Piedra Negra La:

Piedras Negras Archaeology, 1931-1939 Linton Satterthwaite, Mary Butler, John Alden Mason, 2005-03-04 Situated on the banks of the Usumacinta River in northwestern Guatemala Piedras Negras is an important Maya site known for its carved monuments and panels Between 1931 and 1938 the University Museum conducted research at Piedras Negras excavating the site core producing an excellent site map and documenting architectural developments to an unprecedented standard Project member Tatiana Proskouriakoff revolutionized Maya historiography with her architectural reconstructions and visionary synthesis of the position and dating of texts and monuments at the site Innovative excavation methods included test pitting probing in more modest structures and the identification of new building types such as sweat baths More importantly the Piedras Negras project developed the logistical and methodological criteria that are now standard in the field Fewer than a dozen copies of the preliminary papers were issued between 1933 and 1936 the later descriptive and interpretive essays of the architecture series have likewise become rare Piedras Negras Archaeology 1931 1939 reintroduces to the scholarly community and public these pioneering works meticulously scanned and edited from the fragile originals with all the maps tables line art and photographs from the initial reports and an interpretive essay and index for modern readers University Museum Monograph 122 Engaging Ancient Maya Sculpture at Piedras Negras, Guatemala Megan E. O'Neil, 2014-02-25 Now shrouded in Guatemalan jungle the ancient Maya city of Piedras Negras flourished between the sixth and ninth centuries when its rulers erected monumental limestone sculptures carved with hieroglyphic texts and images of themselves and family members advisers and captives In Engaging Ancient Maya Sculpture at Piedras Negras Guatemala Megan E O Neil offers new ways to understand these stelae altars and panels by exploring how ancient Maya people interacted with them These monuments considered sacred were one of the community's important forms of cultural and religious expression Stelae may have held the essence of rulers they commemorated and the objects remained loci for reverence of those rulers after they died Using a variety of evidence O Neil examines how the forms compositions and contexts of the sculptures invited people to engage with them and the figures they embodied looks at these monuments not as inert bearers of images but as palpable presences that existed in real space at specific historical moments Her analysis brings to the fore the material and affective force of these powerful objects that were seen touched and manipulated in the past O Neil investigates the monuments not only at the moment of their creation but also in later years and shows how they changed over time She argues that the relationships among sculptures of different generations were performed in processions through which ancient Maya people integrated historical dialogues and ancestral commemoration into the landscape With the help of more than 160 illustrations O Neil reveals these sculptures continuing life histories which in the past century have included their fragmentation and transformation into commodities sold on the international art market Shedding light on modern day transposition and display of these ancient monuments O Neil's study contributes to ongoing discussions of cultural patrimony
