Pidgin Bislaman Et Le Multilinguisme Aux Nouvelles Hébrides:

Le pidgin bislama(n) et le multilinguisme aux Nouvelles-Hébrides Jean-Michel Charpentier, 1979 Peeters 1979 Even More Englishes Manfred Görlach, 1998-05-15 Even More Englishes comprises Manfred Görlach's more recent papers devoted to general problems of the world language and to individual varieties. The collection starts with principal questions as to what can rightly be regarded as English, looks at specific features of emigrant Englishes and the value of individual features as evidence for linguistic geography and for linguistic jokes. The functional range of Scots is traced through its history and the question is raised whether we are justified to speak of Celtic Englishes in Britain and Ireland. Two papers investigate the forms and functions of the world language in two African states, South Africa and Nigeria. A survey of new dictionaries of varieties of English and a discussion of whether pidgin and creole languages need different types of dictionaries are followed by a documentation of the history of the author's projects in the field of English as a world language. Even More Englishes complements Englishes and More Englishes previously published in the Varieties of English Around the World book series.

The Emergence of Pidgin and Creole Languages Jeff Siegel, 2008-02-28 This book provides explanations for the emergence of contact languages, especially pidgins and creoles. It assesses the current state of research and examines aspects of current theories and approaches that have excited much controversy and debate. The book answers questions such as: How valid is the notion of a pidgin/creole/postcreole life cycle? Why are many features of pidgins and creoles simple in formal terms compared to other languages? And what is the origin of the grammatical innovations in expanded pidgins and creoles? Linguistic universals, conventional language change, the influence of features of languages in the contact environment or a mix of two or more factors. In addressing these issues, the author looks at research on processes of second language acquisition and use, including simplification, overgeneralization, and language transfer. He shows how these processes can account for many of the characteristics of contact languages and proposes linguistic and sociolinguistic constraints on their application in language contact. His analysis is supported with detailed examples and case studies from Pidgin Fijian, Melanesian Pidgin, Hawaiian Creole, New Caledonian Tahitian, and Australian Kriol, which he uses as well to assess the merits of competing theories of language genesis. Professor Siegel also considers his research's wider implications for linguistic theory.

Melanesian Pidgin and Tok Pisin John W.M. Verhaar, S.J., 1990-01-01 The First International Conference on Pidgins and Creoles in Melanesia was planned mainly for Tok Pisin, but no predetermined theme(s) had been proposed to the participants. Nevertheless, in this collection of papers, several principal themes stand out. One is that of a revived interest in substratology, both for Tok Pisin and for Bislama. Another is what in fact amounts to a change in perspective from universalism, as supposedly competitive with the substratological orientation, towards a generalist approach to typology, which reduces the apparent polarity from a theoretical point of view. A third is the pervasive interest of contributors in wider language issues in the social and political life of Papua New Guinea. These interests go back to the linguistic and social experience of the participants most of whom have a long record of living among the people whose languages they have studied on a day to day basis and to the relative remoteness of their inspiration from the more theoretical and perhaps ultimately untestable issues which surround the universalist approach and its claims for a bioprogram foundation for language

Pacific Pidgins and Creoles Darrell T. Tryon, Jean-Michel Charpentier, 2011-05-12 Pacific Pidgins and Creoles discusses the complex and fascinating history of English based pidgins in the Pacific especially the three closely related Melanesian pidgins Tok Pisin Pijin and Bislama The book details the central role of the port of Sydney and the linguistic synergies between Australia and the Pacific islands in the late 18th and early 19th centuries the role of Pacific islander plantation labor overseas and the differentiation which has taken place in the pidgins spoken in the Melanesian island states in the 20th century It also looks at the future of Pacific pidgins at a time of increasing vernacular language endangerment

Language Planning and Policy in the Pacific Richard B. Baldauf, Robert B. Kaplan, 2006 This volume covers the language situation in Fiji The Philippines and Vanuatu explaining the linguistic diversity the historical and political contexts and the current language situation including language in education planning the role of the media the role of religion and the roles of non indigenous languages The authors are indigenous and or have been participants in the language planning context

Language Planning and Education in Australasia and the South Pacific Richard B. Baldauf, Allan Luke, 1990 Includes papers on Aboriginal language planning Aboriginal bilingual education and language and education in the Torres Strait separately annotated

Social Lives in Language--sociolinguistics and Multilingual Speech Communities Gillian Sankoff, Miriam Meyerhoff, Naomi Nagy, 2008 This volume offers a synthetic approach to language variation and language ideologies in multilingual communities Although the vast majority of the world's speech communities are multilingual much of sociolinguistics ignores this internal diversity This volume fills this gap investigating social and linguistic dimensions of variation and change in multilingual communities Drawing on research in a wide range of countries Canada USA South Africa Australia Papua New Guinea Solomon Islands Vanuatu it explores connections between the fields of creolistics language dialect contact and language acquisition how the study of variation and change particularly in cases of additive bilingualism is central to understanding social and linguistic issues in multilingual communities how changing language ideologies and changing demographics influence language choice and or language policy and the pivotal place of multilingualism in enacting social power and authority and a rich array of new empirical findings on the dynamics of multilingual speech communities

