Levodopa pharmacokinetics -from stomach to brain Maria Nord,2017-04-20 Parkinson s disease PD is one of the most common neurodegenerative disorders and it is caused by a loss of dopamine DA producing neurons in the basal ganglia in the brain The PD patient suffers from motor symptoms such as tremor bradykinesia and rigidity and treatment with levodopa LD the precursor of DA has positive effects on these symptoms Several factors affect the availability of orally given LD Gastric emptying GE is one factor and it has been shown to be delayed in PD patients resulting in impaired levodopa uptake Different enzymes metabolize LD on its way from the gut to the brain resulting in less LD available in the brain and more side effects from the metabolites By adding dopa decarboxylase inhibitors carbidopa or benserazide or COMT inhibitors e g entacapone the bioavailability of LD increases significantly and more LD can pass the blood brain barrier and be converted to DA in the brain It has been considered of importance to avoid high levodopa peaks in the brain because this seems to induce changes in postsynaptic dopaminergic neurons causing disabling motor complications in PD patients More continuously given LD e g duodenal or intravenous IV infusions has been shown to improve these motor complications Deep brain stimulation of the subthalamic nucleus STN DBS has also been proven to improve motor complications and to make it possible to reduce the LD dosage in PD patients In this doctoral thesis the main purpose is to study the pharmacokinetics of LD in patients with PD and motor complications in blood and subcutaneous tissue and study the effect of GE and PD stage on LD uptake and the effect of continuously given LD CDS on LD uptake and GE in blood and cerebrospinal fluid CSF when adding the peripheral enzyme inhibitors entacapone and carbidopa to LD infusion IV in brain during STN DBS and during oral or IV LD treatment To conclude LD uptake is more favorable in PD patients with less severe disease and GE is delayed in PD patients No obvious relation between LD uptake and GE or between GE and PD stage is seen and CDS decreases the LD levels Entacapone increases the maximal concentration of LD in blood and CSF This is more evident with additional carbidopa and important to consider in avoiding high LD peaks in brain during PD treatment LD in brain increases during both oral and IV LD treatment and the DA levels follows LD well indicating that PD patients still have capacity to metabolize LD to DA despite probable pronounced nigral degeneration STN DBS seems to increase putaminal DA levels and together with IV LD treatment also increases LD in brain possibly explaining why it is possible to decrease LD medication after STN DBS surgery Parkinsons sjukdom PS r en av de vanligaste s k neurodegenerativasjukdomarna och orsakas av f rlust av dopamin DA producerande nervceller i hj rnan Detta orsakar motoriska symptom s som skakningar stelhet och f rl ngsammade r relser Levodopa LD r ett mne som kan omvandlas till DA i hj rnan och ge symptomlindring och det r oftast f rstahandsval vid behandling av patienter med PS Flera faktorer p verkar tillg ngligheten av LD bl a den hastighet som mags cken t mmer sig med och denna verkar f rl ngsammad hos personer med PS vilket ger s mre tillg nglighet av LD i blodet och d rmed i hj rnan LD bryts ven ner i h g grad av olika enzym ute i kroppen vilket leder till mindre m ngd LD som hamnar i hj rnan och till fler nedbrytningsprodukter som orsakar biverkningar Till gg av enzymh mmare leder till kad m ngd LD som kan n hj rnan och omvandlas till DA Det anses viktigt att undvika h ga toppar av LD i hj rnan d dessa verkar bidra till utvecklandet av besv rliga motoriska komplikationer hos patienter med PS Om LD ges mer kontinuerligt exempelvis som en kontinuerlig infusion in i tarmen eller i blodet s minskar dessa motoriska komplikationer Inopererande av stimulatorer i vissa delar av hj rnan DBS har ocks visat sig minska dessa motoriska komplikationer och ven resultera i att man kan minska LD dosen Huvudsyftet med den h r avhandlingen r att studera LD hos patienter med PS i blod och fettv vnad d LD ges i tablettform och se om det finns n got samband med LD upptag och hastigheten p mags ckst mningen MT och om kontinuerligt given LD p verkar LD upptaget eller MT i blod och i ryggm rgsv tska d enzymh mmarna entakapon och karbidopa tills tts LD i hj rna vid behandling med DBS och d LD ges b de som tablett och som infusion i blodet Sammanfattningsvis kan vi se att LD upptaget r mer gynnsamt hos patienter med PS i tidigare skede av sjukdomens komplikationsfas MT r f rl ngsammad hos patienter med PS och det r inget tydligt samband mellan LD upptag och MT eller mellan MT och sjukdomsgrad Kontinuerligt given LD minskar LDniv erna Enzymh mmaren entakapon kar den maximala koncentrationen av LD i blod och ryggm rgsv tska och effekten r mer tydlig vid till gg av karbidopa vilket r viktigt att ta i beaktande vid behandling av PS f r att undvika h ga toppar av LD i hj rnan LD kar i hj rnan d man behandlar med LD i tablettform och som infusion i blodet och DA niv erna i hj rnan f ljer LD v l vilket visar p att patienter med PS fortfarande kan omvandla LD till DA trots trolig uttalad brist av de DA producerande nervcellerna i hj rnan DBS verkar ka DA i vissa omr den i hj rnan och tillsammans med LD infusion i blodet verkar det ven ka LD i hj rnan och det kan f rklara varf r man kan s nka
