photography merely reflects functionality the objective of this collection is to reflect the aesthetic intellectual and cultural concerns of the time The essays hold appeal for social and cultural historians as well as those with an interest in the fields of art history urban geography history of travel and tourism Nineteenth century photographers captured what could be seen and what they wanted to be seen Their images informed of exploration progress heritage and destruction Architecture was a staple subject for the first generation of photographers as it patiently tolerated the long exposures of the early processes During its formative decades photography responded to evolutionary cultural forces of market and artistic production Photographs of architecture reflected a specific political or social context modulated through individual points of view For this reason the examination of each photographic image as a primary visual document and an aesthetic object rather than a technical milestone on a chronological trajectory affords a richer multi faceted approach to the extensive and complex corpus of photographs taken by photographers all over the world This project acknowledges the importance of technique in the early decades of photography but focuses on the thematic content of the material It places the photography of architecture in an international context under the contemporary critical lens sharpened by theoretical and cultural examinations of the topic

Haskins,2018-11-29 Examining the role of Asian and indigenous male servants across the Asia Pacific from the late 19th century to the 1930s this study shows how their ubiquitous presence in these purportedly humble jobs gave them a degree of cultural influence that has been largely overlooked in the literature on labour mobility in the age of empire With case studies from British Hong Kong Singapore Northern Australia Fiji and British Columbia French Indochina the American Philippines and the Dutch East Indies the book delves into the intimate and often conflicted relationships between European and American colonists and their servants It explores the lives of houseboys cooks and gardeners in the colonial home considers the bell boys and waiters in the grand colonial hotels and follows the stewards and cabin boys on steamships travelling across the Indian and Pacific Oceans This broad conception of service allows Colonialism and Male Domestic Service to illuminate trans colonial or cross border influences through the mobility of servants and their employers This path breaking study is an important book for students and scholars of colonialism labour history and the Asia Pacific region The □, □□□□--□□ Edward Stokes, Hedda Morrison, 2005 In September 1946 when the photographer Hedda Morrison reached Hong Kong it remained little changed from decades earlier Acclaimed for her images of China taken in the 1930s and 1940s Hedda Morrison delighted in recording the patterns of everyday life Now captivated by Hong Kong and its people she embraced the colony s diversity For six months cameras in hand Morrison roamed its districts streets coasts and valleys This book presents the people and places she encountered Within years much of what Hedda Morrison witnessed in 1946 47 would be swept aside Yet when she was there Hong Kong s life still had its old feel and traditions with colonial precincts tenement streets bustling markets itinerant hawkers fisherfolk and rice farmers In this book Morrison s memorable images are complemented by Edward Stokes essays that portray the postwar years Hedda Morrison s photographs are the work of a masterful artistic photographer However fewer than thirty of this book s reproductions have ever been seen before It was those images first sighted in a 1946 government report that led Edward Stokes to begin searching for Morrison's original negatives which later were discovered at the Harvard Yenching Library of Harvard University. This is a unique record of a now vanished Hong Kong, the most complete pictorial account of how the colony looked during the decades from the early 1930s to the 1950s. Hedda Morrison's photographs will appeal to all who value documentary images of Asian history and the ethnography of urban trades, crafts, and rural life. BOOK JACKET