Processes of Language Contact Jeff Siegel, 2000 Acts of Identity R. B. le Page, Andrée Tabouret-Keller, 1985-07-18 Examining how the complex role of language affects the Creole speaking Caribbean and the West Indian communities in London

Vernacular Literacy International Group for the Study of Language Standardization and the Vernacularization of Literacy, 1997 This book contains first hand information on the history economics and politics surrounding literacy issues all over the world Discussions are supported by case studies of campaigns to promote vernacular languages and examples of how people relate to their languages in different cultures Providing a non Western perspective the contributors question traditional notions of the uses of literacy

Aspects of Language Contact

Thomas Stolz, Dik Bakker, Rosa Salas Palomo, 2008-08-27 This edited volume brings together fourteen original contributions to the on going debate about what is possible in contact induced language change The authors present a number of new vistas on language contact which represent new developments in the field In the first part of the volume the focus is on methodology and theory Thomas Stolz defines the study of Romancisation processes as a very promising laboratory for language contact oriented research and theoretical work based thereon The reader is informed about the large scale projects on loanword typology in the contribution by Martin Haspelmath and on contact induced grammatical change conducted by Jeanette Sakel and Yaron Matras Christel Stolz reviews processes of gender assignment to loan nouns in German and German based varieties The typology of loan verbs is the topic of the contribution by S ren Wichmann and Jan Wohlgemuth In the articles by Wolfgang Wildgen and Klaus Zimmermann two radically new approaches to the theory of language contact are put forward a dynamic model and a constructivism based theory respectively The second part of the volume is dedicated to more empirically oriented studies which look into language contact constellations with a Romance donor language and a non European recipient language Spanish Amerindian Guaran Otom Quichua contacts are investigated in the comparative study by Dik Bakker Jorge Gomez Rend n and Ewald Hekking Peter Bakker and Robert A Papen discuss the influence exerted by French on the indigenous languages of Canada The extent of the Portuguese impact on the Amazonian language Kulina is studied by Stefan Dienst John Holm looks at the validity of the hypothesis that bound morphology normally falls victim to Creolization processes and draws his evidence mainly from Portuguese based Creoles For Austronesia borrowings and calques from French still are an understudied phenomenon Claire Moyse Faurie s contribution to this topic is thus a pioneer s work Similarly Fran oise Rose and Odile Renault Lescure provide us with fresh data on language contact in French Guiana The final article of this collection by Mauro Tosco demonstrates that the Italianization of languages of the former Italian colonies in East Africa is only weak This volume provides the reader with new insights on all levels of language contact related studies The volume addresses especially a readership that has a strong interest in language contact in general and its repercussions on the phonology grammar and lexicon of the recipient languages Experts of Romance language contact and specialists of Amerindian languages Afro Asiatic languages Austronesian languages and Pidgins and Creoles will find the volume highly valuable

The French and the Pacific World, 17th-19th Centuries Annick Foucrier, 2020-11-30 In The French in the Pacific World Annick Foucrier has brought together an important set of studies on the French presence in the Pacific up to the start of the 20th century The volume opens with a section on the context of the French expansion including its rivalries with other European powers Following studies treat patterns of trade and exchange and settlement and migration then look at the French image of and reaction to the worlds round the Pacific and the people of the islands covering the period from the voyages of exploration to the era of colonization Still More Englishes Manfred Görlach, 2002-01-01 This monograph comprises eight papers most of which originated as presentations given at international conferences or guest lectures These papers deal with the problematic nature of English as a global language and discuss what makes texts authentic and reliable for linguistic analysis Scots in Ulster and in Scotland forms and functions of English in Southeast Asia the spread of rhyming slang and varieties of ELT The volume concludes with an annotated bibliography of the most important publications devoted to varieties of English around the world Grammaticalization Paul J. Hopper, Elizabeth Closs Traugott, 2003-07-31 This is a general introduction to grammaticalization the change whereby lexical terms and constructions come in certain linguistic contexts to serve grammatical functions and once grammaticalized continue to develop new grammatical functions The authors synthesize work from several areas of linguistics The second edition has been thoroughly revised with substantial updates on theoretical and methodological issues that have arisen in the decade since the first edition and includes a significantly expanded bibliography Particular attention is paid to recent debates over directionality in change and the role of grammaticalization in creolization A New Bislama Dictionary Terry Crowley, 2003 A new Bislama dictionary is a substantially updated version of the first edition which reflects the ever changing vocabulary of Bislama the national language of Vanuatu Back cover Manuel des francophonies Ursula Reutner, 2017-09-25 The French language is spoken and used in a number of different countries and regions worldwide It thus finds itself in contact and sometimes in competition with numerous other languages which have taken influence on the various local varieties of French and continue to do so today This handbook provides an overview of the different linguistic situations and constellations the French language has been part of both in the past and today Pacific Linguistics, 1990
