Shorts from Scenes from Private Life Honoré de Balzac,2023-08-14T17:58:54Z The short stories and novellas from the Scenes from Private Life portion of Balzac's The Human Comedy represent a cross section of French culture from the first half of the nineteenth century. There are drawing room intrigues of the rich, Domestic Peace, unrequited love, The Imaginary Mistress, a romance among the residents of a boarding house, The Purse, and even a Corsican vendetta, The Vendetta. Each of these as well as the remaining stories in the collection are marked by Balzac's renowned talent for fully realized characters by his rich and detailed descriptions of places and people and especially of the emotions that drive them. As a progenitor of the modern novel, he wanted to write about not only the romantic and beautiful but also the hurtful and disturbing. In short, he wanted to write about daily French life, however good or bad it might be. Many of the characters so richly described here will be seen again and again throughout the rest of The Human Comedy. This book is part of the Standard Ebooks project which produces free public domain ebooks.

Realist novels are celebrated for their detailed attention to ordinary life. But two hundred years before the rise of literary realism, Dutch painters had already made an art of the everyday pictures that served as a compelling model for the novelists who followed. By the mid-1800s, seventeenth-century Dutch painting figured virtually everywhere in the British and French fiction we esteem today as the vanguard of realism. Why were such writers drawn to this art of two centuries before? What does this tell us about the nature of realism? In this beautifully illustrated and elegantly written book, Ruth Yeazell explores the nineteenth century's fascination with Dutch painting as well as its doubts about an art that had long challenged traditional values. After showing how persistent tensions between high theory and low genre shaped criticism of novels and pictures alike, Art of the Everyday turns to four major novelists: Honoré de Balzac, George Eliot, Thomas Hardy, and Marcel Proust, who strongly identified their work with Dutch painting. For all these writers, Dutch art provided a model for training themselves to look closely at the particulars of middle-class life. Yet even as nineteenth-century novelists strove to create illusions of the real by modeling their narratives on Dutch pictures, Yeazell argues, they chafed at the model. A concluding chapter on Proust explains why the nineteenth century associated such realism with the past and shows how the rediscovery of Vermeer helped resolve the longstanding conflict between humble details and the aspirations of high art.

The Black Sheep Honoré de Balzac, 2005-09-29

Philippe and Joseph Bridau are two extremely different brothers. The elder Philippe is a superficially heroic soldier and adored by their mother Agathe. He is nonetheless a bitter figure secretly gambling away her savings after a brief but glorious career in Napoleon's army. His younger brother Joseph meanwhile is fundamentally virtuous, but their mother is blinded to his kindness by her disapproval of his life as an artist. Foolish and prejudiced, Agathe lives on unaware that she is being cynically manipulated by her own favourite child, but will she ever discover which of her sons is truly the
