

Stunning and beautiful not a flower nor a tree,
More breathtaking than those and only I can see,
My heart beats your name right down to the core,
Filling me with such joy and so much more,
Your eyes so amazing, I just can't look away,
They're gorgeous and shining throughout all the day,
Here in my arms is where you belong,
Our two hearts beating to the same song.

Sánchez, 2017-07-11 An award winning and hard hitting new voice in contemporary American poetry The first time I ever came the light was weak and carnivorous I covered my eyes and the night cleared its dumb throat I heard my mother wringing her hands the next morning Of course I put my underwear on backwards of course the elastic didn't work What I wanted most at that moment was a sandwich But I just nursed on this leather whip I just splattered my sheets with my sadness from Poem of My Humiliations What is life but a cross over rotten water Poet novelist and essayist Erika L. Sánchez's powerful debut poetry collection explores what it means to live on both sides of the border the border between countries languages despair and possibility and the living and the dead Sánchez tells her own story as the daughter of undocumented Mexican immigrants and as part of a family steeped in faith work grief and expectations The poems confront sex shame race and an America roiling with xenophobia violence and laws of suspicion and suppression With candor and urgency and with the unblinking eyes of a journalist Sánchez roves from the individual life into the lives of sex workers narco traffickers factory laborers artists and lovers What emerges is a powerful multifaceted portrait of survival Lessons on Expulsion is the first book by a vibrant essential new writer now breaking into the national literary landscape recognition of the mere materiality of the universe and that somehow arising from that is an irrational attachment to friends loves and a man named Ben Mirov The poems are an attempt to speak of these things often opening into imaginative spaces tinged with the absurd The continued disconnect between what the speaker describes and what he may or may not feel is funny until it is revealed to also be sad Dan Magers Ben Mirov writes The high fives are meant to signify celebratory attitudes and reinforce the sense of comradeship we feel in the wake of our semi athletic achievement For the semi athletic achiever in all of us HIDER ROSER gives free 12 high fives Amanda Nadelberg It seems like HIDER ROSER was written by Ben Mirov His name appears on the cover and in the poems the book contains However he did not write this book I did Ben Mirov's function in the process was more like an android receiving messages from an alien source If you ever actually meet the vessel I know as Ben Mirov his personality and conversational capacity will underwhelm you I hope these poems will not be the author of HIDER ROSER
