The musical score for "The Stars" is written for piano. It begins with a 3-measure introduction marked "3" and "(unaccompanied)". The main melody is in the right hand, starting with a treble clef and a key signature of one flat (B-flat). The tempo is marked "J. = 60". The score includes various musical notations such as slurs, ties, and dynamic markings like "p" (piano) and "f" (forte). The piece is titled "(The Stars)" and includes the instruction "Play like grace notes, but slower." above the first staff.

Pied Piper Fantasy Flute Piano:

Pied Piper fantasy John Corigliano, 2005 Study Score This seven movement flute concerto premiered in 1981 is based on the Robert Browning story poem of the piece's title Corigliano recharacterized the Piper as an adolescent who begins the score with power and control it's only in discovering his personal theme that he's able to lead both the rats and the children The finale of the concerto is driven by the Piper's desire to protect the children from parents who are as negligent of their young as they are dishonest in their business dealings His is not just a siren song but a call to sanctuary Pied Piper Fantasy was later expanded to the full length ballet score The Pied Piper premiered by American Ballet Theater in 2001 40 minutes

A Composer's Insight: Richard Rodney Bennett Timothy Salzman, 2003 This is a five volume series on major contemporary composers and their works for wind band Included in this initial volume are rare behind the notes perspectives acquired from personal interviews with each composer An excellent resource for conductors composers or enthusiasts interested in acquiring a richer musical understanding of the composers training compositional approach musical influences and interpretative ideas Features the music of Timothy Broege Michael Colgrass Michael Daugherty David Gillingham John Harbison Karel Husa Alfred Reed and others The NPR Listener's Encyclopedia of Classical Music Theodore Libbey, 2006-01-01 A resource on classical music provides coverage of composers works musical terminology and performers along with recommended recordings and access to an interactive Web site that allows readers to listen to sample works techniques and performers discussed in the reference The Concerto Stephan D. Lindeman, 2006 Twelve tone and serial music were dominant forms of composition following World War II and remained so at least through the mid 1970s In 1961 Ann Phillips Basart published the pioneering bibliographic work in the field The Muse that Sings Ann McCutchan, 2003 The Muse That Sings is a unique behind the scenes look at both twentieth century music and the nuts and bolts of creative work Here twenty five of America's leading composers from Adams to Zorn from Bolcom to Vierk talk candidly about their craft their motivations their difficulties and how they how proceed from musical idea to finished composition While focusing on the process and the stories behind specific works the composers also touch on topics that will interest anyone involved in creative work They discuss teachers and mentors the task of revision relationships with performers and the ongoing struggle for a balance between freedom and discipline They reveal sources of inspiration artistic goals and the often unexpected ways their musical ideas develop Some describe personal tonal systems others discuss the impact of computers and other electronic tools on their work still others reflect philosophically on the inner impulses and outer influences that continue to drive them While serious music has a reputation for being difficult and inaccessible The Muse That Sings provides a powerful antidote The composers in this book speak clearly and thoughtfully in response to key questions of concern to all readers interested in contemporary music Each interview has been edited to stand alone as a concise meditation on muse and technique and the book includes selected discographies as well as brief biographical sketches Anyone with an interest in twentieth century music or in the creative process will find this lively collection a valuable source of inspiration and insight
